TO ALL: A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

America Enjoys Happy Holiday; War Engulfs Other Lands

OUR COUNTRY: PEACE! LIBERTY! CHRISTMAS JOY!

Buying Is Heavy; Production Up.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

America on Christmas eve of 1940 was at peace.

No home in all its vast territories was blacked out in fear of bombs. Stores by the thousands were crowded by eager shoppers with funds to buy the abundance of goods offered. Children rejoiced over a showering of gifts such as had not been known in years, and adults indulged the hope that peace would remain.

Among the most important blessings of the American people was the continuance thru the year of the constitutional guaranties of freedom: of speech, of religion, of the press, and of peaceful assembly — guaranties that are nonexistent on the continent of Europe and restricted elsewhere.

Merchants Report Upsurge.

Merchants in cities over the country were all but unanimous in the opinion that there had been an upsurge of Christmas spirit in the one great free nation of the world still at peace.

The railroads, the air lines, and the bus lines had their biggest holiday passenger lists since the 1920s. The postoffice reported its business up.

Only the economists were looking on and pointing to the paradox of today's plenty; that with America at peace purchase of war materials had poured millions into the marts of trade.

Economists, too, were calling attention to the fact that policies having nothing to do with defense have lifted the public debt of the United States to a tremendous 45 billions and have left untouched a stagnant pool of some millions of unemployed reliefers which gets no smaller as business indices rise.

Production Shows Gains.

Contracts for foreign war orders and national defense have brought production in many factories up to capacity. This is especially true of the heavy industries like steel and coal mining. Steel is now turning out its millions of tons at a rate near theoretical capacity.

Altho the American Federation of Labor convention at New Orleans, La., was informed there are still 10 million or more of unemployed persons in the country, its spokesmen admitted that in many fields there is a shortage of skilled labor. Extraordinary efforts are being made by employers in the machine tool and allied industries to find men able to do the work that is needed.

Lumber mills and cement plants are busy trying to catch up with orders growing out of the construction of military camps and new air fields and highways. It has been estimated that the electric utility business ordered 462 millions of new construction this year and will undertake 600 million dollars' worth in 1941.

Food Supply Is Ample.

America's food supplies are ample. Transportation for them gets better yearly and there is no rationing as in every nation of Europe. There is no shortage of high grade foods like meats.

Statistics show that the total farm production in 1940 was greater than in any year except 1937. The upturn in dairy products, particularly butter, was encouraging to the farmers. Beef cattle also sold well thru the year.

In other countries the use of automobiles and the amount of gasoline permitted to operate them is strictly limited. In America there are no restrictions. Recent estimates placed the number of new cars that will be in stock on Jan. 1 at 500,000 and dealers have no fears they will remain long unsold.

And that was the way Santa Claus found America—an America at peace.

ST. LUKE TELLS STORY OF THE SAVIOR'S BIRTH

ST. LUKE

(Chapter II of the gospel as recorded in the King James version.)

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cæ-sar Au-gus-tus that all the world should be [1]taxed.
2 ([b]And this taxing was first made when Cy-re-ni-us was governor of Syr-i-a.)
3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.
4 And Jo-seph also went up from Gal-i-lee, out of the city of Naz-a-reth, into Ju-dæ-a, unto [c]the city of Da-vid, which is called Beth-le-hem; ([c]because he was of the house and lineage of Da-vid:)
5 To be taxed with Ma-ry [a]his espoused wife, being great with child.
6 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.
7 And [k]she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.
8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping [3]watch over their flock by night.
9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: [a]and they were sore afraid.
10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, [f]which shall be to all people.
11 [g]For unto you is born this day in the city of Da-vid [a]a Savior, [a]which is Christ the Lord.
12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.
13 [a]And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,
14 [b]Glory to God in the highest, and on earth [d]peace, [e]good will toward men.

[The familiar Christmas text long has been given as: "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men." A revised version, however, in the interest of scholarship and accuracy, is "Peace on Earth to Men of Good Will."]

15 And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, [7]the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Beth-le-hem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.
16 And they came with haste, and found Ma-ry, and Jo-seph, and the babe lying in a manger.
17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.
18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.
19 [c]But Ma-ry kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.
20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

EUROPE, AFRICA: BATTLES RAGE ON TWO FRONTS

Nazis Give England 'Unofficial' Truce.

LONDON, Dec. 25, Wednesday (AP).—Christmas came peacefully to bomb-scarred Britain today. No bursting bombs, crackling gunfire—not even the ominous drone of hostile planes—bothered Britons in their subdued Christmas observances.

The quiet of blacked-out London was duplicated in the kingdom's countryside and towns, industrial centers, and seaports. Not since yesterday's daylight hours were any reports made of aerial conflict.

Whether it was an unofficial Christmas truce was not known early today. Prime Minister Churchill weeks ago rejected the idea of a Christmas truce, but Hitler was reported to have told a newspaper correspondent "we do not fly at Christmas if the British do not fly."

[Authoritative German sources in Washington, D. C., said Nazi airmen proposed to refrain from bombing Britain until Dec. 27 if the British did not attack Germany.]

But there was little time for celebrating in the Lancashire area of England's industrial northwest, where rescue workers still sought victims of a German mauling last night. Heavy casualties and widespread damage were inflicted.

[The Germans identified the town as Manchester.]

Nazis Claim Sea Victory.

BERLIN, Dec. 24 (AP).—German speedboats in a sudden thrust toward Britain's east coast yesterday sank a 10,000-ton British tanker and a 6,000-ton freighter "despite strong protection" by six destroyers, the German high command reported today.

GREEKS CLAIM NEW SUCCESS

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 24 (AP).—Greek troops carrying out bayonet attacks on the Italians despite heavy snows have captured prisoners, taken "large quantities of material," and won new "appreciable victories," it was reported tonight.

The Greek high command reported eight guns were seized by its troops along with the Italian prisoners and war material in local engagements.

The new triumphs were said by government sources to have been won in the mountains northeast of Chimara, the Adriatic coastal port already wrested from the Italians.

A government spokesman said Fascist positions north and east of Premet in the central sector also were stormed and captured in widespread Christmas eve battles.

"After the victory of Chimara the Italians withdrew," he said. "They intend to offer resistance from strong natural positions at Logara pass, south of Valona."

GUNS ROAR AT BARDIA

WITH BRITISH FORCES OUTSIDE BARDIA, Libya, Dec. 24 (AP).—The battle for Bardia warmed into a great artillery duel this Christmas eve. Guns boomed on both sides and British units slowly drew nearer the ring of fortresses encircling the town, which now has been under attack for eight days.

The steady flow of British reënforcements, including tanks and much artillery, crossing into Libya continued thruout the day.

The main body of Italians, perhaps running to almost two divisions, or about 20,000 men, is entrenched in dugouts and ditches along a dried up river bed outside the town.

In addition to many field pieces and other guns in pillboxes, the Italians have two 13 inch naval guns manned by naval gunners, which the British so far have been unable to silence.

From London came an admiralty report that British naval aircraft raided the harbor of Tripoli, in Italian Libya about 700 air line miles west of Bardia and near French Tunisia, on Dec. 20-21.

Italian Planes Bomb Foe.

ROME, Dec. 24 (AP).—Italian artillery and warplanes were reported today by the high command to be cooperating in pounding British mechanized forces attacking along the Libyan frontier and at Bardia.

Germany Puts Army First in Christmas Fete

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—German children and the old folks were not forgotten on this second Christmas eve of the war, but as the official German news agency, DNB, stressed, it was largely an army celebration.

All day and thruout the evening newspapers and the government controled radio sounded this military note.

German troops anticipated a quiet Christmas with private celebrations.

Millions Away with Army.

With millions of fathers, sons, and brothers in the armed services, the Christmas festivities in many homes were somewhat restrained. Parents did their best to make the traditional festival a happy one for the children, altho few German children received toys as gifts because those available were expensive. However, the usual Christmas tree stood in many German homes because trees were plentiful, at government fixed prices.

Right up until tonight Berlin stores were jammed with shoppers, but finding a gift was a difficult problem. Many goods which normally served as yuletide presents were not available because of the demands of the totalitarian war economy. Most suitable medium priced gifts were sold out long ago and only the cheaper or more expensive wares were available.

Also, to all practical purposes cigars, cigarets, beverages, and candy were not available as gifts. Household articles, except for paintings, china, and statuary, were scarce, as were new radios and phonographs.

Hitler Visits His Troops.

Adolf Hitler went to "the west" to observe Christmas with his soldiers and war workers, DNB said.

Earlier in the day Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, spoke on the radio. He concluded with the exhortation that Christmas celebrations of the war year 1940 should send "a stream of courage and will power into the German people."

Arthur Axmann, leader of the Hitler Youth, expressed the nation's thanks to the parents of the children of the Hitler Youth. Many of the parents are without their children. These youngsters have been evacuated from the big cities and are spending Christmas in the care of Nazi organizations or with families which assumed responsibility for them.

Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering donated savings books with an initial account for $400 to every child of members of flying crews who lost their lives in action.

BITS OF CHRISTMAS AMERICANA COLOR THE HOLIDAY SCENE

Fredericksburg, Tex., Dec. 24 (AP).—All creeds joined in a community Christmas program today. Thomas Coleman, Catholic priest, spoke the invocation. Ivan Donaldson, Methodist minister, introduced the speaker. Theo Haag, Lutheran minister, gave the benediction. Choir members from all churches sang Christmas carols.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 24 (AP).—A little child led them in song—in 50th Avenue Southwest—tonight. After 10 year old Janet learned her father, C. F. Maurer, injured 10 weeks ago, could be brought home from the hospital for Christmas, she sent neighbors notes which said: "The 50th street carolers will meet at our entrance at 7 o'clock Christmas eve, rain or shine. All ages can come. My daddy will be home from the hospital. Let us know if any one is sick, so we can sing for them." And that's how "the 50th street carolers" was born.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—Winnebago county prisoners will eat chicken instead of turkey Christmas day because the oven in the jail stove can't accommodate a turkey large enough to feed all inmates.

Cimarron, Kas., Dec. 24 (AP).—Christmas shopping by some Gray county farmers may be delayed until after the holiday. A mail pouch tossed off a train fell under the wheels, destroying $30,000 in government checks to farmers.

Bethlehem Has Peace but War Casts Shadow

BY JOSEPH FRANCIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BETHLEHEM, Palestine, Dec. 25, Wednesday.—Peaceful and quiet were the streets of Bethlehem today as pilgrims gathered to pay homage at the birth place of Jesus of Nazareth.

Silent for the second Christmas in succession are the guns that once roared in Jewish-Arab strife, and gone are the barricades that blocked passage to the Church of the Nativity.

Absent are the thousands who in other years flocked to this shrine of Christendom from all corners of the earth. The war has kept them away. Absent, too, are the many Italian priests and nuns who in years past have played a big part in the religious pageantry of the season. They are in concentration camps "somewhere in the vicinity of Bethlehem," victims of the conflict that has made their native land an enemy of Britain.

Bonfires Put Out Early.

This little Judean city was shrouded in its first blackout in history last night, in contrast with the traditional blaze of Christmas light. Even the bonfires in shepherds' fields about the city were put out early lest they be a guide to hostile planes. Pilgrims moved into the town by starlight.

The diplomatic corps has lost many of its members thru the war and they, too, were not among those solemnly passing thru the portals of the Nativity.

Only the soldiers allied with the British had changed the almost completely local character of the celebration. French, Polish, and Czech troopers joined the British, Australian, and New Zealand soldiers in traditional customs at the spot where Christ was born.

Soldiers Stroll Unarmed.

Some of the British troops were here two years ago when they guarded the Bethlehem rites with bayonets and machine guns during Arab riots. Then the ancient city was in a state of war and its hospital, postoffice, and police station were destroyed by fire. Today, however, these buildings have been rebuilt and stand as reminders of the peace that has again settled upon the city.

The ceremonies preceding the pilgrims' arrival at the manger were the same as in other years, perhaps a little less elaborate. In them joined the city's rich and poor alike, government officials and other dignitaries.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES, TWO TOWNS, TWO FARMS

This Tale Comes from a Nation at Peace.

Chicago carolers sang last night. Toddlers hung their stockings beside glowing hearths. Neighbors visited each other, bearing gifts, exchanging greetings, sipping of Christmas cheer.

Good Fellows spread the holiday spirit in more than 3,000 homes, and many other charitable organizations provided help for needy families.

The shops, locked for today, have helped spread thruout the big city about $150,000,000 worth of holiday merchandise—jewelry, books, automobiles, evening gowns, vacuum sweepers, furniture, canned goods, shoes. There are more gifts than there were a year ago, more than at any time since 1929.

Many Will Be Traveling.

Chicagoans are hurrying home for Christmas and railroads, buses and planes will be crowded today as they have been for several days. Others will say hello to the folks by telephone—there will probably be 35,000 long distance calls today, the telephone company estimates, an increase of 65 per cent over last year.

Motion picture and legitimate theaters expect heavy attendance today. The volume of Christmas mail in Chicago is 7 to 8 per cent greater than last year.

The Association of Commerce reports that more Chicagoans have jobs than last year, that business in general is better, and that pay rolls are bigger.

It won't be a white Christmas. The weather forecast is continued mild, with rain probably by tonight.

IN A SMALL TOWN

Oregon, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—It's Christmas eve in this town of 2,800, 90 miles west of Chicago. Groups of young people from the churches are singing carols at the homes of shut-ins. Christmas trees, wreaths, and candles shine thru the windows of most of the homes. On the lawns and porches are various lighting effects, spurred on by a contest for cash prizes.

Good Fellows and kindly women are hurrying about with Christmas baskets. No one will be forgotten in Oregon on Christmas eve.

The streets of the business section glow with colored lights and greens are festooned about the light posts. On the courthouse square, in front of the soldiers' memorial, is a representation of the three wise men and the star of Bethlehem.

Christmas music comes from an amplifier in St. Paul's Lutheran church.

As midnight approaches the lights are out in most of the homes. Tomorrow is going to be a big day.

DOWN ON THE FARM

Waterman, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—Nellie, the gentle bay mare, and Silver, her yearling buckskin colt, found an extra ration of corn and oats in their mangers on the Rufus Roberts farm tonight. Thick wooled lambs, weary from foraging in dry brown fields, fell eagerly upon succulent ground feed spread in the troughs in their pens. White faced Hereford steers licked coarse salt sprinkled over their feed as a special delicacy.

It was Christmas eve on this typical Illinois farm 65 miles west of Chicago, and the Christmas spirit that had been hovering about for more than a week had penetrated even to the stock in the barn.

Bedtime at 10 O'clock.

Inside the big white farmhouse there was less concern about food. That could wait until the next day when the Christmas dinner was spread. Tonight the attention of the farmer, his wife, their four small children, and the farmer's mother was centered on the Christmas tree in the living room. Late hours come early on a farm, so distribution of gifts began soon after supper. Bedtime was at 10 o'clock.

Tomorrow will bring a close to the Christmas celebration in the Roberts home. More than 30 relatives will gather in the house to attend the annual family reunion.

And This Tale Is from a Nation Torn by War.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 24.—No church bells—the first time in 1,000 years this has happened here at Christmas time—fewer gifts, more empty chairs at family tables, fewer church services, the conspicuous absence of street carols, no groaning festive board, and an undercurrent of anxiety. All this marks London's Christmas of 1940 as probably the gloomiest the nation has known in the memory of any living person.

Yet every one seemingly is trying to make the best of conditions, altho food prices, the lack of certain Christmas foodstuffs and most luxuries, and the more painful inability of families to gather under the same roof have subdued the best arranged festivities.

Deep down in the subway air raid shelters more than 300,000 persons took up their nightly residence, altho the city had no raid alarm. It was the same scene as every other night—a conglomerate, sprawling pile of humanity, some with grim and pinched faces.

Many Food Items Missing.

Altho there will be champagne, confetti, favors, music, and dancing in hotels and clubs on Christmas night, the Christmas meals of the British will include no bananas, oranges, onions for the turkey dressing, and little of the traditional roast beef and Yorkshire pudding. Altho turkeys were available, they cost 57 cents a pound.

The church bells which usually ushered in Christmas thruout England were silent tonight because they have been reserved as the tocsin that the enemy has landed upon the British mainland and every citizen must be prepared to defend his home.

IN A SMALL TOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

A SMALL COUNTRY TOWN IN SURREY, England, Dec. 24.—The shadow of war hung comparatively lightly this Christmas eve over a small country town not far from bomb scarred London.

Evacuees and troops have increased the town's population, giving the community a prosperous appearance.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent today found the restaurants, pubs, tea shops, and stores doing a brisker trade than any in London. The Christmas rush had almost emptied the food shops.

In the crowded stores blankets, gloves, stockings, shirts, boots, clothing, shelter comforts, and utility articles of all descriptions were in demand as presents.

Lavish decorative displays for Christmas trees, colored lights, balloons, and paper hangings also were missing. After 5:20 p. m., the blackout curfew, no speck of light was visible and few persons were on the streets, altho sounds of revelry could be heard from behind blacked out windows.

DOWN ON THE FARM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LITTLE BOOKHAM, Surrey, England, Dec. 24.—It is "work as usual" for Britain's farmers this Christmas.

The need for producing every possible ounce of food to counteract the losses from ship sinkings means the farmers have to devote more time to their cattle and the extra acres they have been compelled to cultivate.

Yet typical of thousands thruout the country is the 150 acre Preston farm in this tiny village where the Tribune correspondent this evening found a farmer, William Roberts, his rosy cheeked wife, and their two girls, Edna, 11 years old, and Cynthia, 13, all ready to celebrate a traditional family Christmas, tho it will be less lavish than usual.

Christmas day on the farm will begin with the chores at 5:30 a. m.

Then Mrs. Roberts will cook the dinner. The family will sit down in the afternoon in the snug dining room, decorated with holly, ivy, and colored paper, to an ample feast.

After the evening chores, the family will sit around the oak beamed fireside, join in radio carols, pull taffy, and play parlor games until bedtime. The family gifts will be strictly utilitarian.

STELLE PARDONS 5 UNIONISTS WHO KILLED GIRL, 14

Role of C. I. O. in Freeing Gang Is Revealed.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Five men who in 1933 fired a salvo of rifle shots into the home of a deputy sheriff and killed his 14 year old daughter were pardoned yesterday by Gov. John Stelle.

Gov. Stelle.

The killers were members of the Progressive Mine Workers' union, an independent organization which was fighting a bloody battle with the United Mine Workers of America, of which John L. Lewis was president.

It was admitted the pardons were obtained thru the influence of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, which Lewis organized from the nucleus of the United Mine Workers, as a gesture of the C. I. O.'s power. The victim's father had been a member of the United Mine Workers before he was sworn in as a deputy. The Progressive miners subsequently became affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Known as Du Quoin Boys.

The men freed yesterday are Otis Battaglia, 25 years old; Sam Ferro, 34; Robert Shingleton, 30; Barney Bosetto, 36, and Emery Albers, 29. They were known as the Du Quoin boys because their homes were in that city. Their victim also lived in Du Quoin. All but Albers were serving life sentences. Albers was sentenced to 40 years' imprisonment.

The slain girl was La Verne Miller. Her father, Vernon Miller, is said to have consented to the release of the killers. Union pressure was said to have been exerted on him.

At the time of the union strife the slayers rode up and down the streets of Du Quoin terrorizing residents in an attempt to force U. M. W. miners to stop working at one mine.

Armed with Big Rifle.

They were armed with an "elephant rifle" of large caliber. They fired into several homes and the shots which killed the girl passed thru three walls, according to Attorney Walker Butler of Chicago who prosecuted the men.

Butler said the five killers were ably defended by six of the most eminent lawyers of southern Illinois. Otto Kerner, former attorney general, appointed Butler to prosecute the case.

Altho a dozen or fifteen murders were committed in the union war, these five slayers were the only ones convicted. Kerner—now a federal judge—said at the time that the conviction would go far toward returning law and order to the mining district.

"I never worked so hard to put men in prison as I worked in this case," Judge Kerner said last night. "It was a horrible crime. I once was asked to recommend a parole for the men, but I refused, saying they ought to stay in jail. They got what they deserved—they really didn't get enough."

Bids for Freedom Made.

The five refused to name the higher-ups who supplied them with money, weapons, and a plan of attack. A few years after their imprisonment, however, they began negotiations for their freedom in return for disclosing the instigators of the killing.

Credit for obtaining pardons for the five was given to the C. I. O. Reports in Springfield early in October were that Lewis, then boss of the C. I. O. and head of the United Miners, was said to have been personally interested. Ray Edmundson, Lewis' representative in Illinois, was reported to have been active in the campaign for the pardons.

It was said before the Nov. 5 election that the Lewis group wanted to show the Progressives that they, the followers of Lewis, could get the pardons, whereas the Progressives lacked political strength to obtain them.

Stelle Presents Paroles.

Representatives of both unions were present in the statehouse yesterday when the five slayers were brought there from the Menard prison to be handed their pardons by Gov. Stelle.

"These pardons will tend to alleviate and ameliorate any feeling that might exist between the two unions and serve as a definite contribution to the restoration of the fraternal feelings not only of the miners but also within the whole labor movement," said Edmundson.

Joe Sacrino, whose past caught up with him after nearly 20 years, was one of a number of convicts who received Christmas clemency from Gov. Stelle yesterday. Sacrino was convicted of robbery in 1921, but fled and forfeited his bond before he could be taken to prison. He was discovered last February operating a restaurant in Louisville, Ky.

Wins Conditional Pardon.

Gov. Stelle said his 20 years of honest work wiped out his debt to society and he was given a conditional pardon.

Stelle also announced pardons for five alien ex-convicts who served a parole period and now wish to become citizens.

The governor also commuted the sentence of John Malloy, a robber, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1931 as an habitual criminal. The sentence was commuted to 16 years, which will make Malloy eligible for early release.

MORE U. S. SUBMARINES REACH MANILA; REPORT AT LEAST 15 ARE THERE

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 24 (AP).—Several additional United States submarines arrived in Manila bay today. Reliable sources said they brought to at least 15 the number of American undersea craft in Asiatic waters.

Navy men were reluctant to talk, but it was known the Asiatic fleet has been strengthened gradually since a recent massed flight of bombers from Hawaii to the Philippines.

The same sources said the army also was being strengthened, particularly in the air.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

TYDINGS INSISTS U.S. INQUIRE INTO PEACE CHANCES

Wants to Learn Possible Terms to Guide Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—Senator Millard F. Tydings [D., Md.] today called for a determination of the possibility of bringing about a "just peace" between Great Britain and the axis powers before the future course of the United States is decided upon.

Senator Tydings.

Congress, said Tydings in an interview, could act more intelligently on the important international questions awaiting consideration if it knew what are the minimum demands of the opposing sides in the European conflict.

Wants Intelligent Action.

"It would be healthy if our national legislators had more definite information concerning just what the position of Britain and the axis powers is," he remarked. "Then we could act more intelligently in the interests of our own country and of world civilization. We would know who stands in the way of just peace. We would know why we are preparing and what our immediate and eventual rôle is likely to be.

"What are the minimum demands of the axis powers and Great Britain? Of course, if we find a just peace cannot be established, then we would proceed with a will and a vim and more rightly project our country's course in its future international dealings.

Hopes for Concrete Results.

"Perhaps efforts have been and are being made to find out what is possible of accomplishment. I hope they are and that something concrete will come from these efforts.

"If such efforts fail and we were apprised of their failure, we could proceed with more certainty and speed to put this nation in a state where it could deal with any emergency that might arise. So far the congress has not learned that any such efforts are being made and may even now be taking place."

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—An election to determine whether a $100,000 bond issue shall be floated to finance the erection of a new high school building will be held in Flanagan Jan. 2. On November 30 voters of the town voted to build the school but defeated the proposed expenditure of $100,000 with which to pay for it.

ASKS 'AID ALLIES' BODY TO AFFIRM 'NO WAR' STAND

Gen. Wood Urges O. K. on White Statement.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, said yesterday that members of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies can redeem their organization in the eyes of the nation by approving the statement of one of its founders, William Allen White. In this statement, copyrighted by a newspaper chain, White denied charges that he wants to involve the United States in war.

Gen. Robert E. Wood.

"The America First committee welcomes William Allen White's personal statement of yesterday," Gen. Wood said. "He apparently is in essential agreement with our position. He is for maintenance of the neutrality law. Particularly he is against sending American ships and American convoys into the war.

Urges Official Statement.

"If this represents the position of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, the committee should say so officially. This committee, which has been widely suspected of trying to drive the country along the road to war, now has an opportunity to redeem itself in the eyes of the nation by prompt and full approval of Mr. White's statement. If it does, national unity will have been achieved."

Avery Brundage, honorary chairman of the Citizens' Keep America Out of War committee, also expressed pleasure at the contents of the White statement, but appeared to be dubious about accepting it at its face value.

"I was glad to hear Mr. White say that he does not want to involve the United States in war," Brundage said, "but I cannot quite reconcile this statement with his previous statements and actions. Perhaps, however, members of organizations dedicated to keeping the United States out of war have been responsible. It is possible that Mr. White has read some of the data presented by these organizations and has been convinced."

White Explains Stand.

White, in his statement, said the sole purpose of his committee was to keep this country out of the European conflict. He denied that he or his committee favored repeal of the Johnson act [which forbids loans to world war debt defaulters] or that section of the neutrality act which forbids American ships carrying cargoes to the war zone.

Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, took issue with the White statement and declared that war is exactly what the White committee wants. He recalled that White had said in November, "It is time we took sides in this war." At that time White urged dictatorial powers for President Roosevelt, Marshall said.

CHARGES NEW DEAL OFFERED LINDBERGH JOB TO SILENCE HIM

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—The Roosevelt administration tried to buy off Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from his opposition to steps he feared were taking this country into war, C. B. Allen charges in the current Saturday Evening Post in an article entitled "The Facts About Lindbergh."

Allen, aviation authority for the New York Herald-Tribune and friend of Col. Lindbergh, says that when the colonel was preparing to make his first radio address on the war crisis he was visited by an emissary with a message from the White House that "the administration had a definite and desirable post in store for him if he would 'play ball' either by remaining silent or by altering his forthcoming talk to conform with the President's foreign policy."

Allen declares "it was strongly implied" that the administration had decided to set up the air force as a separate defense branch and that Col. Lindbergh would be named secretary for air, "provided he became acquiescent to the President's program of aiding France and England by 'steps short of war.'"

RETIRED MANUFACTURER DIES.

ARGUE SHORTAGE OF ALUMINUM IN BUILDING PLANES

Manufacturer Tells Lack; Producers Deny It.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24 [Special].—Whether the national defense program is faced with an acute shortage of vital aluminum products appeared to be a moot question tonight after counter claims had been made about the situation.

Lamotte T. Cohu.

Lamotte T. Cohu, general manager of Northrop Aircraft, Inc., of Los Angeles, asserted serted that a lack of aluminum materials had necessitated a 20 per cent reduction in the working hours of his plant's 2,000 employés. The corporation holds defense contracts totaling $10,000,000.

Producers Deny Shortage.

A spokesman for the Aluminum company of America said in Pittsburgh, Pa., that there is "positively no shortage of aluminum" for the airplane industry, adding that it had been given priority for aluminum materials. He said a large shipment had been sent to Northrop last week.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., in charge of the industrial materials division of the national defense advisory commission, confirmed reports of a shortage of certain aluminum parts but termed it a temporary one.

A month ago Stettinius told President Roosevelt that plant expansions now under way made certain an ample supply of aluminum for this country's military and civil requirements, with the needs of Great Britain's airplane production superimposed.

At a later press conference Stettinius explained that the interested aluminum plant expansion and production facilities would increase the 1939 output of aluminum two and a half times by July, 1942.

Voluntary Priority Exercised.

The aluminum company has been exercising voluntary priority. Stettinius said, and has placed aviation industry requirements at the top of its list.

The question has been raised in the national defense advisory commission, it was said, concerning a possible need for taking the matter of voluntary priorities out of the hands of the aluminum industry and subjecting priorities to mandatory government action.

The commission is said to be considering whether to place priorities on certain aluminum materials or to rely on the problem being solved by shifting some material from ordinary commercial usages to that of military requirements, based entirely on voluntary action.

Stettinius expressed hope that a conference held this week would result in a solution of the present shortage. The conferees were Stettinius, high army and navy officials, Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, and officers of the Aluminum Company of America.

Partial Explanation Given.

A partial explanation of the shortage—which is said to be in aluminum products and not in pure aluminum—lies in the fact that the rapidly expanding aircraft program had disarranged the aluminum industry's schedules which were geared to a certain military and civilian production pace.

Spokesmen for the aluminum industry said that orders received early enough can be filled, but that the overlapping of programs apparently makes inevitable at least a temporary shortage.

An indication of the length of time needed to prepare aluminum materials was shown by the statement of one company official that from 10 to 30 weeks are required to produce various types of castings of bars, forgings, wire extrusions, and tubings.

Meantime, however, aircraft companies pressed for quick deliveries are reported to be searching for other materials to offset the aluminum shortage. It was said that further use of magnesium metal and magnesium alloys might be a possible source for the aircraft industry.

Makers Point to Difficulty.

Aircraft manufacturers point out that a shortage of one or two aluminum pieces is as serious as a shortage of many because lack of a forging for use in a plane at a certain time would retard completion of the craft as much as if other essentials were unobtainable.

The aviation industry is said to feel that aluminum production possibilities may become increasingly serious after congress makes its financial commitments for this country's 20,000 plane program and after the supplementary British program gets under way next June.

There is some talk in aviation circles of a complete turnabout with reference to the procedure for managing the extraordinary plane building program ahead.

One source said that instead of estimating requirements for airplanes, machine guns, cannon, and other material for the huge defense program it would be better to begin the other way around and estimate the amount of raw materials and factory equipment available.

Under this arrangement, the estimate of planes, guns, and other material that could be produced would be based on supplies and manufacturing resources available.

PLAN TO SET ASIDE CCC CAMPS FOR USE OF DRAFT OBJECTORS

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—A plan for setting aside certain Civilian Conservation corps camps for some conscientious objectors to the national draft law was announced here today.

Dr. Thomas E. Jones, whose appointment to direct such activities was announced Sunday by the American Friends [Quaker] Service committee, said arrangements already have been made to take over three CCC camps—one on the outskirts of Baltimore and two in Virginia. Eventually, he added, it is proposed to operate 30 or 40 such camps, all with private funds supplied by three peace societies—the Friends, the Church of the Brethern, and the Mennonites.

Dr. Jones, who has been granted a leave of absence as president of Fisk university at Nashville, Tenn., said the government had estimated there will be 10,900 objectors in the first 800,000 men drafted. About half are expected to be willing to perform noncombatant service in the army. The remainder, who will serve only under civilian auspices, will be taken care of under the direction of Dr. Jones.

Germany Appoints New Minister to Bucharest

ALUMINUM ROW TURNS ATTENTION UPON MAGNESIUM

Metal Taken from Salt Wells and Sea.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The dispute over whether America faces a shortage of aluminum parts for its rearmament program has drawn attention to another metal—magnesium—which is fast increasing in use in the aircraft and other industries and already is playing an important rôle in the defense program.

Dow Chemical is the only American company that produces the metal in large quantities. One other producer, Aluminum Company of America, has entered the field recently.

Almost magically, the strong, light metal comes from brine wells in Michigan and—thru a new 15 million dollar Dow Chemical plant in Freeport, Tex.—from the limitless resources of the sea. Alloyed with aluminum, manganese, or zinc, it may be forged, drawn, punched and otherwise processed.

Production Growing Rapidly.

Dow Chemical currently is producing magnesium under the trade name of Dowmetal at the rate of 12 million pounds a year. Within another week or two, when the new plant gets under way, the output rate will be 24 million pounds a year, and within another 12 months the rate may reach 48 million pounds, it was learned last night.

Here, in some detail, is the story of magnesium as developed by Dow Chemical:

Strength Equals Steel.

In the past all of the commercial output of magnesium in America has been derived from brine pumped from 150 wells which tap a vast underground salt sea underlying the company's property at Midland, Mich. From the brine, by means of chemical processes patented by the company, is derived, along with about 400 other products, magnesium chloride.

An alloy consisting usually of 94 to 96 per cent of magnesium, Dowmetal can be made to be only 22 per cent as heavy as steel. When made to weigh one-third as much as steel, it becomes equal in strength.

Dowmetal is widely used in warplane construction and in other fields, such as tools, where lightness and strength are required. According to the maker, it is equal in tensile strength to aluminum and one-third lighter. Thru 20 years of experimentation Dow has reduced the cost from $3.50 a pound to 27 cents.

While American military authorities are said to have been slower to adopt magnesium for warplanes than has been the case in Germany, it is understood that 300 pounds or more of Dowmetal is being used in a modern 1,200-horse power aircraft engine. Germany is said to use 10 times more magnesium in all industries than the United States. In the recent past, the proportion has been 100 million pounds or more a year in Germany, compared with 10 or 11 millions in the United States.

Supply Is Plentiful.

There has been no shortage of magnesium in the United States, Dow Chemical having been able to produce it as fast as industry absorbed it.

W. H. Dow, president of Dow Chemical, said last night that the company can meet any foreseeable demand. The only bottleneck that could develop, he said, would be a possible, but not likely, inability to get additional equipment for deriving the magnesium from brine. No such difficulty is in sight, he said.

REPORT FOUR FLYERS DEAD IN CRASH OF TWO U. S. PLANES IN CUBA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 24.—Reports from Santiago, Cuba, tonight stated that the bodies of four United States navy flyers were found today in the Sierra Maestra mountains, where their two planes had crashed. Earlier reports had indicated that only one plane crashed on a bomber squadron's flight from Havana to the United States naval base at Guantanamo. Only one of the flyers was identified. He was Capt. Roberts, chief of the three plane squadron, whose plane struck a tree. The other plane hit a mountain near where Capt. Roberts' plane crashed.

MORE WEAPONS KEY TO BRINGING END TO WAR, SAYS BRITON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—If Germany can be made to realize that the production of war weapons is being rapidly stepped up in both Great Britain and the United States, the war can be ended.

Arthur Purvis.

This was the assertion today of Arthur Purvis, head of the British purchasing commission, after an hour's conference with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. Purvis has just flown by Clipper plane from London, where he consulted with British officials and then returned to this country to lay before this government the latest figures on Britain's war equipment needs.

Purvis said he told Secretary Morgenthau that the "key to the situation" was ever increasing supplies of armaments.

"That is the keynote to stopping the war—by sheer weight," he said. "It will bring realization by Germany that she can't accomplish what she set out to do. We have to do in a short time what Germany did in years."

REPORT GERMANY AND TURKEY SIGN NEW TRADE PACT

[Reports from the Hungarian border said thousands of German troops with full war gear crossed into Rumania Monday.]

BERLIN, Dec. 24 (AP).—Reliable sources today reported that Germany has concluded a new trade treaty with Turkey. Its scope was not disclosed.

[Turkey has a mutual aid pact with Britain and last month a new British-Turkish trade accord was signed. Turkey, however, has maintained trade relations with Germany.]

These sources also confirmed reports that additional German troops were being sent to Rumania, but added that it simply was a case of complementing divisions already there. Modern warfare requires so much mechanical equipment, it was added, that enormous train loads are necessary for relatively small units and laymen frequently mistake regiments for divisions.

TAILOR SHOP BANDITS SEIZE $160.

Three bandits invaded John Schuhr's tailor shop at 5362 Lawrence avenue last night and robbed him of $140 and his helper, Michael Meegan, 1438 Washington boulevard, of $20.

POPE PIUS TELLS WORLD HOW TO MAKE NEW ORDER

Calls for Triumph Over Hatred and Mistrust.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24 (AP).—Pope Pius today declared that in the search for the new order of the future men and nations must triumph over hatred, over mistrust, over the notion that might makes right, over economic maladjustment and "cold egoism."

In a Christmas eve message to the college of cardinals he said that while the war goes on there is little hope for such a restoration.

Nevertheless, he expressed a "heartfelt wish" that when the guns shall have fallen silent at last humanity and its leaders "will be sufficiently matured intellectually and capable in action to prepare the ground of the future for a new order that will be solid, true, and just."

"We pray God," he added, "that it may so happen."

Says Church Can't Favor a System.

The church herself could not be called upon to favor one over another of "the contrasting systems which are part of our times and dependent upon them," he said, since her "sole longing" was to provide to all the world's peoples "the clear waters of the fountains of our patrimony and values of Christian life. . . ."

But for a society that "would be humanly praiseworthy and spiritually elevated and a source of genuine good," he went on, there were these "indispensable prerequisites":

"ONE—Triumph over hate, which is today a cause of division among peoples; renunciation, therefore, of the systems and practices from which hate constantly receives added nourishment.

"TWO—Triumph over mistrust, which bears down as a depressing weight on international law and renders impossible the realization of any sincere agreement.

Assails Might as Right.

"THREE—Triumph over the distressing principle that utility is a basis of law and right and that might makes right. . . .

"FOUR—Triumph over those germs of conflict which consist in two sided differences in the field of world economy; hence progressive action, balanced by correspondent degrees, to arrive at arrangements which would give to every state the medium necessary for insuring the proper standard of living for its own citizens of every rank.

"FIVE—Triumph over the spirit of cold egoism which, fearless in its might, easily leads to violation not only of the honor and sovereignty of states but the righteous, wholesome and disciplined liberty of citizens as well."

The pope spoke of the sorrow which had been brought to him by the "misfortunes of the prisoners of war."

". . . Altho our aim has been frustrated in some countries," he added, "our efforts have not been in vain everywhere since we have succeeded in bringing many material and spiritual evidences of our concern to at least a portion of the Polish prisoners; and indeed other more fortunate evidences of that same solicitude to Italian prisoners and internes, especially in Egypt, Australia, and Canada.

"Nor was it our desire that the holy feast of Christmas should dawn in the world without our conveying thru the medium of our representatives some definite manifestation of our encouraging remembrance and benediction to English and French prisoners in Italy, to Germans in England, and Greeks in Albania, and to Italians scattered thruout various parts of the British empire. . . .

Striving to Help Refugees.

"Eager, therefore, to make our own the anxieties of families, fearful for the lot of their separated and unfortunate relations, we have undertaken and are actively advancing and developing yet another task of no small magnitude, namely that of requesting and transmitting information wherever it is possible and permissible to do so, not only concerning countless prisoners but also concerning refugees and those whom the present calamities have so sadly separated from fatherland and home.

". . . No less comforting is it to us to have been in a position to console with the moral and spiritual assistance of our representatives, or with an offering of our resources, the large numbers of refugees and expatriates and emigrants, including 'non-Aryans.'"

Appeals for Peace

(Story in adjoining column.)

Pope Pius XII., who yesterday denounced rule of force and pleaded for a "new European system" in annual Christmas message.

ITALY SNEERS AT CHURCHILL PLEA TO GIVE UP WAR

ROME, Dec. 24—Winston Churchill's appeal to the Italian people over Premier Mussolini's head was met with blasts of defiance and denunciation by Fascist spokesmen today, and the royal family itself made a show of loyalty to the Fascist régime and its course in the war. Churchill urged the Italians to overthrow Mussolini and give up the war which he said would be ruinous for Italy.

Virginio Gayda, one of Fascism's most authoritative editors, declared that the appointment of Anthony Eden to head the British foreign office was a "worthy crown in this foggy end of a year of extreme Churchill politics."

He called Eden a "typical representative of British arrogance;" an embodiment of "insolent hostility," and said his elevation could "only hasten the victory of the axis powers.

Dr. Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of the Leghorn Telegrafo, went on the air with a violent retort to Churchill. Earlier, the government itself had answered that "the war will continue on all fronts until victory" and King Victor Emmanuel had declared in a Christmas message to the nation's armed forces that "no obstacle and no difficulty may halt the glorious rise of Italy."

SANTA GETS HIS MAIL IN DEAD LETTER OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25, Wednesday (AP).—Burton G. Cowles, superintendent of the dead letter office—the Santa Claus few persons know—today beamed over a job well done.

Cowles was talking about letters to Santa Claus.

"Thousands upon thousands of them," he said, "are mailed all over the United States every year." Children, of course, are the senders.

"Years ago," said Cowles, "we received authorization to deliver these kiddie letters as we saw fit." Post-office branches collect the letters and pack them off to institutions which are helping needy children during the holiday.

Cowles said the Santa Claus letters form the basis for charity presents in many cities, and more institutions every year request them.

"The only trouble," he said, "is that lots of the little fellows believe so implicitly in Santa that they don't give their addresses."

KNOCK ENGLAND TO GROUND, NAZI SOLDIERS URGED

War Chief Hints Army Still Plans Invasion.

BERLIN, Dec. 24 (AP).—Amid the big guns which point at England from the German occupied French coast, Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of Adolf Hitler's army, declared today: "The ocean can protect England only so long as it suits us."

The commander in chief made what German sources said was a surprise visit to a long range battery on the channel coast [one is situated at Cape Gris Nez] and, from there, spoke over a Germany-wide radio hookup to the German army.

Hints Invasion Not Abandoned.

His words indicated that German plans for invasion of England are in no sense obsolete.

[Early yesterday British bombers gave the channel "invasion ports" a heavy pounding, following reports of considerable military activity there. British leaders have been warning for days that an invasion attempt may be imminent.]

"I know," Von Brauchitsch told the troops, "that you all are just burning with desire at last to meet the English, and that you are merely awaiting the Fuehrer's command to do so."

"One Task Lies Ahead."

Just one task lies ahead of the army, he said, and that is to "knock to the ground this last embittered adversary"—England—"and thereby compel peace to issue forth. It's a question of breaking England's one-sided hegemony."

Of the German war dead, he said: "Nothing so binds people together as blood spent."

Mystery Blast Rips Milan Lubricant Plant; 4 Killed

BERLIN'S SANTA GIVES SOLDIERS EXTRA RATIONS

Barracks Ring with Song of Yule Festivals.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—Barracks in Berline echoed tonight to the hoarse singing of soldiers and speeches in the staccato tone typical of German military men as the troops met in their annual Christmas festivals.

In one of the barracks I attended a celebration in which 300 soldiers were gathered for song toasts and to see many of their members receive awards and promotions.

Dressed in their field gray service uniforms, the men sat at three long tables in a room in which the swastika battle flag competed for attention with streams of evergreen, a gaily decorated tree, and other Christmas symbols. On a wall opposite one swastika were the words "Froehliche Weihnachten" [Merry Christmas] in large red letters.

Extra Rations Issued.

Before coming to the celebration, the soldiers received a meal with extra rations, including soup and roast, red cabbage, and potatoes. They were then each given an extra ration of five glasses of beer for the party.

In front of each was a plate of gifts consisting of a raisin cake, an apple, two bars of chocolate, cookies, and hard candy. In addition, there was a Christmas present valued at 4 marks [$1.60]—a pocketbook or an article of similar worth.

Conspicuous by their absence were such things as oranges, bananas, and nuts, which must be imported and are rare in Germany.

Men Howl with Laughter.

Most of the entertainment was musical, altho one feature was a humorous "newspaper" which was greeted with howls of laughter. The entertainers performed on a platform in front of two trees hung with electric lights and silver balls. As his name was called, each soldier arose, clicked his heels, and strode forward to receive his award or promotion.

The men varied widely in age; some barely were out of their teens, but bald heads indicated many others were in their late forties.

BRITISH SOLDIERS KINDLE GREECE'S YULETIDE SPIRIT

War Brings New Zest to Christmas Feast.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 24.—Christmas eve in Athens this year was more of a festive occasion than ever before, and strangely it was because of the war.

The war has brought large numbers of Britons here to help the Greeks and where the British go they take Christmas celebrations with them. For the Greeks themselves Christmas is much less of an occasion than New Year's day or Easter.

British troops in Greece have arranged for Christmas dinners and Christmas parties when duty permits. War is war, but Christmas is Christmas, too.

No Exchange of Gifts.

Such Christmas celebrations as Greek circles enjoy are almost entirely an innovation of the last 20 or 30 years. Christmas trees and Christmas presents were introduced into well-to-do Greek families by English or German nurses or governesses.

In the old Greek tradition there is no hanging up of stockings and no exchange of presents. The presents usually are given at Easter, tho the children get gifts also on Jan. 1—St. Basil's day. Since Basil was a child saint this is a children's holiday and particular attention is paid to sweets and toys.

The presents brought by St. Basil, instead of St. Nicholas, are called Bunmadas.

Roast Family Pig.

For the peasants, Christmas eve is the beginning of a week's feast. They cannot often afford meat, but at Christmas time they butcher the family pig and roast it. For the rest of the week they dine on roast pork and after New Year's day they salt whatever is left of the pig. The salt pork is their chief meat supply for the rest of the year.

Christmas eve also marks the end of all farm work until Epiphany—Jan. 6—when the ceremony of blessing the waters is carried out. During the two weeks' interval, peasants assert, the world is roamed by evil spirits, called Kallikanzari. If seed is sown or work undertaken during that period, the spirits will interfere and see that the work is wasted. After the blessing of the waters they must return into the earth to await the next Christmas.

Put Silver Coin in Cake.

Families in towns who are better off than the peasants have their roast turkey at Christmas—stuffed with chopped meat, chestnuts, and raisins. On New Year's day each family has a special cake. It is like sweetened bread and has a silver coin baked in it to bring good luck for the new year to the person who finds it.

With the British here, the Greeks are showing new interest in Christmas festivities and probably new Christmas customs will take root in Greece. But for the present the New Year's day still is the bigger feast and the day when the Greek soldiers at the front will get special rations and gifts from home.

Greeks Press On

Arrows locate the spearheads of the three Greek thrusts against Italian troops in Albania as of yesterday. New successes were claimed in Athens.

Many Prisoners Go Free as Gift from Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 24.—Many prisoners thruout Nicaragua are being pardoned for Christmas. Even some internees on Little Corn Island, off the east coast, will enjoy clemency. President Anastasio Somoza, in signing the pardons, said, "I want all to be happy at Christmas."

KAISER MARKS FIRST CHRISTMAS IN DOORN NOW RULED BY HITLER

DOORN, the Netherlands, Dec. 24 (AP).—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II., now a white bearded octogenarian, celebrated his first Christmas eve under German occupation of Holland in perfect health today.

With him was probably the smallest circle of relatives since his exile began 22 years ago. Besides the Kaiserin Hermine, only the latter's youngest daughter, Henrietta, and her newlywed husband, the Kaiser's grandson, Karl Franz Joseph, attended.

The aged ex-monarch in his accustomed manner presented gifts to Dutch employés at his castle, and to the German household, including German guards posted there by Adolf Hitler's order. Wilhelm read the Christmas gospel to a small devout assemblage. Gifts were distributed to all needy persons in Doorn village.

CHRISTMAS EVE BLACKOUT CUTS FRENCH GAYETY

Many Pray for Peace in Midnight Services.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Dec. 25 [Wednesday]. — Christmas eve celebrations took place in the unoccupied zone of France last night in accordance with tradition, but with gayety restrained in a blackout.

In the larger towns, such as Lyons, Marseilles, Toulouse, and Nice, religious services were conducted as usual at midnight, with many praying for the return of French prisoners and the end of the war. The people went home in darkened streets, however, instead of going to restaurants and hotels to feast. Food rationing and lack of transportation were the reasons.

Drop Some Midnight Rituals.

In Paris, in the occupied zone, and in areas in the free zone where blackout restrictions are more disturbing, religious services were conducted at 5 or 6 a. m., the midnight ritual being suspended under a dispensation from the Vatican.

In most towns of the free zone, closing hours were extended to 1 a. m. for restaurants, cabarets, and theaters. A certain amount of revelry took place in establishments frequented by wealthier customers in the cities. In Nice, Marseilles, and Lyons there was plenty of gayety until 1 a. m., but it was much like what the French used to call "reveillion" [a Christmas eve revel] and the customers had to present ration tickets.

Courage, Petain Urges.

In Vichy, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state, in a Christmas eve broadcast voiced the thoughts of every one toward the 2,000,000 prisoners and other French war sufferers.

"A new France is born," he said. "Have confidence, my friends, take courage and close your ranks about me tonight so that this new France may develop and gather strength.

"Let us not forget that Christmas is a festival of hope. Our nation will rise stronger and greater for the sufferings you endure."

The marshal attended a movie, and early this morning went to religious services.

Families' Funds Curtailed.

French parents did their best to create the usual Christmas spirit with lessened means. A fair amount of Christmas tree business seems to have been done.

Because of straitened circumstances, most families' toy purchases were curtailed. Emphasis was laid in the last few days on collections of toys and gifts for orphans and children.

Engaged

MISS ELEANOR ROOSEVELT.

Dedham, Mass., Dec. 24 (AP).—The engagement of Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, niece of the first lady, to Edward Proctor Elliott, son of Mrs. Arthur Spencer Elliott of Brierly, Yorkshire, England, was announced today at a tea given by Miss Roosevelt's mother, Mrs. John Cutter.

Miss Roosevelt, who made her debut in the White House two years ago at a Christmas dance given in her honor by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, is the daughter of G. Hall Roosevelt, brother of the first lady.

She and Elliott became acquainted while at Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., where Miss Roosevelt was studying sculpture. A graduate of Liverpool university, Elliott was engaged in research in architectural design. At present he is working on national defense at Norfolk, Va.

4 LATIN AMERICA LANDS SKIPPED BY SANTA CLAUS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 24 (AP).—Santa Claus skipped entire nations in Latin America tonight.

In Argentina, Peru, Cuba, and Mexico Christmas is purely a religious day and gifts are given children on Jan. 6—the day of the three wise men.

Most of the other Latin American countries had their equivalents of Santa Claus tonight. Brazilian children put out shoes for "Papa Noël," borrowed from the French. Chilean children had their "viejito"—Little Father Christmas, and in Colombia, Venezuela, and Ecuador gifts were given children in the name of the Christ child.

British Mine Workers Get Pay Boost for Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—British mine workers got this Christmas present from Will Lawther, head of the Mine Workers' federation: Announcement that wage increases of 10 cents per shift for adults and 5 cents for boys would become effective for the quarter beginning Jan. 1.

FINNS TO DINE ON REINDEER FOR THEIR CHRISTMAS

Santa's Animals Fill Out Scant Rationed Foods.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 24. —Herds of Santa Claus' reindeer have been slaughtered to help provide the Finns with a Christmas dinner. In former years the Finns ate ham baked in a huge loaf of rye bread for Christmas. This Christmas, however, finds meat rigidly rationed and each Finn allowed to buy only two cents' worth each day. Since reindeer meat is not included in the rationing, many Finns have purchased saddles of reindeer for their holiday dinner.

The reindeer will be a novelty for many families, however, because smoked reindeer meat never was very popular in Finland so long as ham and other meats were obtainable and fresh reindeer meat seldom was seen on the market until this year. The source of the reindeer meat is the herds which range the tundras of Finnish Lapland, far north of the Arctic circle.

Fought to Save Christmas.

One of the things for which the Finns fought the Russians a year ago was the privilege to continue celebrating Christmas. They retained their independence and this right, altho one eighth of their population, most of them farmers, lost their homes in the territory ceded to Russia. So even tho this will be a lean Christmas, it will be an especially joyful holiday for Finland because it finds the country at peace, with no unemployed, and working hard to repair its war losses.

There are three traditional dishes which appear in every Finnish dining room on Christmas. This year the great majority can afford only one, the boiled stockfish. The ham and the prune tartlet, which followed, are missing.

Extra Coffee Issued.

In addition to the rationing, it is difficult to find food bootleggers in Helsingfors and the few from whom food can be purchased ask $25 for a ham. On the market a small turkey costs $9, a goose $10, and a chicken $2. Poultry is not rationed.

By carefully storing the precious and infrequent cargoes of foodstuffs arriving from America, Finland was able to issue a special Christmas ration to citizens. Every one has obtained an eighth of a pound of coffee, a half pound of coffee substitute, a quarter pound of sugar, and a quarter pound of dried fruit. Each child was permitted one cake of soap.

In the Baltic lands of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, which last July were taken over by Russia, the people tonight faced the most miserable Christmas they have experienced. The new communist owners of the Baltic states have increased wages from 15 to 40 per cent, but the price of foodstuffs has increased from 300 to 400 per cent. Clothing prices are just as far beyond the pocketbooks of the Baltic farmers as they are beyond the means of the ragged workers of Moscow or Leningrad.

Since the Red army marched into these three countries, the people have seen their surpluses of food and clothing wiped out. They have unemployment where there was none, and there are many needy whereas before it was hard to discover any one poorly clothed or hungry.

THE YULE SCENE IN AN IRISH HOME OF COUNTY MAYO

Prayers This Year Show Deeper Anxiety.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALLINA, County Mayo, Ireland, Dec. 24.—In no country in the world does Christmas mean more than it does in Ireland.

This Christmas, Ireland, being in a position of delicate neutrality in the midst of siege and bombardment, prayers in this predominantly Catholic nation will be offered with deeper anxiety than at any time since the civil war of 1923 or, perhaps, the famine of 1847.

It is appropriate, therefore, that THE TRIBUNE correspondent should be living this Christmas amid a typical Irish family of 16 children in a small town near the west coast.

The Egan family is average in circumstances. Most of the original 16 children who still are living have left home, but the places of several already have been taken by a new generation.

Away from Home Hearth.

As is usual in Ireland, the grown up children with better educations have gone to England or America as doctors, priests, teachers, nurses, or the like. One son was killed in the civil war. Another was held prisoner by the British and reputedly given the third degree to extract information about the rebels.

The youngest son is in the Irish army. Two daughters are nuns. A third at home is an invalid. The father died in the influenza epidemic of 1918.

The simple devout old mother still runs the general store on the ground floor of the family home she inherited, selling timber, iron goods, canned goods, and liquor. The youngest daughter, Patricia, rosy cheeked and 23 years old, helps her, also Josephine, living at home after three years in the American hospital in Paris.

10 Living in the House.

A total of 10 now are living in the house. A fireplace in each bedroom burning peat and bedtime hot water bottles are the heating system, supplementing the kitchen stove, but the people of this gulf stream island, unprepared for cold weather, carelessly leave their doors open and normally breaths can be seen in the house in frosty weather.

Altho tuberculosis, bronchitis, pneumonia, and influenza are common, the Irish, like the English, regard comfortable room temperatures as softening, unhealthy, and symptomatic of easy, sinful living.

Bathtubs and hot water heaters are rare gadgets in this town and the Egans wash only in cold water in bowls before breakfast. All drinking water must be carried by pail from a spring on the outskirts of town.

Scarcity of Fruits.

Breakfast normally consists of lean bacon, sausages tea, bread, butter, and sometimes eggs and marmalade. Dinner and supper usually include meat, potatoes, cabbage, gravy, and pudding, besides bread and tea. Supper before bedtime may be only bread, cheese, and tea.

Unlike in England, apples and pears are rare here and other fruits are unobtainable, while meat is plentiful and butter is not scarce. In this connection it is interesting that the population of Ireland, despite the prolific families, has halved in the century just past, while the numbers of cattle have almost doubled, now exceeding the humans.

Even the poor Irish country families will have their Christmas mutton or goose this year, perhaps even turkey, and, of course, plum pudding.

Communion at Noon Mass.

The event of the day for most families will come before dinner, however. It will be receiving holy communion at noon mass. From miles around Catholic country folk in black coats and shawls will come on bicycles, donkeys, or on foot to the stone village church. The roads winding over the rocky hills are narrow and doubtless frost will glisten, as it did this morning, hoary and purple on the rambling stone walls that flank both sides.

There are peat bogs in the little valleys and piles of peat at each of the farmhouses with their white and frosted thatched roofs. Here and there one of the new galvanized iron roofs from the Egans' store will glisten in the frosty silver sunshine. Where there are no stone walls, brambly hawthorne hedges will form the background to the scene of dark clad figures trudging to church.

Tinkling Church Bells.

Tinkling church bells among the cheery high-pitched greetings, "Happy Christmas to Ye," and the occasional mooing of a lonely black cow or clatternig jackdaws crowding the solitary tree in the landscape will complete the picture.

After church comes dinner, which is the feast of the year. Then each family circle is a unit unto itself. In many homes one of the uncles will play Santa Claus and bring dolls and toys to the gray eyed and freckled kids around the peat box at the hearth.

The Egans' store, like others of the numerous pubs in the town, will be closed and empty of the usual men visitors standing and wisecracking with cold clouds of breath over their cold stout at the counter for hours at a time.

The children will get their presents upstairs while the mother waits near the window, watching for the fat postman, who by tradition comes into every home on Christmas day, handing packages to each person and receiving a glass of brandy or wine and the customary tip.

Mummers the Next Day.

The day after Christmas will come the "mummers," street minstrels begging for the coins customarily tossed to them this day, and there will be fashionable dances in the town hall, with even the poorest lads wearing tails, and old time folk dances, too.

About the rooms of the ancient Egan house, which appropriately once was the village inn, with a tunnel for coaches thru the middle, are numerous crucifixes and religious pictures and the usual colored figures representing the three wise men and other Christmas characters. In fact, the whole atmosphere here seems particularly to revolve around Christmas.

It is partly the Irish character. The Irish are fighting people and their battles have many ups and downs. The struggle between body and soul seems to be more uncertain in Ireland than in the other countries, with more punishment delivered on both sides. Christmas is one day each year, however, that the warm heart of the devout Irish gives the soul its most certain victory.

'GROWN UP ORPHAN' CHEERS UP WILLIAM WITH YULETIDE GIFT

William Holson, 1½ years old, still wants his mommy. He was taken to St. Vincent's orphanage with his younger brother, Gus James, 2 months old, when his mother, Alice, deserted the children in a rooming house at 2639 Adams street. He was cheered somewhat yesterday, however, when he was presented with a $1 bill, the gift of a "grown up Chicago orphan," C. Raymond Larson of Milwaukee, Wis.

William Holson.

Larson sent the money to Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, when he saw the child's picture in a Milwaukee newspaper. The note read: "Please use this dollar for this kid. Many years ago thru you I, as a little orphan, got a big red hard candy horse. It dried my tears, and, believe me, I have never forgotten it."

Sister Mary Alice will buy William a Christmas present with the dollar.

SPAIN DOUBLES BREAD RATION FOR CHRISTMAS DAY

Government Spreads Gifts Among Poor.

BY MAURICE ENGLISH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 24.—Spaniards will celebrate Christmas in the spirit of a people who, even if they have had few material blessings this year, are thankful for the great blessing of neutrality in the European war.

Traditional ways of celebrating Christmas, which disappeared during the civil war, have been revived this year and government leaders joined the Falange party social auxiliary in trying to spread good cheer among the poor.

The happiest Christmas in Spain probably will be that of the lucky winners in the 85 million peseta lottery [the peseta was quoted around 5 cents before the start of the European war], which was drawn Saturday. Prizes were passed out on Monday and Tuesday, and the lucky ones will be able to wine and dine their friends.

Housing Projects Opened.

In many cities the government helped to make today one of good cheer by opening a series of housing projects for workers' families. In Madrid alone members of 1,200 poor families celebrated Noche Buena, as they call Christmas eve, in 225 small homes built near the wrecked University City.

Elsewhere, under orders of Gen. Francisco Franco, the Falangist social auxiliary passed out food, clothes, and medicine to the needy. The least lucky in Madrid got a double ration of bread, which was increased for Christmas day from 150 grams [about 5¼ ounces] a person to 300 grams.

Mrs. Alexander Weddell, wife of the United States ambassador, gave a party at the embassy for 90 Spanish orphans.

Festivities Center in Park.

The center of festivities in Madrid was Retiro park, the former royal pleasure ground, where a life size replica of the Bethlehem manger was set up, complete with Roman soldiers, shepherds, and angels. Squares in the old section of Madrid also had replicas of the manger.

Christmas eve is a time for family festivals in Spain and it was celebrated in the homes. Shops were closed, street car and subway services were shut down, and lucky citizens dined on suckling pigs or turkey washed down with red Rioja wine. After dinner the family groups went to midnight masses and, on their way home, listened to street singers.

BENES SENDS YULETIDE MESSAGE OF CHEER TO CZECHS IN AMERICA

LONDON, Dec. 24 (AP).—Eduard Benes, president of the provisional Czech government in exile in Britain today broadcast a Christmas message to Czecho-Slovaks in the United States.

He said the reëlection of President Roosevelt was a "determining point" in the war.

"Germany's severe defeat in her effort to invade England, Italy's unsuccessful attack on Greece, the rescue of Egypt, and the present control of the Mediterranean by Britain seem to be definite turning points in the war," Benes added.

Shoppers Inconvenienced as Fire Reroutes Trolleys

Fire that broke out yesterday afternoon on the second floor at 739-41 North Clark street was brought under control by firemen after a battle of an hour and a half, during which street cars were rerouted, much to the inconvenience of shopping crowds. Most of the $1,000 damage, due to smoke and water, was suffered by Levinson's Loan bank on the first floor.

YULE IN FLORIDA: A KALEIDOSCOPE OF CELEBRATION

A Million Visitors Join in Varied Festivities.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 24.—Christmas is overtaking a million persons in Florida far from their homes. It's a heterogeneous million, ranging from the so-called tincan tourists in their cabins and trailers to the so-called millionaires in their lavish winter colonies and their expensive hotels. Their observances of the holiday will be as varied.

This is also Christmas eve in Florida for more than a million and a half others who are here the year around. They, too, are observing the holiday in a variety of ways.

It's Christmas eve here without snow, without icicles hanging from eves, without blazing fireplaces. Most of the Florida visitors came here to avoid a rigorous winter. But on Christmas, there seems to be a trace of nostalgia for the more lusty climate, even among those with gay plans for the yuletide.

Tourists Have Own Parties.

"It seems strange, such warm weather for Christmas," said T. R. Bell, who describes himself as a New Jersey manufacturer retired to pasture. Mr. Bell, over 60, white haired, tanned, and vigorous, was interviewed at the shuffle board court of his trailer and cottage camp on the outskirts of Miami.

In the recreation hall at the camp tonight, with a decorated tree on the stage, a party was held, with the campers providing their own talent in singing and playing carols.

There were hundreds of such parties thruout Florida tonight. Resort towns and cities—that's almost all of them—staged more pretension affairs, with choruses and entertainment paid for with tax funds or chambers of commerce money. The visitors must not get too homesick.

"John's so sentimental," said a buxom trailer wife of her husband, a retired Detroit fireman. "I'm going to try to cook him a turkey on this dinky stove." Then she added, smilingly as she brushed a tear from her cheek: "You know this is our first Christmas away from home."

Some Celebrate in Style.

At Miami Beach, the wealthy, and those who enjoy a vacation near the wealthy, are celebrating in style. The fancy cocktail lounges, the exclusive clubs, and the expensive hotels and night clubs served champagne dinners. A civic group organized a flotilla of power boats to carry carol singers on a cruise of the canals bordered by winter homes in tropical landscaping.

At more sedate Palm Beach, colonists are entertaining at their winter homes and at their clubs and hotels.

On the highways, making one night stands at places picked to fit modest budgets, are multitudes of motorists from the north, circling the peninsula in a quick sightseeing trip that must be completed in a two weeks' vacation. Their Christmas dinner will be at a roadside counter.

Some of these hurried travelers will pause for a swim, so they can write home about bathing on Christmas, and hope the letter is received during a snow storm. Others will get pink seeking a tan to show the fellows back in the office.

It's Also a Church Day.

Christmas also is a church day for thousands who are spending their old age in Florida. In St. Petersburg, famous for its winter population of the elderly, policemen and firemen will help handle the crowds at the churches tomorrow.

A Christmas observance that is an annual event of note, attracting 1,000 resorters from all parts of Florida, will be repeated at midnight tonight at the Edward Bok singing tower, near Lake Wales. There a carillon of 71 bells will peal carols.

There's religion, appropriately gay and enthusiastic, in the Christmas song fests of the Negroes, held in unpainted frame churches near the turpentine stills where they work. Other Negroes congregated at their roadside dine and dance places, where a nickle phonograph provides the music.

Crackers Whoop It Up.

The crackers, of the same colonial stock as the hillbillies of neighboring states, likewise whooped at other roadside liquor stores where for a nickle they can hear recordings made in New York of the rustic music they occasionally play.

Around their camp fires in the everglades the Seminole Indians will feast on venison, wild turkey, buds of cabbage palm, and a sofkee mush.

On the keys, the Conchs, descendants of Cockney Londoners who migrated from the Bahamas a century ago, will celebrate with quiet dignity in proximity to singing, laughing, and dancing West Indies Negroes and Cubans with whom they share the coral isles.

Greek Sailors to Dine.

In Tarpon Springs, the sponge fleet of brightly painted little boats will remain in the village's snug harbor while the Greek crews eat mutton stuffed with rice, olive oil, and pecans seasoned with thyme and sweet origanum.

The Florida scene may not resemble the picture of the pilgrim father on his way to church with a gun under his arm or returning from a snow floored woods with a turkey on his back, but it's Christmas eve, nevertheless, for this scramble of motor transients, winter colonists, and natives who people Florida during the yuletide holidays.

SHANGHAI CHRISTMAS EVE: JOY AND TRAGEDY MARCH SIDE BY SIDE

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 24 (AP).—Christmas eve in Shanghai. . . .

A Chinese urchin opens the door of a limousine, pressing his wasted body against the handle. . . . The white man, loaded with champagne bottles, thrusts out a $10 bill [about 70 cents]. The child looks at the note with hungry eyes; he can't take it; he has no arms. The foreigner slips it inside his ragged shirt.

Pretty flower girls dart thru the crowds. . . . Selling boutonnieres. . . . Getting 10, 20, even 100 Shanghai dollars. And in an alley three Chinese are beating a coolie to death because he couldn't pay two miserable coppers for his bowl of rice.

Christmas eve. . . . And tomorrow the Shanghai public benevolent cemetery will find more than 100 corpses in the street, for there are always at least 100 and sometimes more who die from cold and hunger or both. More than half will be children, even babies.

White men in white ties and white men in rags; Chinese in silk and Chinese in gunny sacks. . . . The beggars' wail sounds mournfully thru the laughter of the crowds. At a barricade a soldier wraps red and green bunting on the spikes and barbed wire.

CUBANS WIND UP GAY CELEBRATION AT 7 IN MORNING

'Noche Buena' Is Marked with Street Dances.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 25 [Wednesday].—As the first stroke of midnight ushered in Christmas day, several thousand American visitors and residents and 4,000,000 Cubans began the traditional celebration of Noche Buena—Christ's last supper with His 12 disciples—thruout the island.

In an atmosphere of Christmas festivities, dancing, music, merry making, and drinking, rich and poor, old and young, white and black, sat around tables in hotels, homes, and palm thatched bohios and ate Cuba's famous Christmas dish—roast pig. A serving of young suckling pork roasted under banana leaves with plenty of mojito, a combination sauce of garlic, pepper, and sour orange juice, is to a Cuban what a slice of stuffed turkey with cranberry sauce is to an American on Thanksgiving day.

A "King's" Price Doubles.

Pork on the hoof, normally sold at an average of 12 cents a pound, could hardly be obtained yesterday for 25 cents a pound, so great was the demand for the "king of Cuba"—lechon asado [roast pig].

The typical Noche Buena menu consisted of rice and black beans, fried guinea hen, stuffed turkey, mixed salad, roast pork, turrones, nuts, membrillo ice cream, dates, black coffee, and Havana cigars. Light Spanish and French red and white wines, champagne and cider were served.

Dancing of the conga and singing by the wealthy and poor in streets and parks were features of the celebration in all of the island's cities.

Dance Until 7 A. M.

After 2 o'clock this morning crowds of merrymakers invaded hotels, beach clubs and all other places of amusement to dance. Others visited friends' homes to dance until 6 or 7 a. m. Older or more devout persons attended mass at the century old Columbus cathedral.

Today will be a day of sleep and rest, for Cubans do not observe the anniversary of the birth of Christ as Americans do. Few will feel like eating luncheon, and those who do will find only the usual dishes. American visitors who desire to celebrate the day in the traditional American fashion will, of course, find service at hotels.

Anonymous Santa Claus Back to Spread His Joy

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 24 (AP).—Just as he did last Christmas, an anonymous Santa Claus drove to the Ann Lee Home for the Aged and distributed $1 each to 450 inmates.

Mrs. Dwight Green Opens Yule Basket Distribution

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of the governor elect of Illinois, began yesterday the distribution of 1,500 Christmas baskets to needy families for the Volunteers of America at the welfare agency's headquarters at 2841 Washington street. The baskets were purchased with funds collected by the Santa's helpers, volunteer workers who stood with collection chimneys on street corners in the loop daily for the last two weeks.

WAR TO WHAT END?

A statement purporting to be one by William S. Knudsen was put out in Washington Saturday. It further purported to be an appeal to all Americans to do everything in their power to speed the armament program, but it also contained a definition of the war issue as "irreconcilable in character" and not to be "terminated by any methods of appeasement." It is now said by Mr. Knudsen's friends that he was in a way imposed upon and that the statement was written by the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, and was approved by Mr. Roosevelt. It is, therefore, accepted not as Mr. Knudsen's personal view of the war but as the administration's.

It may be that Mr. Knudsen's friends are not justified in relieving him of all responsibility altho it would be more than disquieting if he had given his consent to such an opinion. He has been looked upon as the one solid man in Washington who could help the nation meet the consequences of the administration's wild foreign policy. If he actually has joined the chorus of the war party to cover the breakdown of the rearmament program by shouting for war without being ready for it the country will be the worse for it.

The two Republicans Mr. Roosevelt appointed for campaign purposes when he was trying to make the election appear as an unfortunate disturbance of American war unity are the most inflamed interventionists in Washington. They put out their statement, with Mr. Knudsen standing for authorship, apparently as a reply to the German protest against the suggestion that foreign shipping be seized in American ports. The American government by this statement is put in the position of declaring that there is no possibility of a satisfactory peace, satisfactory to the United States, in Europe without conquering the continent.

The American officials declare for a war, ending in a dictated peace after one side has been beaten down to unconditional surrender. These officials close the door on any attempt to find a way to peace without the destruction of one side of combatants or the other.

It may be that is the only thing that can happen. Is any one at all sure at this time which side will suffer the defeat, which will be so utterly vanquished that it must accept the dictate of the winner? At present neither is victor. In the phase of the war which followed the French surrender the British have stood off the Germans. If there is a defeat the Germans have suffered it because they have been unable to continue the campaign as they began it in Norway. Their successes, coming to them with one swift blow after another, stopped at the channel. They have been checked in a manner that constitutes thus far a military defeat. If it was Hitler's purpose to follow the retreating British divisions from Dunkirk, he couldn't do it. We don't know whether he actually tried or whether the German high command said that it was out of the question. Anyway, his advance was stopped.

Meanwhile, the British and the Greeks have inflicted serious defeats upon the Italians. In two months, since Oct. 28, the fortunes of war have run against the axis. Germany has been checked and Italy is in trouble. That doesn't mean that an invasion of the continent by the British is at all possible. Germany, apparently, is impregnably defended.

If peace negotiations were undertaken now the terms would not be discussed by victor and vanquished. There would be no question of submission, no one would be in a position to dictate, no one could raise his voice and thump the table, and no one would have to swallow his pride and take a humiliation. Two strong sides would face each other and the question would be, can endurable conditions be established now? It is to this question that the extremists say no. In their view nothing dependable, nothing endurable could be arrived at. That counsel of despair leads to the question of the alternative.

The combatants are not inflicting decisive blows on each other but the destruction is great. If British shipping losses continue for another year at the rate of 60,000 tons a week over 3,000,000 tons will be destroyed. That can be replaced or it can be endured without starving Britain or cutting it off from essential supplies, but it is destruction of ships whose normal use is in peaceable trade. A war of two to five years is in contemplation. What it will do to the world's economy is incalculable.

Germany's air raids have not seriously affected the British production of war materials or caused anything like the loss of life that occurred, day by day, in the trenches. The British army isn't being decimated. British war equipment is increasing. Mr. Churchill says there will be a fully armed nation soon, whereas at the beginning of the attack there was only a half armed people. British air raids on the continent are doing damage, but nothing that impairs the strength of the German war machine. It is stronger today in men and materials than it was when France fell. The people of the continent have an existence that is hideous when measured by any reasonable expectation of human life. The destruction, apparently, is worse in England than it is in Germany, but even where the deaths and injuries are small in percentage life in the shelters is a nightmare and the distress will increase without an approach to a military decision.

If this thing goes on for five years no one could predict the consequences to what had been called a civilization. Some people say that regardless of cost and consequences the thing must be settled now. No one ever settles anything now, in a permanent and durable form. That was one thing the last war certainly taught. What is done today cannot with any certainty determine what will happen 25 years from today. Whatever arrangement is made in Europe, either by a peace of negotiation or by a peace of dictation, may be counted upon to change. If the terms are very harsh the change is the more guaranteed.

The extremists on this side of the water are afraid of what will happen in the world if Britain should be defeated. That is not to be written out of the possibilities of a prolonged war, even if our extremists got the United States into it. There is just as much chance of Britain being defeated in a long war as there is of Hitler being defeated. Some of our people seem to think that they can write the finish of this struggle which is now at a standoff.

It doesn't seem to be in the highest degree of wisdom to reject all idea that two powerful and resourceful enemies could not make a better peace when both are strong and formidable than could be made if one has been destroyed, particularly if that one is Great Britain.

The upshot of the declarations of our war party is that the German people are told that they must be completely conquered. Nothing could strengthen Hitler's control more than that.

CHRISTMAS IN CHICAGO.

THE TRIBUNE's news columns a few days ago contained a description of the widely varied Christmas customs being observed this week by Chicago citizens of different racial origins.

In their daily life the vast majority of these people follow pretty largely the standardized routine of all American citizens. It requires the birthday of their Savior to revive the traditions of their forefathers in other lands. No one reading the story of these celebrations in home and church can fail to be impressed by the richness of the cultural traditions that Chicago owes to the diversity of its people's ancestry.

This is a tragic Christmas in most of the world. Even in the lands that the bombers have spared the iron poverty of war is felt. The traditional dainties appear at the Christmas feasts in Chicago, but in the lands of their origin the people eat only what they can get on their ration cards.

Any one familiar with the geography of racial groups in Chicago will realize that some of those groups whose former nations are arrayed against each other in Europe are the closest of neighbors in this city. Yet the spirit in those neighborhoods is that of American Christmas, not European war.

This is not an accidental circumstance. These people or their parents or grandparents left wars and poverty to seek a promised land. This Christmas there can be little doubt in the minds of any of them that they found it. They have kept their folk customs, but their allegiance as citizens is with the land that is their home. It is significant that it is not the people whose ties with Europe are the freshest who are urging this nation to embroil itself in Europe's miseries. Their memory of those miseries and of the wars that cause them is too acute.

MRS. THORNE'S ROOMS.

Tens of thousands of people, all over the country and, indeed, all over the world, are familiar with the work of Mrs. James Ward Thorne. Her scholarship, her taste, and her ingenuity in recreating in miniature the achievements of the masters of interior design and decoration are unrivaled. For her purposes, perfection of detail is only the beginning. Her rooms are "right" not only because every detail is true to style and in scale, but more especially because thru the subtleties of lighting and arrangement she has succeeded in bringing the rooms to life. A mere hobbyist would be content with accuracy; Mrs. Thorne is much more than that. She is an artist, without an equal in her field.

Her present exhibition of American interiors, now on view at the Art institute, is a particularly timely one. In recent years there has been a great revival of home building in this country. In general it can be said that the houses now being built are better designed than those of a decade or so ago. Romantic excesses are no longer as popular as they once were. The models after which many, if not most, of the new houses have been patterned are those which have come down to us thru American tradition. They look right in our landscape.

That is all to the good. It would be still better if the improvement in the exteriors of the houses were to be accompanied by a corresponding improvement in interior decoration. Toward that goal, Mrs. Thorne's presentation of American rooms, selected from many regions and from over 300 years of changing conditions of life, can contribute much. They are beautiful rooms, sound in proportions, sound in their use of color and ornament, and if they are studied by home makers and those who manufacture furniture and furnishings, can go far toward enriching the lives of the American people.

Editorial of the Day

TAVERN POLICY.
[Indianapolis News.]

The Indianapolis tavern situation is being widely discussed. Baptist clergymen have joined Methodist ministers in condemning prevailing conditions. A member of the bartenders' union, addressing a legislative labor conference, predicted more stringent regulatory laws unless the situation improves.

The trouble is not, however, due to the lack of facilities to preserve order. The alcoholic beverage commission has almost unlimited authority and every policeman is an enforcement officer.

Much of the trouble can be traced to the domination of the intoxicating beverage business by politicians. The Indiana setup was planned as an agency to reward faithful political workers. The state beverage commission asked for and obtained a group of excise policemen, with the result that members of the police departments and sheriffs looked to the state force to curb violators. Two years ago the notorious port of entry system was abolished, but this was only a start toward correcting glaring evils.

Law abiding tavernkeepers want the law enforced. But that is impossible while politicians in the background have sufficient influence to thwart enforcement efforts. The greatest immediate need is for the removal of the liquor business from partisan domination. Once that is done by legislative action there will be fewer obstacles in the way of strict enforcement.

One of the minor mysteries of the war is how it is that Hitler, who is short on copper, is so long on brass.—Indianapolis News.

A Christmas Anthology

The editor of this column wishes his readers and contributors a merry Christmas, and devotes his entire space to selections from the hundreds of Christmas poems that have come to his desk. Give ear, then, to a program of carols by the sweet and jaunty singers of the Line!

CHRISTMAS MORNING.

Comes a moment on Christmas morning
When the fire on the hearth burns bright,
And the tree in its beauty is waiting
For eyes that are dancing with light—
With the gifts in their glory enticing
In mystery spread at its feet,
And the angel who reigns at the treetop
Smiles wistfully, tenderly, sweet—
A moment of reverent stillness,
And there, in the vanishing gloom,
It seems—tho of course we are dreaming—
The Christ-child is there in the room!

Casual.

CHRISTMAS A LA MODE.

What's this! Another Christmas? O, I say, sir,
Don't tell me that the year has gone so fast!
I would have thought it just the other day, sir,
When we were getting ready for the last.
And here it is once more, and we must grope for
That fond elusive Christmas cheer again—
If peace on earth is more than we can hope for,
At least we may express good will to men.
So please put on your smile, and make it mellow,
With turned-up ends, and dimples, and all that.
Here comes your present. Ready! Catch it, fellow.
A handful of good wishes, in the hat.
Will Mr. Claus please pass the tray of greetings?
Just help yourselves, and call one when you're done.
I give you better days and friendlier meetings,
And courage—which you'll need—in '41.

CHRISTMAS CRAVATS.

Noo bricht an' braw breaks Christmas day;
Jock drags himsel frae oot the hay,
An' then wi' grunts an' muckle sighs
He opens up his Christmas ties.
They come frae feyther an' frae mither,
Aunt, uncle, cousin, sister, brither,
Lassies wha hae for Jock a yen—
He is a handsome lad, ye ken.
Jock has himsel a taste in ties,
Which he wad gladly exercise;
But if he failed tae wear his gifts
'Twad cause a lot o' freenship rifts;
Sae like a soldier tried an' true
He sports 'em a', red, yellow, blue.
His freens wad start in pained surprise
Cud they hear Jock soliloquize:
"On Christmas morn I envy guys
Wha can select thir ain neckties." M'Tavish.

A CHRISTMAS ACROSTIC.

Christmas again, but in a world at war
How may we celebrate our holiday?
All our glad bells are still; beyond the shore
Ring out the bitter chimes of cold dismay.
Let this be comfort as the slow days wind;
Each age has known the bugle's wild alarms
Since Bethlehem, yet soon or late we find
Christmas again, and in a mother's arms
One who tho born to hardship and distress
Lay peacefully among the beasts; we know
Life holds no fears for quiet hearts who bless
In simple words the Child who long ago
Nestling among God's creatures in a stall
Slept sure in faith that love should conquer all.

CHRISTMAS IN WARTIME.

These days it's very hard to pause
And think awhile of Santa Claus.
And yet, somehow, I know we ought,
Because I feel, each kindly thought
That gives a sad soul one release
From worry, is a step toward peace.

And so, tho peace be far away,
And tho our hearts be far from gay,
Let's make it Merry Christmas Day!

Marjorie F. W.

And the Child Smiled.

In the little chapel only the Christmas tree was lit, and two slim white tapers before the picture of the Mother and Child. Sitting quietly, with half closed eyes, one yielded to the spell of the soft light and shadows, the glorious music, the rich scent of balsam. Beauty was in that room, a tangible, created thing, and it was as tho one's spirit slipped from its bodily prison for a few moments, borne upon the wings of that beauty. All confusion and distress of mind were gone, replaced by a crystal clear simplicity of faith. The candles flickered, the shadows shifted—and the Child smiled.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS—ALWAYS.

SOME of us need to be born again. Perhaps we have become warped in our appreciation of human problems. Do we represent the shell and not the substance of understanding? All too frequently holiday cards signify nothing—not even friendship—when they reach one who is hungry; whose burdens are heavy enough to crush the stoutest heart. No amount of social uplift can take the place of a substantial slice of roast beef. When we call "Merry Christmas" airily and casually, does the greeting convey true sentiments of good will?

Let us ask ourselves—have we developed so much efficiency within welfare agencies that we have established a "do nothing" cycle? A week or two ago, in one of our well known clinics, I overheard the plea of a pale, emaciated old gentleman who had been shunted from department to department and from "worker" to "worker," "Please, doctor, won't you give me a little medicine for my pain and let me go home?" Is it possible that not a few of our relief organizations have become so entangled in red tape that they miss by miles the worthy objectives which led to their establishment? Machinery can become savage—the theories of sociologists to the contrary.

The essence of Christmas is service. We can neither masticate nor digest "interviews" or slips of paper calling for medical tests for this or that. Our real job is to ferret out the needy, separating them from the greedy. Last holiday season one of the Good Fellows of the town was informed later that many families in his district were unprovided for while others received as many as five baskets each. As a rule, the most deserving are the most reluctant to accept help.

Of course the wants of the body must be provided for, but more than all else, sympathy, kindness, and friendship are essential. I have never forgotten the remark of an itinerant clock mender. He and his dog were inseparable. "I keep him," said he, "right by my side, because he has never given me a cold look."

The answer of course is to make every dollar spent in public and private philanthropy count. There is more than enough to go around if it reaches those who deserve it. Tax supported as well as voluntary hospitals are carrying their burdens courageously, but we must be ever alert to abuse by those who can afford to pay. In other words, the encouragement of mendicancy will melt away our backbones of independence and self-help.

How long will it take us to learn that selfishness is the besetting sin of nations as well as of individuals? It breeds wars and creates more unhappiness, more suffering, more crime than all other shortcomings. A vicious wolf will tear to pieces a less stalwart or wounded member of the pack. No one can read with complacency Thomas Carlyle's vivid description of the horrors of the French revolution. In certain parts of the world today human life is as insignificant as that of a buzzing fly.

Let's make the Christmas spirit last. To be generous-minded and open-handed for one week out of the 52 constitutes a veritable mockery. No, we must heal the wounds of poverty by constant attention. Spasmodic cleansing will not suffice. Your contributions and mine are just as necessary on the 25th of January and each succeeding month as on this sacred natal December day.

We may not require more stately buildings; more structures of Gothic design, but we do long for a warm hearthstone in every home in the land. Then health will come with peace of mind and something to work for.

A QUERY FOR INDUSTRY.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Will some one who has charge of the hiring for a large industry kindly enlighten me as to why the average business firm discriminates against middle aged men and women employés?

I have been employed by the WPA for 16 months and wish to say with conviction that there are in the ranks of the WPA many very capable, hard working, and clean living middle aged men and women, who would be much more satisfactory employés in private industry than some of the young men and women, who dissipate or drink and frequently loaf on the job, and who are not half as efficient as the older, experienced workers.

STENOGRAPHER.

A MEMO TO CONGRESS.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—We read in the papers of men who apply for work on government projects and are turned down because they do not belong to a union. Any citizen of this great democratic government, as it is called, has a right to employment on any of these projects because of his constitutional rights as a citizen and not because he belongs to a union. It is time our government looked into the matter.

This great government had better treat every citizen alike, as the time may not be far off when they may want these very men to shoulder guns in defense of this nation, who are now being turned down and denied the right to make a living for themselves and family. J. P. E.

VOICE OF THE FLAT OWNER.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—In your editorial, "Metering Chicago's Water," you say "water bills will go up, in most instances, only if householders are wasteful."

Consider the plight of owners of two flat buildings. Installing meters would put an undeserved weapon in the hands of spiteful tenants, whose only thought is making as much expense as possible for the property owner. Large apartment buildings are favored with reduced rates—not so with the small property owner.

Because of Chicago's ideal location on Lake Michigan, why shouldn't we have reasonable water bills? It would not be reasonable to make it as expensive as New York's, where they must go much farther for it. E. J.

OUR BELLICOSE STAMPS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—I am gratified to observe a large number of readers striving to impress the true meaning of Christmas. I have received several greetings in which the good will of the senders seems innocently obscured by the symbolism of the postage stamp. How can the picture of a cannon on the 2 cent postage stamp fit within the keynote of the Christmas season?

Are Christians in our United States of America so much in minority that they cannot make their voicer felt for a special Christmas edition of a postage stamp which would convey a fitting homage to the Christ? GEORGE HEPPNER.

ADVICE TO YOUNG FARMERS.

Long Grove, Ia., Dec. 17.—I agree with Gov. Stelle in regard to—"a young man buying a farm and going heavily in debt, even to the extent of 85 to 90 per cent of the cost." However, I would advise the young man to buy in a well developed farming community, where he can now pick up a farm that has been run down thru bad rotation or luxurious living. There are plenty of these farms to be had at prices not much higher than undeveloped land. It does not take a great amount of capital to bring such farms back to normal production when limestone and either sweet clover or medium red clover are given the right of way for several years.

General farming must be followed for the first 10 or more years, so in case of a failure in one crop the balance of the crops will in a measure make up. That will give the farmer a fairly secure income, regardless of weather conditions.

All the foregoing is of no value whatsoever to the young farm buyer who goes heavily in debt, unless he heeds this:

"Successful farming [from scratch and without pa shoveling out his hard earned money] consists of 'to one tablespoon of brains, add three bushels of hard work, mixing thoroly; to this add a half bushel of thrift, a half bushel of economy, another of individual initiative, and mix all the foregoing again thoroly, being careful to eliminate the slightest trace of politics or farm organization in the mixture, together with complete elimination of any trace of exploitation.' This has never in history failed to spell successful farming, both financially and socially."

The writer, in his 40 odd years of dealing exclusively with the farmer in this great middle west, has known of thousands of young farmers who bought their farms on a shoestring down payment, and, where they followed the above recipe, not one failed to pay for his farm. However, today national conditions are so different from the great farming period of from 1898 to 1918, that I doubt if a young man could follow the above ideas of successful farming. Why? For the reason that the period of 1898 to 1918 was before repudiation was considered a "grace." Today "repudiation" being a "grace," the urge to spend beyond your ability to pay is a temptation that few can resist.

OLD FASHIONED GRAIN DEALER.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—I hear that our "Star Spangled Banner" song has been objected to as being anti-British. I have sung it all my life and have never thought of it that way. I was just informed this day that the incident on which it was originally based was not, as I had imagined, the attack on Fort Sumter by confederate troops, but an incident in the war of 1812. Even so, we have forgotten the incident, so why not keep our long cherished and inspired song, at least until we get a better one to take its place? CHARLES M RODI.

DENOUNCES CROW BOMBING.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—I must lodge a protest against the bombing of crows. I am not able to write very plain on account of a stroke suffered about 15 months ago, which has hampered my spelling and speech.

This bombing of crows is the most inhuman thing; must turn a lot of them loose to die in agony.

You would think that Bob Becker would do what he could to stop it. On the other hand, he seems to be in on it.

JACK WILLIAMS.

CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Recently you published an article by a young man who had been rejected by the army because he had three teeth out. May I give you a contrast to this?

The writer has a brother who has a large farm which he operates himself; he has about 75 head of live stock to care for, and he has been given six months to get ready to go in spite of the fact that he has more than three teeth out.

I would like some patriotic soul to tell me how he can dispose of his live stock in that time, or if he keeps it find some one who will sell them at the proper time and deposit the money in the bank in sufficient amounts to meet the federal land bank payments that come due every six months.

My brother is a bachelor, of course; therefore he will have to hire some one to do these things for him, and if the hired man does not do these things the government will have a farm for sale.

R. M. LAMBETH.

FOR AMERICA FIRST.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—I believe you are chiefly responsible for the success of the meeting in Orchestra hall sponsored by the America First committee.

I feel impelled to say that you are rendering the country a great service by giving publicity to patriotic gatherings where citizens may publicly show their devotion to the United States, when there is definitely a subversive trend to raise the British flag above our own.

HENRY K. PETERS,
Pastor Chicago Society of the New Church.

A WORRIED MOTHER.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—I signed for my only son to join the air corps; he is only 19 years old. The last I heard from him was on Nov. 1. Won't some one tell me why I get no word from him, or where I can write to find out?

PAULINE M. BUHLE.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

PERSONAL SERVICES.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have had a widower friend living with us for the last 10 years and have taken care of him in illness all this time. He has four stepchildren living, one of whom he had made beneficiary to his insurance. Seeing they did not care about him he had it changed and has made me the beneficiary. As I am only a friend I would like to know:

1. In case of death can these children file claim and take this insurance away from me?
2. What can I do to protect myself?
3. Would a will do any good?

F. P.

1. No. They would not inherit from him in any event. If they defeated you, then presumably the insurance would go to the heirs.
2. See that the change of beneficiary has been properly arranged with the home office of the company.
3. Depends on whether there are assets additional to the insurance.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 42.

Then look for the correct answers on page 42.

1. If you heard the lowing of domesticated animals in the pasture, would they be Sheep Cows Horses Hogs.
2. At room temperature, which of the following would feel coolest if spilled over your hands? Alcohol Ether Salt Water Vinegar.
3. When you order wheat cakes in a restaurant, you generally receive 2 3 4 5.
4. A canvasback would make a sportsman think immediately of Elephants Turtles Deer Ducks.
5. Which common kitchen article has the chemical formula $NaHCO^3$? Soap Vinegar Baking Soda Table Salt.
6. The effect of music cannot easily be neutralized by words, even when uttered by the most fluent orators. Military music is essential for the recruiting of armies and the propagandizing of peaceful nations. The best psychological antidote for militarism is widespread singing of songs which have peace and brotherly love associated with them. The constant singing of great carols and Christmas songs mentioned below can prevent the development of the warlike spirit. Today I shall allot one point credit for each correct matching of song with its author.

[a] "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."	[v] Isaac Watts.
[b] "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."	[w] Charles Wesley.
[c] "O Little Town of Bethlehem."	[x] N. Tate.
[d] "Joy to the World."	[y] Phillips Brooks.
[e] "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night."	[z] E. H. Sears.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—the last question counts five points.]

MANKIND PINS ITS AGELESS HOPE ON PRINCE OF PEACE

Triumph of Good Held One Certain Result.

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given;
And the government shall be upon his shoulder: and
His name shall be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Father of Eternity, Prince of Peace.
—Isaiah ix., 6.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Has Christmas day, the celebration of the birth of Jesus of Nazareth, any special meaning this year? Is it significant that the prophet Isaiah proclaimed the coming of the Prince of Peace 800 years before the Nativity, that Simeon at the temple foresaw the salvation of the world when the immortal babe was only 8 days old? Is it significant that this hope was carried intact thru one dark age of world history, and that it shows an increasing vitality as the world enters what may be another dark age?

These questions were put to various religious leaders in Chicago at this Christmas time and the answers are presented here.

The abiding presence of God and His available power to humanity in all times of stress are the two great thoughts that shine thru these Christmas messages.

The Meaning for All of Us.

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of Chicago will say to his flock at Pontifical mass today that Christmas means for all of us "the Word was made flesh and dwelt amongst us" and that the angel message, "Peace to men of good will" is understandable and real only in this meaning of Christmas.

Dr. Shailer Mathews, emeritus dean of the University of Chicago Divinity school, points out that the correct reading of these words is, "Peace to men of good will."

It was not, Dr. Mathews says, a benediction from a remote creator, some first cause that set the world and the human race in motion and then retired to let them work out their own destiny. It was, rather, a profound injunction. Peace can come only to men of good will.

If men choose to ignore this, choose to adopt ill will as their guide to life, they are violating a law which runs thruout the universe and human history, and they will have to abide by the results. In the long future, however, there is only one sure result and that is the triumph of good.

The various interpretations follow:

DR. SHAILER MATHEWS
Emeritus Dean of University of Chicago Divinity School

"As an outcome of evolution, a human being as a living organism must not only maintain, like all animals, a proper relationship with chemical elements and physical forces, but it must also set up relations with those activities of the universe which have made personality possible.

"A water breathing animal that becomes an air breathing animal demonstrates the existence of air. An animal which has become personal would likewise lose its characteristics if there were not activities in the universe with which it can live personally.

"The absolute basis of morality, however imperfectly expressed in human history, is conformity with the personality producing activities of the universe. That integrating activity, which has made electrons into atoms, atoms into molecules, and molecules into organisms, continues in humanity on the level of that which is personal. Such personal integration is love—a cosmic activity as truly as electricity.

As Certain as Gravitation.

"As gravitation will hold up a wall when it is plumb, but ruin it when it is out of plumb, so to disregard love as the integrating gravity of the universe in the area of personality is to insure unhappiness.

"As we undertake to develop national life and the building of a world in which war will not be the final court of appeal, a faith in cosmic coöperation gives courage to combat national and individual selfishness, which would make a nation an agent of coercion rather than of coöperation.

"In the peace which follows faith there is found the evidence of the working of a divine person whose ways are past finding out but whose will can be trusted as righteous."

ERNEST LYNN WALDORF
Bishop of the Methodist Church in Chicago

"This Christmas-time finds a tragic world situation and raises some questions based upon the desire to find a sure foundation confirming the formula enunciated at the birth of Christ heralding to everybody everywhere that there should be on earth peace to men of good will.

"Thoughtful people find assurances of this in the acknowledged fact that this universe, steeped in thought, is not a matter of chance but of creative genius. There are convincing evidences that this is a moral universe and that good alone is permanent and evil is transitory.

"A Harvard professor after a careful survey of the facts of history, gave out some time ago a statement wherein he declared that the oft-quoted sentence 'the far off divine event to which the whole creation moves' meant that the goal of all life and the divine purpose back of creation was the ultimate formation on this earth of eternal goodness.

Along Path of History.

"He further stated that the Creator moved slowly along the path of history and that every dead thing which He left behind Him was an enemy of this purpose and something that must be destroyed.

"Human beings are not mechanized agencies to be directed from outside, but personalities endowed with the power of choice and, therefore, capable of choosing either good or evil, or an alliance with the right or the wrong. Individuals and nations alike may choose, but in the choosing must accept the consequences of the choice. Faith, reason, common and personal experience do not always prevent wrong choices with their evil results.

"Those who, animated by good will and high purpose, chose the highest, the holiest, and the best may enjoy and utilize the Christmas spirit and enjoy that peace which passeth human understanding even tho as individuals they are surrounded by conditions that distrub, distress, and appall."

The Rev. Adalbert Kretzmann
Pastor of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Chicago

"Five hundred years ago printing was invented. In those days only a select few could have any of the joys which Christmas brings us once more in books and magazines and newspapers. The one thing that makes Christmas possible is printing. On this Christmas day they will be reading the story of the Holy Night in 1,052 languages all over the earth—black, brown, red, yellow, and white people will sing the song of the angels despite blood and war and hate and steel.

"There is no doubt that many have turned the power of the press to evil and lies. Over and over again we have seen the governments of great nations enforce rigorous control of the press or dominate it entirely in order to regulate the thinking and conduct of people and armies.

That Men Would Rise . . .

"At Christmas we want to believe, however, that the good printing brought into the world would win; that men would rise to preach and others to listen in sincerity; that men would read again the glorious promises of God and their fulfillment in the Christ Child; that love would live again when hate had spent itself and men would build again where lust had destroyed.

"Then the printed page would be more necessary than ever; then every life would count. Then the wisdom and love of God would march forward again in the printed page and occupy once more the great, unconquerable lives of the minds of men and make them strong with truth and warm with love, nurtured on an abiding brotherhood of splendid, undying culture—the sum total of the treasure of the good books, the best articles, and the greatest music of all time.

"In the midst of a world filled with darkness and despair we keep a Christmas of hope and light because no one shall ever destroy this gift of God."

DR. HUGH ELMER BROWN
Pastor of First Congregational Church of Evanston

"Christmas is the festival of the neighborliness of God. The heart of the Christmas message is that God is not remote from us, not far-away in splendid solitude on a throne of marble, not a cold absentee God who loves his laws better than his children, but as near as the thoughts in our minds.

"Infinite love cannot reign alone in silent universe. So love came to earth, in a form which even simple-hearted shepherds could feel and know.

"Love's coming touched the heavens into a new glory and set a wave of jubilance rolling around the world. From the manger to the tomb, love walked with men; did a man's work; bore a man's burden; shared a man's joy; tasted a man's pain; died a man's death.

Parable of Infinite Love.

"The immortal Mary with her immortal child in her arms shows forth as in a parable, the infinite love brooding over and circling the infinite life. We are not 'boisterous bits of scum.' We are not orphans of chance drifting on a raft of despair, but children of a Jesus-like God, whose presence can never be changed to absence and whose love is the life of all that lives.

"This is the 'good news,' and all the hectic headlines of earth cannot blot it out. You may be the 'forgotten man' of earth, but heaven remembers and sends gifts forever and ever.

"A divine halo hovers over every cradle and the holy family includes every son of time. Infinite love plus human coöperation will eventually end the jangling discords of existence and breathe into the lowliest lot heaven's deathless music."

DR. HAROLD L. BOWMAN
Pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Chicago

"It is not easy for thoughtful people to celebrate Christmas this year. Often Christmas has blossomed like a rose opening to the warmth of enfolding brightness. But not in 1940. The horizon is too dark and the air, if we hearken, is filled with 'the still sad music of humanity.'

"How can we observe Christmas fittingly in our kind of a world? What relevance has a message of 'peace on earth' in a warring society? Or 'good will among men' when violent hatred is rampant?

"Well, for that matter, what relevance had those words in ancient Judea? Who in the Roman empire heeded the idea of brotherly love? Yet there were a few hearts that cherished the good news and gave thanks to God.

Same Faith Still Cherished.

"In this new and modern night, there too are valiant, persevering lives that cherish that same faith, despite the darkness and the strife. They are the ones thru whom some day God may fulfill his ancient dream.

"'The Family,' which Nina Fedorova describes, had no money to buy a Christmas tree to adorn their shabby home in Tientsin, so on the drab walls they painted a tree, and jubilantly celebrated before it the birthday of the Lord.

"So we, in a world that manifests so little of the Christlike spirit, can on the walls of our hearts still keep Christmas and make it bright with hope and faith."

CHRISTMAS LIVES ON DESPITE WAR, SAYS PRESIDENT

Message to Nation Has Hopeful Note.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 24.—In the spirit that progress still goes forward altho the world may be torn by war and hate, President Roosevelt tonight wished "a happy Christmas to all and happier Christmases yet to come."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke briefly to the nation by radio in connection with the traditional Christmas tree lighting ceremony in the ellipse south of the White House.

At 4 p. m. [Chicago time] he touched a silver switch which turned on the lights of Christmas for the nation—10,000 watts of colored lights on a bespangled living red cedar.

After the President lighted the tree he made another of the somber "if" remarks which have caught so much attention. He said that he believed it would be more "homey" if next year's ceremony were held inside the grounds. He said he would make that change and give his address from the White House porch on Christmas eve, 1941, "if we all are here."

"Back if World Survives."

On Dec. 14, the President told patients of the Warm Springs foundation in Georgia that he would be back to spend two weeks with them next March "if the world survives."

In the spring of 1939, after a visit to the foundation, he had told spectators at his train in Warm Springs that he would "be back in the fall if we don't have a war."

In his radio speech, referring to the wars which have made the United States trustee of the yuletide spirit for the greater part of the world, Mr. Roosevelt said that sometimes those who have lived thru the strifes and hates of the last quarter century wonder if the world has abandoned the ideals of the brotherhood of man and whether selfishness is controling more and more lives.

Merry for Children.

Mr. Roosevelt said that all could work to make this Christmas a merry one for children altho for those of maturer years this season could not be merry.

"But for most of us," he concluded, "it can be a happy Christmas if by happiness we mean that we have done with doubts, that we have set our hearts against fear, that we still believe in the golden rule for mankind, that we intend to live more purely in the spirit of Christ, and that by our works, as well as our words, we will strive forward in faith and in hope and in love."

The tree lighting ceremonies which the President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended with a number of officials, who are remaining in the capital for the holidays, began with a concert by the Marine band. He spoke for about seven minutes.

Household Staff Entertained.

The White House holiday celebration got under way yetserday when Mr. Roosevelt gave a party for the 240 members of the White House staff.

The President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, arrived yesterday to spend Christmas with her son. The only other immediate members of the family here for the day and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and their son, Franklin III.

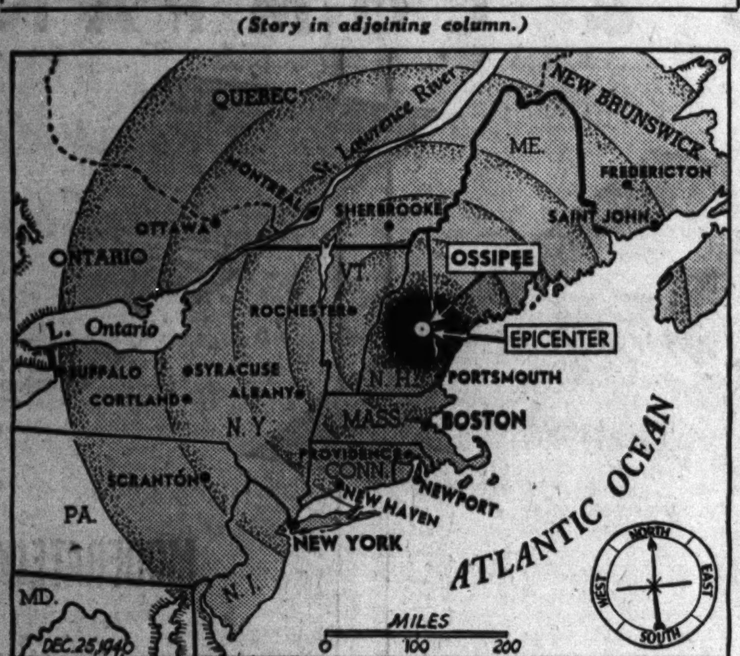
This afternoon Mr. Roosevelt entertained the White House household staff—policemen, guards, servants and their families.

SLED BREAKS THRU ICE; BOY DROWNS.

Lawrence Toth, 17 years old, 1720 East 93d street, a pupil at Warren school, drowned yesterday when his sled broke thru ice in a quarry near 93d street and Stony Island avenue.

Quake Rocks Eastern America

(Story in adjoining column.)



Area of eastern United States and Canada which felt yesterday's earthquake is indicated by the shading. It was the second disturbance in the area in five days. Damage for the most part was negligible, and there were no casualties, altho the area includes some densely populated districts.

NEW TEMBLORS ROCK WIDE AREA IN EASTERN U. S.

Quake Is Second Within Last Five Days.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 24 (AP).—For the second time in five days earth tremors today shook the densely populated northeast from Pennsylvania to Canada and brought from a Harvard geologist the opinion that this section might now enjoy a lull from quakes.

In much the same manner as last Friday's temblor, this second quake was felt in populous New York and Pennsylvania, thruout New England and northward into Quebec.

Certainly more persons were aware of the tremors than were last Friday, for today's came during the waking hours—at about 8:45 a. m., eastern standard time.

Report Severe Radio Static.

Radio listeners said the morning quake was preceded by severe static.

Again there were panicky thousands, but there were no casualties and damage for the most part was negligible.

Perhaps the most costly damage was in Chicopee, Mass., where a 20 inch water main was ruptured, and at the Peabody museum in Salem, Mass., where a rare tile gargoyle toppled from a shelf and broke.

Buildings were jarred in Montreal, Quebec, and Ottawa, Ont., reported feeling slight tremors.

The center of the quake was in the vicinity of Ossipee, N. H., where last week's originated.

Called a Safety Valve.

Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard geologist, said the two quakes probably had completed a major adjustment in the earth's crust in central New England, adding that if this was so "there probably will be nothing but slight local after shocks to disturb our calm in the next few months."

The Rev. Michael J. Ahern, Weston [Mass.] college contemporary of Mather, termed the small quakes a safety valve releasing pressure.

TRIBUNE MEDICAL SERVICE UNFOLDS STORY OF HEALTH

Lives, Time, Money Saved.

A heartening story of health and well being has unfolded gradually at THE TRIBUNE in the last two years.

On Jan. 1, 1939, THE TRIBUNE initiated a medical counsel service to help employés obtain competent medical care and proper hospital facilities within their ability to pay. Since 1902 it had maintained a firm of physicians for industrial accidents and since 1920 a full time registered nurse, but the medical counsel service was for the employé and his family.

Consultation Is Voluntary.

Whom could a man call if, as happened this year, his baby swallowed a broom straw? Did he need a specialist? Was an operation really necessary, as he was told? Whom could he consult about his mother's arthritis or his own migraine headache? Would so-and-so charge a reasonable and fair fee?

Many employés, it was felt, were groping in the dark for sound and disinterested medical advice. Thus the service was begun with a splendid physician as counselor. It was purely advisory. Its goal was unbiased medical guidance. Consultation was voluntary. But would any one want it?

Number of Calls Increases.

In 1939, from 50 to 70 persons asked the counselor's advice each month, or approximately 1,000 during the year. This year, however, 1,155 employés paid calls to his office. They also paid 7,635 calls to the offices of the two registered nurses in the consultation department, and one nurse paid 1,370 calls to their homes.

Eighty per cent of those sought advice on their own health or medical problems. Twenty per cent asked for their wives or families.

The problems ranged from difficult diagoneses to what to do for colds.

A linotype operator, for example, complained of severe headaches, impeding his work. The counselor's office tested his vision and found it to be only ½ of normal. Fitted with proper glasses, he now has 100 per cent vision and works without difficulty.

Find Evidence of Tuberculosis.

A woman in the ad-taker department complained of persistent colds. She was sent to have an x-ray made. The x-ray gave evidence of pulmonary tuberculosis. She was placed in a hospital and a specialist called. She now is recuperating in a sanitarium.

A boy in the mailing room had been told he had anemia, and low blood pressure, for which he had been given an expensive series of treatments. Examination by the counselor revealed he had no anemia, had normal blood count and a high blood pressure, with symptoms of Bright's disease. He was referred to a specialist, now is fully recovered and is at work every day.

Advice Given to Woman.

A woman who for years had been treated, futilely and expensively, for allergic rhinitis was sent to a physician who convinced her the only cure was a change of climate.

"Altogether it's been one of the greatest things that ever happened to Tribune employés," Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, declared. "Everyone is most enthusiastic. It has not only saved lives, but saved persons from weeks of suffering and from much abuse from unethical doctors who, in certain instances, bled families for as much as $300 for the wrong disease."

The two registered nurses, Miss Lois Bright and Miss Margaret Lacey, had a total of 9,005 cases or calls up to Dec. 15. The largest number of cases was for colds. However, the nurses dressed 1,420 minor injuries, cared for 564 eye injuries, and gave 1,684 specific treatments for such ailments as ear ache, stomach ache, head ache, pleurisy, poison ivy, stiff neck, or splinters. This was an increase of about 3,000 over 1939.

A CHILEAN YULE STORY; A SHRINE AND A GOLD FIELD

Pilgrims Flock to Tiny Town of Big Church.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 24.—There is a legend of Christmas gold associated with the feast of the "Virgin del Rosario de Andacollo" which attracts thousands of Yuletide pilgrims to the little village of Andacollo in the province of Coquimbo, northern Chile.

The legend of the virgin which is the center of fervent adoration resembles that of many a place of pilgrimage in the Old World, but it is possible there is some truth in its main outline.

Legend Begins in Dream.

An Indian called Collo dreamed that a shinging figure appeared to command him to search the hills where he worked as a woodcutter, the legend relates. The vision was repeated three times before he responded. For a long time he carried out the strange command without result. However, one day while far from home he sought for dry wood to build a fire. Finding a dead bush, he pulled it up and discovered a wooden image underneath.

That was 200 years ago, in the days of Spanish colonial rule and of Spanish gold. The wooden image became the center of a Christmas cult. Every Christian on the continent heard of the Indian's find. Then every miner heard of it, for the place where the image was found turned out to be rich in alluvial gold.

Pilgrims to Andacollo stream thru Coquimbo port or along the railroad, inland from Ovalle. They stop off at the station of El Peñon and then take a three hour coach ride to this Chilean mecca of Yuletide—the church containing the woodcutter's find.

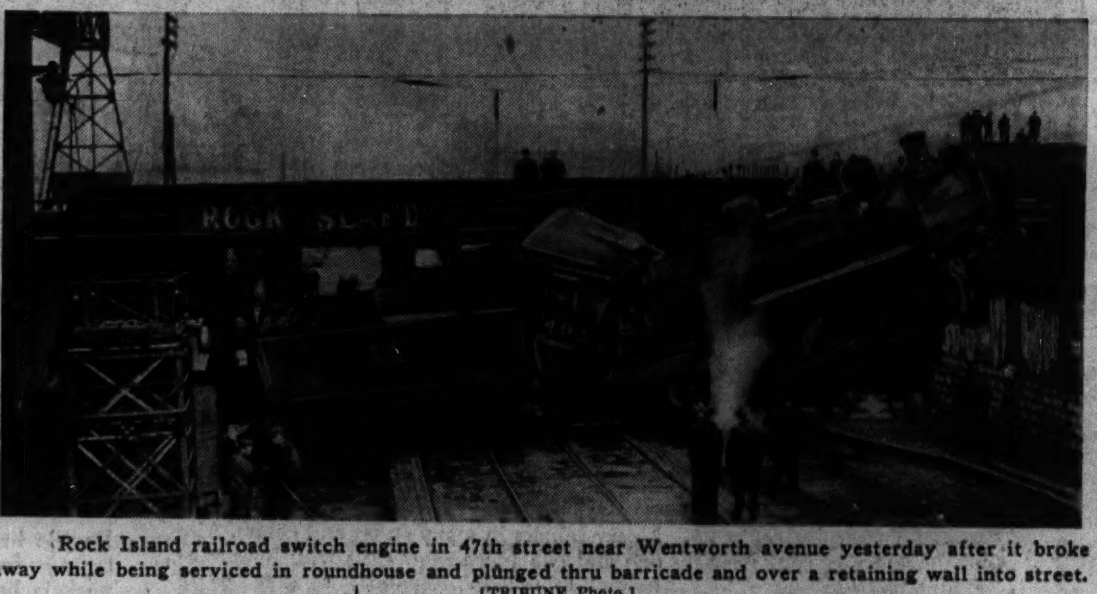
Church Soars Amid Hills.

Andacollo is known as the little village with a big church. The first view of it is the great church—an unexpected spectacle in the midst of a wilderness of hills.

The old church was built in the days of the Spanish colony. It was too small for the immense crowds that assembled for Christmas week. The present building was erected in the 1870's, the money being raised from the gifts of the faithful and the sale of a portion of the church treasure.

There is something realistic about the Christmas gold legend this year. The quiet village has recovered its old-time mining hustle, with hundreds at work in the placers. They wash for gold in the streams as the pilgrims pass by. They have found work not from any Collo-like luck, but because the peso has been depreciated and it pays to pan for gold again.

Locomotive Breaks Loose; Plunges into Street



Rock Island railroad switch engine in 47th street near Wentworth avenue yesterday after it broke away while being serviced in roundhouse and plunged thru barricade and over a retaining wall into street.

Misses Street Car

A 200 ton Rock Island yard engine and its tender yesterday broke away while being serviced at a roundhouse and ran backward 600 feet down a switch track, broke thru an iron and wood barricade, and plunged over a 10 foot retaining wall into 47th street near Wentworth avenue, blocking the entire street.

The engine and tender were wedged across the entrance on the west side of the 47th street viaduct, and 12½ tons of coal and 7,000 gallons of water taken on by the tender were spilled over the street. Street car service and motor traffic in 47th street were blocked for eight hours until wrecking crews succeeded in getting the engine and tender out of the street.

Lieut. William Keith of Stockyards station said the engine started backward down a slight grade with steam up. The engine broke away just after moving on to the coal chute after taking on water and sand. Lieut. Keith was told that the runaway barely missed hitting a loaded street car.

CONFER ON HOW TO SAFEGUARD BARMEN'S VOTE

Plans for safeguarding the election of officers of Local 278 of the bartenders' union scheduled for Jan. 6 were discussed yesterday in the office of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. Roy D. Keehn, receiver for the union, and his assistant, James U. Sammis, were present with First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley and Capt. Daniel Gilbert.

There was a general discussion of how to rescue the union from the clutches of the syndicate headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Courtney said. The problem of disqualifying George B. McLane, present business agent, as a candidate to succeed himself, was one of the topics. McLane recently declared in court that he feared he would incriminate himself if he testified against Nitti. Courtney said this statement should be called to the attention of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne, who appointed the receiver for the union.

Keehn said he expects to file a petition with the court later in the week setting forth some of the matters discussed with Courtney.

Dr. Seegar Gives $10,000 to Establish Serum Center

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 24 (AP).—A gift of $10,000 toward the establishment and development of the William Buchanan blood, plasma, and serum center at Baylor hospital has been made by Dr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Seegar of Milwaukee, Wis., Dr. E. H. Cary, president of the Southwestern Medical Foundation, said today. Dr. Seegar is chief of staff of two Milwaukee hospitals and is chairman of the council on industrial surgery of the American Medical association.

[ADVERTISMENT] [ADVERTISMENT] [ADVERTISMENT] [ADVERTISMENT]

The following editoral is reprinted from the New York Enquirer:

Let Christmas Spur Us to Fight for Peace For the United States of America!

"For us to attempt to reform all Europe and bring them back to principles of morality, and a respect for the equal rights of nations, would show us to be only maniacs of another character."—Thomas Jefferson.

It has become a major crime in the United States of America to be an American.

THOSE WHO SPEAK AND ACT AS AMERICANS SHOULD, ARE INSTANTLY POUNCED UPON AND BESMEARED AS DUPES OR AGENTS OF FOREIGN POWERS HOSTILE TO THE REPUBLIC.

This mode of attack upon American patriotism in thought and deed is nothing new. It was put into ruthless operation in the Revolutionary War against George Washington and those who, under and with him, were risking their lives and everything they had to the end that America would be emancipated from trans-Atlantic chains and enabled to live her own life in her own way, safe from all foreign interference and all foreign influence.

There is no need to point out in detail whence come the inspiration and driving force of the campaign against America that is being waged upon American soil for the purpose of undoing the work of the Father of his Country and making this Republic a militant partner in Europe's latest blood-feud.

We Americans are entirely too prone to blame Britain for the brutal war campaign to which our country is being subtlely subjected. Instead of excoriating Britain, should we not rather condemn ourselves? If we were as true to our own interests in all things and at all times, as Britain is to hers, we would not be confronting the fateful crisis which we are now facing.

INSTEAD, THEREFORE, OF BLAMING BRITAIN, LET US GIVE HER THE HIGH CREDIT THAT IS HER DUE.

Let us, moreover, take a leaf, or rather many leaves, out of her book, and apply to our own land the mighty lessons which they teach.

For our doing this, there is no more appropriate time than the present, when we are in the sacred season in which the hearts and souls of millions and millions the world over are preoccupied with the thoughts of that peace and good will among all nations inspired by the birth of Him who was and is the Prince of Peace and Good Will.

You mothers of America are thrice fortunate this Christmas season, in that your boys are not being fed alive by the thousand to the hell-flames of war abroad. But you have no assurance that your good fortune will continue. On the contrary, you have the most ample justification for the foreboding dread which oppresses you. But you and every other victim of the WAR FOR WAR that is being levied upon the United States of America, have the recompense of knowing that there is yet time to act, that there is yet time for an agonized people to turn upon the war-manipulators and save the Republic from the terrible fate to which it is being unceasingly lured.

In our contest to succor America it is vital to bear in mind that when Britain seeks to have us fight her battles and pay her war losses she is actuated solely by an anxiety to do what will redound to her own benefit.

WE MUST HONOR HER FOR ETERNALLY SERVING HER OWN INTERESTS. IF WE ALLOW OURSELVES TO BE EXPLOITED BY HER, THE FAULT LIES WITH OURSELVES. AND THE REMEDY LIKEWISE LIES WITH OURSELVES.

No one will have the temerity to say that Britain, had she done for us in the World War what we did for her, and received the Uncle Shylock reward which we received, would tolerate our even suggesting that she repeat the procedure on an even larger scale at the present time.

And if she did not only tolerate our suggestion but set about the repeating process, we would have a perfect right to despise her for her want of common sense alone.

Oh, let's stop upbraiding and scolding and denouncing Britain, and profit by her example of self-loyalty to the fullest extent!

Our first line of defense is here at home, not thousands of miles away.

When the Nazi blitzkrieg in Europe was at its height last June, the British retained by far the major portion of their air and other forces at home, because they realized that, despite the plight of their French and other allies, their first line of defense was in Britain.. So eager were they to hold their first line of defense, that they made superhuman efforts to withdraw all their forces from the Continent, leaving their allies to their fate, when the Nazi onslaught was smashing all before it. Britain always puts Britain first.

There is no novelty in the laughable albeit treasonable fallacy that Britain is America's first line of defense. In the War of Independence, George Washington and his fellow Americans were told the same thing when they were admonished that our country could not exist alone, that it needed the protection and care of England if it were not to become the prey of some other European power.

But George Washington and his compatriots were men of thought, devotion and action, and they simply scorned this damnable heresy. The sagacity of their steadfastness is there for all to see.

And now, in the twentieth century, when we are by far the greatest nation of our day or any other day, the American people are being asked to believe that Britain is our first line of defense and that Britain is fighting our battle.

THE SIMPLE TRUTH OF THE MATTER IS THAT BRITAIN HERSELF DOES NOT BELIEVE THESE THINGS, AND SHE RIGHTFULLY HOLDS IN CONTEMPT ALL THOSE WHO DO BELIEVE THEM.

There is nothing that Britain would not give at this instant could she exchange places with us, and live and thrive securely under the God-given protection of two vast oceans and her own vast strength, without foreign handicaps of any kind.

Why are we not as wise as she?

Those who desire proof of the bewhiskered character of the propaganda that America must rely for protection upon Britannia, have but to read two proclamations issued by Major Benedict Arnold after he absconded from West Point on his famous aid-for-Britain enterprise.

Britain is not to be taxed with Arnold's treason. He was a native American, but like too many natives and other Americans of our day, his heart belonged to Britannia, not to America.

The Grand Patron of American Disloyalty to America, past and present, issued the proclamation in question to the American people and Washington's army. After the manner of our present-day disloyalists, Arnold poses as a super-American. He besmears Washington and his co-patriots in the best aid-for-Britain style.

Talk of aid-for-Britain! Listen to the American-born Benedict Arnold as he addresses the American people, after having deserted America to stand by Britain:

> "I affect no disguise, and therefore frankly declare that in these principles I had determined to retain my (American) arms and command for an opportunity to surrender them to Great Britain, and in concerting the measures for a purpose, in my opinion, as grateful as it would have been beneficial to my country."

If Britain, who on December 15 defaulted upon her World War debt to us, amounting to the prodigious figure of $5,651,792,208, succeeds in taking Uncle Sam for another one-way financial ride, she will merit not a word of censure from this side of the Atlantic.

If Britain succeeds in securing American merchant shipping for transporting her war supplies, and American warships as convoys for her own and our merchant ships, she will likewise merit not a word of censure from this side of the Atlantic.

And if Britain, through manifold financial and other maneuverings, succeeds in befooling Uncle Sam into actual and unprecedented war, we Americans will have no right to attribute our plight to her.

Did any American ever hear of a leading and influential Briton calling in the newspapermen and informing them that England owed a solemn duty to America, part of which was the transmitting of billions of dollars as gifts to Washington, and when asked where the money was to come from, replying: "Out of your pocket and mine?"

Did any American ever hear a British Government spokesman earnestly assuring this Republic that Britain would take over the prosecution of an all consuming war, which this Republic itself had declared with its eyes wide open, and further hear the said British Government spokesman pledge America that British blood and wealth and all other resources would be poured out in behalf of America, like water shooting from a fire hose?

Did any American ever see the British Parliament, while poverty, unemployment and stagnation of every kind gripped Britain's national life, preoccupied with the task of aiding America and other foreign countries, voting billions upon billions of dollars for the benefit of alien lands, and placing upon the backs of the British people, present and future, the slavery of redeeming these unconstitutional and unconscionable appropriations?

Britain is too wise to her own well-being and self-respect to permit recreancy of this kind.

ONLY IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, OF ALL THE LANDS ON THE EARTH'S SURFACE, ARE THE WISHES AND WELFARE OF FOREIGN NATIONS THE PARAMOUNT CONCERN.

Fathers and mothers of America, your country is perilously close to active participation in the European war. You know, what our going to war means to the America you love and the boys you love.

Surely you and the rest of your fellow citizens of this afflicted yet, thanks be to God, still Great Republic, are not going to remain inactive while the furnaces of war are being raised to white heat to receive the living bodies of America's youth and with them the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.

War for America will mean untold disasters for America, including at the very outset, the establishment of a native type of Nazi-Soviet dictatorship, and, consequently, the immediate triumph here at home of those evils ostensibly for whose destruction abroad we will have marched to battle.

Americans, the members of both Houses of Congress are your sworn servants, elected and paid by you to do your will, not to exploit and enslave you as they please for the aggrandizement of foreign nations or any other reason. Keep a close eye upon their words and performances. Write them, telegraph them, telephone them—not just once or twice, but regularly.

Communicate with them right now and inform them that you will not tolerate the policy of having America finance and fight Britain's war, that your Government must cease playing Santa Claus gone mad to foreign countries, that this Republic's first and every other duty is to itself, and that the public servants who are chaining and ruining America will one day have to render a strict account of their actions to the sovereign people of America.

Let us Americans be as mindful of and as active for the interests of this Republic as Britain is for those of Britain.

When we resume attending steadfastly to our own concerns all our fears will vanish and our country's safety and prosperity will be in all respects assured.

If America falls, America herself and not Britain, will be responsible. In the decisive words of George Washington, the First American:

> "Why quit our own to stand upon foreign soil? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice?"

The time for mere complaining has past. The time for effective talk and effective action is here. On the use which we Americans make of it depends the very life of our cherished country.

WILLIAM GRIFFIN,
Editor and Publisher,
New York Enquirer.

The NEW YORK ENQUIRER has long been waging a strenuous battle to keep America out of war, to keep America American.

Those who seek to plunge this Republic into war and destroy everything American have adopted the technique of using newspaper advertising on a large scale. It is imperative that America's cause be given the utmost counter-publicity through the same medium.

The NEW YORK ENQUIRER is desirous of republishing additional pro-America editorials in newspapers of wide circulation throughout the country. Those who wish to participate in this all-important work for the nation's peace and everything Americans cherish are asked to contribute to the cost of this advertising. Contributions will be acknowledged. Receipts and disbursements will be audited and accounted for. Address all contributions to:

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

ALIMONY ROW GROWLS: WHO'S MERRY TODAY?

15 Left in County Jail for Holidays.

Today is just another weekday for 15 men at the county jail. Despite the promise of a chicken dinner with all the trimmings, there isn't a merry Christmas among them. These dour gentlemen are the well known "martyrs" of alimony row whose change of address must have confused Santa Claus.

Sixteen other members of that select company were granted their freedom as Christmas presents from Judges John C. Lewe, Cornelius J. Harrington, Rudolph F. Desort, and Oscar Nelson within the last few days.

Blames Wife's Lawyer.

"Sure and I'd give anything to be able to spend Christmas day with me two sons and daughter," Roger McGrath, a 44 year old building laborer said yesterday in a rich Irish brogue.

McGrath was committed several months ago when he began to fall behind on his $15 weekly payments to his ex-wife. "Me wife knew I was out of work for two months and she didn't want me to go to jail. But it's the gli btongued lawyer of hers that did the trick. I don't know what he says I owe her because I never kept track of the payments nor did I ever get a receipt. It may be $375 or a $1,000, for all I know."

The stories of these disgruntled ex-husbands have variances, but they all have the same undertone. Mostly because of unemployment they owe their former spouses anywhere from $40 to $7,000 for support of children.

Calls It a Racket.

"We've been taken in by a racket," asserted Edward McGowan, a paint shader who is the veteran of the row, having already served nine months. "I didn't look forward to Christmas so much because I'm likely to be here the rest of my life. I can't possibly make up the $4,000 my ex-wife demands. I'm stymied."

"It's Christmas, ain't it?" said one young father who looked like a high school junior. "You'd think with all this 'good will to men' business we'd get a break. Come to think of it, tho," he added cheerfully, "I'd rather keep the warden company today than my wife. He, at least, isn't going to give me one of those nice, bright ties I always used to get."

ASCAP ILLEGAL TRADE BARRIER, COURT OPINES

Holds Music Control Is Law Violation.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 24 (AP).—A three judge federal District court today denied the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers an injunction against a state law on the grounds that the society is an illegal combination of restraint of trade.

"The plaintiff contends that the Washington state statute is unconstitutional," the court wrote. "Before passing on that question, it is necessary to determine whether or not plaintiff may invoke the aid of a court of equity. If a party has been engaged in an illegal business and has been cheated, equity cannot help him. In other words, before the plaintiff may invoke the aid of a court of equity, they must come into court with clean hands. If the society exists in violation of the Sherman antitrust act, it and members composing it are not entitled to a decree for its benefit.

"There can be little question that the society has the power to fix prices for the right to publicly perform compositions for profit. Likewise, it has restricted substantially all competition in the sale of such rights, because it has all such rights. Since the interstate commerce feature is conceded to be present, the society clearly violates the act in question [Sherman antitrust act], unless the right to publicly perform for profit is not embraced within the act.

"In Restraint of Trade."

"Upon that point, the act says nothing specifically about rights or commodities. The statute is aimed at 'restraints of trade or commerce' and not at the subject of trade and commerce. But rights may be and often are the subject of trade or commerce, and the Sherman law limits restraints of trade in 'rights' as well as commodities. The restraint here is the power acquired by the assignments of the society's members to deal in a right acquired by copyright, and thus we have a contract or combination in restraint of trade."

Today's decision was the climax of a case which started soon after the Washington state legislature enacted a copyright law in 1937. This law specifically held it unlawful for separate holders of copyrights to pool their interests in order to fix prices, collect fees, or to issue blanket licenses for use of the copyrights. The law would require payment of license fees for use of copyrights on a "per piece" basis, i. e., would require, for example, the owner of a tavern to pay each copyright owner separately for the use of his song on a basis of the number of times the song was used publicly for profit.

The society [Ascap] currently involved in a dispute with radio chains, immediately attacked the Washington law, asking an injunction on the grounds of unconstitutionality.

Pause Is Rejected.

It was brought into federal district court here, with the state of Washington as defendants and numerous radio stations, taverns, and places of public entertainment as intervenors. District Judge Edwards E. Cushman ruled that Ascap had failed to show that the statutory minimum of $3,000 involved in the decision had not been proved and declined to hear the case.

Ascap appealed, eventually reaching the Supreme court of the United States, which ordered the case heard on its merits.

Back in district court Special Master Archie Blair of Tacoma ruled that apparently $3,000 was involved and the case moved to the three judge federal District court, which issued today's decision.

Ascap contended that the Washington law would require the society to list every one of its compositions with state authorities at prohibitive cost. Neutral sources have estimated that it holds copyright assignments for between 85 and 90 per cent of current popular music, thru its members and thru working agreements with copyright organizations in other countries.

Copyright laws similar to the Washington statute exist in Nebraska, Florida, Tennessee, and Montana.

STATE STREET TRAFFIC STOPS DURING PRAYER

A special service, including a prayer by the Rev. Hudson H. Pittman, assistant to Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Chicago Sunday Evening club, was given on the last of this Christmas season's broadcasts to State street shoppers last night. At 6:55 p. m., five minutes before the two hour program ended, all traffic was stopped on State street in the loop while shoppers were asked to join in the prayer. The hymn, "Silent Night, Holy Night," concluded the broadcast.

JOLIET FUGITIVE GIVES UP AFTER 21 YEAR FLIGHT

Twenty-one years of freedom served only to convince Irwin Hawley, 62 years old, that peace of mind is best. Hawley walked into the office of Warden Joseph E. Ragan at the state penitentiary in Joliet yesterday and said he was "tired of dodging the law and living in fear."

The warden looked up the record and discovered Hawley was received at the prison Oct. 31, 1918, to serve a three year sentence for rape committed in Cook county. He walked away from the prison honor farm June 13, 1919.

Hawley, who was so anxious to return that he paid his bus fare from Nebraska to Joliet, said he had been working on farms in that state and in Wisconsin. He will begin serving the rest of his sentence—one year, 10 months and 18 days—by eating a Christmas dinner today.

STELLES GATHER AROUND 30 FOOT TREE IN MANSION

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—Gov. John Stelle and his family gathered around a 30 foot Christmas tree in the executive mansion tonight.

The tree, all glistening white and hung with red and blue balloons, was on the second floor of the mansion and extended upward by the circling staircase to the third floor. Presents were piled high around its base.

The only youngster at the Stelles' Christmas day festivities will be John Paul Stelle, 14 months old grandchild. John Paul's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Albert Stelle, will be there. Governor and Mrs. Stelle's other son, Russell, is home from Illinois college, Jacksonville, for the holidays.

Other guests will be brothers and sisters of the governor and his wife.

Bandits Rob Delivery Man and Hijack Yule Packages

For those south siders who didn't receive expected Christmas eve deliveries last night, here's the explanation. Two Negro bandits boarded a delivery truck of Henry C. Lytton & Sons at 64th street and Kimbark avenue and menaced Edward Campbell, 4926 Chicago avenue, the driver. They robbed him of $7, and then loaded their car, driven by a third man, with packages of Christmas merchandise stolen from the truck.

Prize Winners Named in Book Review Contest

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Merry Christmas to all of you! May your Christmas stockings be bulging with books and your Christmas trees heavy with them. And may they bring you as much happiness and stimulation as you have brought me this week—those of you who sent reviews for The Tribune's Book Review contest.

In the first place, the fact that 1,120 readers were enough stirred by what they had read to sit down and write about it in the busy days just before Christmas was a pleasant surprise. In the second place, the fact that all the reviews showed such an intelligent understanding of what the books were about and said so in 100 words [a task infinitely harder than using 1,000 would have been] made me very happy. Books aren't written in vain when people read them intelligently and love to talk about them.

The prizes were book certificates which can be cashed in any book shop. They have been mailed to each of the prize winners. The first three winners were:

FIRST PRIZE, a $25 book certificate, Alice Marie McCarthy, 942 Marquette street, Davenport, Ia., for a review of "Mrs. Miniver."

SECOND PRIZE, a $15 book certificate, Mrs. K. L. Compton, 806 South 3d street, Champaign, Ill., for a review of "Native Son."

THIRD PRIZE, a $10 book certificate, Mary Kolar, 10 South La Salle street, for a review of "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

Winners of 10 prizes of a $2.50 book certificate each were:

Stephen Visnyai, 1938 New York avenue, Whiting, Ind.

Jane Broudy, 6147 Langley avenue, Chicago.

Sister Mary Virginia, B. V. M., 640 Irving Park road, Chicago.

Donna Shellaberger, 215 Normal road, De Kalb, Ill.

Charles Kaplan, Wright Junior college, 3400 North Austin avenue, Chicago.

Lucia Rausch, West McHenry, Ill.

Lorraine Jensen, 2051 North Kedvale avenue, Chicago.

Faye O. Braathen, 224 West Washington avenue, Madison, Wis.

Helen Webb, MacMurray college, Jacksonville, Ill.

Chuck Christenson, 10 years old, 5334 Grace street, Chicago.

The books which contestants chose to review were an interesting commentary on the kind of book which stimulates its readers, either to praise or to adverse criticism. One frank contestant delighted me by writing: "To think that maybe I can win a prize and yet give my sincere contempt for a book at the same time does not seem possible, but here goes." Altho she did not win the prize the fact that the book stirred her to try meant much.

Most of the contestants wrote that this was their first attempt at writing a book review, but perhaps having once written one you may all get the habit of keeping records of the books which have stimulated you—and that's one of the nicest ways of keeping a diary.

But to get back to the titles that contestants chose: Almost a tenth of the reviews were about "Native Son," by Richard Wright. "How Green Was My Valley," by Richard Llewellyn; "For Whom the Bell Tolls," by Ernest Hemingway, and "Mrs. Miniver," by Jan Struther, were almost equally popular and almost twice as much so as "You Can't Go Home Again," by Thomas Wolfe, and "I Married Adventure," by Osa Johnson.

Next in popularity were "Oliver Wiswell," by Kenneth Roberts; "New England: Indian Summer," by Van Wyck Brooks; "World's End," by Upton Sinclair; "The Family," by Nina Fedorova; "How to Read a Book," by Mortimer Adler; "Trelawny," by Margaret Armstrong; "The Wave of the Future," by Anne Morrow Lindbergh; "The Star Gazer," by Zsolt de Harsanyi; "As I Remember Him," by Hans Zinsser; "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," by Carson McCullers; "Who Walk Alone," by Perry Burgess, and "The Beloved Returns," by Thomas Mann, all with more than a few enthusiasts.

Children as well as adults entered the contest—20 of them—and they wrote very good reviews!

And entries came from 24 states, as remote as Florida, Utah, Mississippi, New York, North Dakota, and Oklahoma, with the largest number of course from Chicago, downstate Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

Judges of the contest—for the best reviews in 100 words of any book published in 1940—were three members of the reviewing staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and your literary editor.

The following received honorable mention:

Robert Downing, Hotel Bromley, 31 West 71st street, New York City.

Elizabeth Turnell, 706 West Ohio street, Urbana, Ill.

Mrs. Craig Buford, 848 Madison street, Gary, Ind.

Mrs. David Lefkovits, 7721 Phillips avenue, Chicago.

Ann Potter, Morrison, Ill.

Mrs. Leo Kruggel, 2120 Northwest 14th street, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Jane Werner, 1346 Wisconsin avenue, Racine, Wis.

Lorraine E. Williams, 4936 Washington Park court, Chicago.

Helen D. Putnam, 6816 Dante avenue, Chicago.

Robert Zaborowski, 7902 South Paulina street, Chicago.

Mrs. George E. Ceiga, 1613 Ohio avenue, Whiting, Ind.

Ora B. Cole, 1827 Wesley avenue, Evanston, Ill.

Regina Brown, 3714 Wrightwood avenue, Chicago.

Blake Nevius Jr., 169 West 6th street, Winona, Minn.

Barbara Hill, sixth grade, Washington school, Hammond, Ind.

Honorable mention also goes to all the members of the seventh grade composition class of the St. Thomas Apostle school who reviewed the new children's books which had just been purchased for the school library and did extremely well, indeed.

Saroyan's New Stories Possess Zest and Color

"My Name Is Aram," by William Saroyan. [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50.] To be published tomorrow. Dual choice of the Book of the Month club for January.

For that after-Christmas moment when, like the needles on the Christmas tree, your spirits begin to drop, "My Name Is Aram" is the perfect pickup. It is a series of 14 "stories"—casual, charming, reminiscential tales of the childhood of Aram Garoghlanian [William Saroyan], an Armenian boy in California 30 years ago, and of some of the more colorful of the vast Garoghlanian tribe.

William Saroyan.

Included are reminiscences of playing hookey to see the circus, of going swimming in three feet of muddy water, of "borrowing" a horse to ride in the dawn, of speaking pieces at school, of planting pomegranates on bleak desert soil, of a month of happy plucking on a zither in the midst of harvest stresses, of faith, of Armenian philosophy, psychology, and ways of life . . . about everything, about nothing, but always, thru Mr. Saroyan's genius, transmuted into something subtle and touching and funny all at once.

Those who have tired of meeting "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze" in all of Mr. Saroyan's short stories—for he seemed to write the same story always, over and over again, with the precision of a trapeze artist—will be delighted to meet Mr. Saroyan in the days before he became that skilled literary acrobat.

Mr. Saroyan, in his preface note, calls the papers "pleasant memories" and says: "The writing of this book, more than the writing of any of the writer's other books, has been without effort, strain, or any of the other kinds of wretchedness said to be experienced. . . . The writer simply wrote the words while his spirit enjoyed their meaning."

Books that are written thus, with enjoyment, are as rare as people who live with zest—and as great boons in a sorry world. Pleasure yourself with a copy of "My Name Is Aram" and you will be a happier as well as a wiser man. F. B.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TRAVELERS TURN TO NEW WORLD YULE FESTIVALS

War Prevents Journeys to Many Shrines.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

In the quaint old days, before the world began to sing Christmas carols to the tune of screaming shells and booming guns, quite a few Americans made a habit of going to Europe for the birthday anniversary of the Prince of Peace.

They were drawn by the mummers' parades in England, the medieval ceremony of "Mari Lwyd" in Scotland, the "blow in the Jul" rites in Denmark, the candle lighting for lost souls returning from purgatory to Ireland, the Vigil of the Shepherds in France, the midnight mass at St. Maria Maggiore in Rome. Some of them went all the way to Bethlehem, where it all started.

Lights Blacked Out.

There was no such trek this year. There wouldn't have been much to see. The Europeans are occupied with other matters. The mummers have given way to soldiers; Christmas lights have been replaced by blackouts; there are still all-night vigils, but not for any such mystical purpose as awaiting the coming of the Christ-child. And the Holy Land has become a heavily armed fortress.

It would have been pleasant, last night or early this morning, to have heard the chimes in Italy, or the minstrel singers in Hungary, or the chanters in England. Or to have followed the dusty trail along which Three Wise Men once made their way to a manger. But, conditions in the old world being as they are, the songs about "peace on earth, good will toward men" might have seemed out of place.

So those Americans who like to get away from home at Christmas time have turned to the new world. The twenty-one republics on this side of the Atlantic have signed a pact pledging that they will not tear at one another's throats, and they still have some excuse for observing a holiday.

A Symbol of Peace.

Of all the western hemisphere places suitable for such an observance, the most inspiring is, perhaps, the platform beneath the giant statue atop Corcovado. On the highest of the 365 peaks that dot the harbor of Rio de Janeiro, this figure of Christ the Redeemer stands as a symbol of the peace of the Americas. Its arms are spread in perpetual benediction. Illuminated at night, and visible for 20 miles, it looks like a huge cross.

Much closer to home, and therefore easier of access, are the Mexican celebrations, lasting from Dec. 12 to Jan. 6. On Dec. 15 begin "Las Posadas." Family groups or young people band together, light candles, and set out at dusk to seek "a lodging for the Christ-child." At each darkened door they sing an old hymn and cry out: "Let us in." Upon being asked who they are, they answer: "Travelers from afar and we are weary. There was no place at the inn." The invariable reply is: "Seek elsewhere."

This ritual is carried out nine times. But at the tenth house there is a lighted lantern, and the celebrants are bidden to enter. Then everybody dances, plays games, and has a late supper.

Climax on Christmas Eve.

On Christmas eve the performance reaches its climax. When the door of the last house is thrown open the newcomers find a tiny manger awaiting them. They gather about it, kneel, sing hymns, and chant a rosary. The rite ends with mass at midnight.

On the cruise ships plying South American waters and the Caribbean there are Christmas dinners, church services, and concerts. On some of the liners the passengers gather around the tree and sing carols.

Yuletide in southern California means lights. They are strung over lanes of big trees, over front yards, and fronts of mansions, and as canopies over boulevards. Los Angeles, Glendale, Altadena, and San Diego see which can put on the most lavish display. Even the oil fields get into the spirit of the thing. Huntington Beach fashions its derricks into a gigantic tree in a snowy forest. [The snow there and in Hollywood is, of course, a fake. It's made of untoasted cornflakes.]

Florida's Way of Celebrating.

In semitropical Florida the people likewise have to create their own atmosphere. At Fort Lauderdale the streets are decorated with live trees, and strings of colored lights are swung overhead. St. Petersburg tries to illuminate a sizable part of the sky by means of thousands of colored lights on Christmas trees along the bay front and thruout the business and residential districts. At the singing tower near Lake Wales there is a special concert by the carillons.

Pleasure loving Miami puts on its summer attire and goes calling, with eggnog served in every home visited. There is a waterfront festival on Christmas eve, and the day itself is not considered a success without a dip into the ocean.

Christmas on the South Atlantic

Passengers on an American liner bound for Rio de Janeiro gather in the dining room and sing carols on Christmas eve. Upon their arrival in Brazil they will find that Papai Noel (Portuguese for Santa Claus) has left presents, not in the children's stockings, but in their shoes.

FLORIDA RESORT FINDS CHICAGOAN A REAL SANTA!

BY HAL FOUST.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 24 [Special].—Here, where Santa Claus is pictured as a sun tanned fellow in a bathing suit, the cultured of this commercial and resort city and its ritzy neighbor, Palm Beach, see something of the bearded giver in Ralph H. Norton, a Chicago steel man.

Under construction is a half million dollar art gallery and art school, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Norton. They have a winter home here. Their Chicago address is 4930 Woodlawn avenue. Norton is president of the Acme Steel company and is governing life member of the Chicago Art Institute.

The Palm Beach Art league is to administer the new institution. It has been announced that its policy will be to popularize participation in the arts and to discover potential talent, rather than concentrating on a workshop for established artists.

At the beginning the gallery will house 100 exhibits from the Norton private collection, assembled during the last two decades. It includes canvases of contemporary Americans and of the 18th century European masters, as well as a large miscellaneous group.

The building, of classical lines, is 232 by 163 feet. It is made of stucco and tile and has an inclosed patio. The gallery will be air conditioned and sky lighted. In addition to the galleries and classrooms, there will be an assembly hall with 200 seats and with a capacity of 500 when opened on the patio and loggia. The hall will be equipped with a stage, dressing rooms, and a projection balcony.

SMITTY—A TRULY MERRY CHRISTMAS

ANTI-VOTE FRAUD GROUP ASKS TO CONTINUE WORK

Makes Three Proposals to Governor Elect Green.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Chicago business men, led by Henry Pope Jr., whose antivote fraud crusade brought results last November, yesterday informed Gov. Elect Dwight H. Green that they propose to continue their work. They asked him to consider these proposals:

1. Appointment of two members of the Pope committee, plus one representative from the Republican county central committee, to select and approve applicants for lodging house inspectors. The illegal so-called "floater" votes are largely centered in cheap rooming houses thruout the city.

2. Appointment from citizens' organizations of a committee charged with studying and recommending changes in the election laws "with the definite thought in mind of curing their faults."

3. Representation for the Business Men's [the Pope] committee on the state civil service commission. "We feel," the chairman wrote Green, "that we could be of real service and help in the selection of capable candidates for civil service positions."

Committee Asks No Patronage.

The business men's proposals were presented by Pope both in person and by letter.

"I think the matter has a lot of merit," the governor elect said, after his visitor departed, "and I will study it and make a decision later."

The head of the antifraud group, which functioned in the campaign and on Nov. 5 as the Chicago Business Men's 1940 Election committee, emphasized that his committee is not seeking jobs.

"We wish to point out," he wrote, "that our group is not interested in political patronage for many reasons, and we sincerely feel that we have convinced the party workers from the bottom up of this fact.

"We believe it is important to state our feelings regarding patronage as in no instance do we wish to have any misunderstanding with the party workers that we are competing with them.

Leaves Jobs to Party.

"We are very glad to state that when the Republican workers found that we were being of practical assistance to them in their work, in almost all instances we received their wholehearted coöperation. We feel that the distribution of patronage is a party matter and should be in the hands of party officials.

Pope opened his letter to the governor elect by saying that his committee, which has more than 4,000 members, had decided to continue its work, "preparatory to the 1942-'3 campaigns."

"Our members are convinced," he continued, "that it is their duty as citizens to help unselfishly to make democracy work. We have been particularly interested in doing away with fraudulent vote practices and we still consider this the primary problem." The list of proposals followed, and Pope closed with this paragraph:

"We greatly appreciate your understanding of our efforts in the last campaign and wish to tell you how much our organization enjoyed working for you and the Republican party. If there are any suggestions you might have other than those we have pointed out in this letter, we would very much like to have them."

Work Centered in 16 Wards.

The antifraud committee centered its activities largely in the 16 wards where Democratic majorities have been the largest and where charges of corrupt election practices have often been made. They are the 1st, 11th, 14th, 20th, 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 31st, 32d, and 42d.

In these wards, last November, Green received 48½ per cent more votes than he was given in the 1939 mayoralty election, when he was the Republican nominee against Mayor Kelly, Pope said. Green's 1940 increase in the other 34 wards was 19.4 per cent.

A comparison of the vote for Wendell L. Willkie in 1940 with that cast for Alfred M. Landon in 1936 in the 16 wards shows that Willkie received 49.2 per cent more this year, and 23.8 per cent more in the rest of the city.

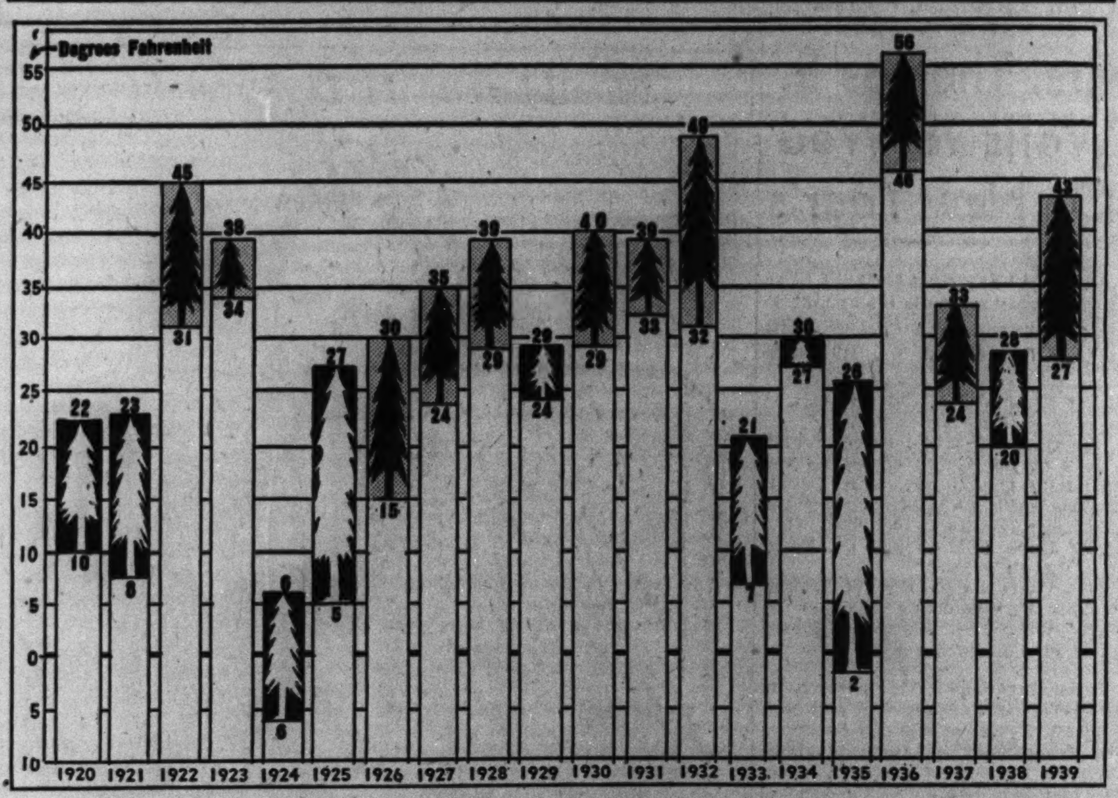
Weather Chart for Last 20 Christmas Days



Temperature ranges for each of the Christmas days since 1920 are indicated by the height of Christmas trees, with figures at top and bottom of each tree showing maximum and minimum temperature for the day. White trees indicate "white" Christmas; black trees indicate no snow for the day.

Warmth Predicted

It won't be a white Christmas today, but it may be the warmest in the history of the Chicago weather bureau. The temperature was off to a springboard start toward that goal yesterday when it hit 53 degrees at 1:30 p. m., only three degrees under the all-time Christmas high of 56, recorded in 1895 and 1936.

A. J. Knarr, weather forecaster, said the temperature today may go as high and possibly higher than the record 56. Knarr said the high temperatures are caused by masses of warm air that have been moving in from the Pacific coast.

TEAMSTER UNION ACCEPTS PACT TO SETTLE STRIKE

Members of local 710 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who have been on strike at the American Carloading corporation, 4956 South Kedzie avenue, since Monday, voted yesterday to return to work and to abide by an agreement made between union officials and Howard Snure, president of the company.

John T. O'Brien, secretary treasurer of the union, said all of the 175 men who were on strike both here and in Detroit, Mich., would return to work immediately to aid in the delivery of truck and machinery parts needed as war materials.

O'Brien said the strike was called because the company refused to pay $16,000 for overtime on overnight runs. Snure denied this, but agreed to put $10,000 in escrow to assure payment of an amount to be decided by a five man arbitration board.

FOUR INCH RAIN IN PALM SPRINGS; TWO ARE KILLED

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—A desert storm that poured nearly four inches of water thru the streets of Palm Springs washed out railroads and highways in the vicinity of the desert resort today.

Near Bakersfield, to the north of Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Riggs, both 45 years old, were found dead of exposure after they had struggled nine miles thru the storm when their automobile bogged down.

A flood in Whitewater, Wash., tore out Southern Pacific railroad tracks near Indio, delaying trains for three hours, and near Riverside a Union Pacific train was held up half an hour while a 1,000 pound rain loosened boulder was removed from the track.

Rainfall in Los Angeles amounted to 2.80 inches.

3 SMASH WINDOW; SEIZE GEMS.

Three men hurled a paving brick thru the window of the Loftis Jewelry company store, 340 South Halsted street, last night and escaped with an undisclosed amount of jewelry snatched from display racks.

Thank You Notes.

Mrs. James V. Hague comes forward with some thank you note suggestions for after Christmas mailing:

Thanks for that practical, sensible gift.
But I needed something to give me a lift.

Thanks for that beautiful sewing kit;
Can't sew a stitch—rather just sit.

Thanks for that cake, just filled with fruit;
I'm on a diet, liquid to boot.

Thanks for the gorgeous singing bird;
I'm allergic to feathers, so I have heard.

Thanks for the bath powder of luscious pink;
Just what I wanted [that's what you think].

Thanks for that handsome satin slip;
Don't like that kind, the seams always rip.

Thanks for the blouse—that gorgeous hue;
Never wear green; always wear blue.

Empty Crypt.

The ashes of Lord Lothian lie in Arlington cemetery, but where his final resting place was intended to be, the late British ambassador happened to reveal on his last visit to Chicago. Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, chatting with him at an English Speaking union tea, and remembering that included in a list of his titles printed in the newspapers had been "Baron of Jedburgh, Scotland," asked him a question.

"A painting of Jedburgh abbey used to hang in my home on the south side when I was a child. Does Jedburgh abbey mean anything to you?"

"Indeed, it does," answered Lord Lothian. "I've inherited a place for my burial in Jedburgh abbey."

Christmas Cards, 1940.

Quiz Kid Gerard Darrow's penguin card. . . . Lillian Gish's white and silver Christmas greeting. Her middle name is Diana—Lillian Diana Gish. . . . Helen Hayes' woodcut of a Victorian child standing in a doorway with the portiere held back by cherubs. . . . William P. Welsh's large card adorned with a copy in color of his fine portrait of himself, his message a warning to wake up and realize what is really happening in the world. . . . The Robert Maynard Hutchins' accordion folded card, with verses from the Four Gospels illustrated by Maude Phelps Hutchins. . . . The greeting from Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm, covered with red checked tablecloth as a background for a picture of the farm kitchen, turkey on the range, wood box filled to overflowing. . . . Alfeo Faggi's photograph of one of his portraits in sculpture. . . . The Alfred MacArthur's Mexican card, illustrated by a Mexican artist with a Cuernavaca plaza scene as background for the McArthur circus. . . . Producer Arthur Serlin's Christmas angels. . . . The Wilson Popenoe's card from Antigua, Guatemala, from the famous House in Antigua. . . . The Alaskan card from Gov. Ernest Gruening and Mrs. Gruening, adorned with a view of the governor's mansion. . . . Gypsy Rose Lee's pink card, a miniature of a Police Gazette cover, with herself as the picture on the cover.

Merry Christmas!

WEDDING

Two young Evanstonians, Miss Betty Crandall, daughter of the Ralph G. Crandalls, and William Swift Lord Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lord Sr., have selected Saturday, Jan. 4, as their wedding date. Dr. Harold G. Bowen will read the 8:30 p. m. service in St. Mark's Episcopal church, Evanston. A reception will follow in the Country club of Evanston. Miss Margo Crandall will come from Bristol, Ind., to be her counsin's maid of honor.

Here Are Some Ideas for Fun on a Holiday

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Merry Christmas!

You may be having just your own small family and a very intimate day; you may have i vited a few friends to share the holiday; or you may be having "all your kin and kinsmen that dwell both far and near." And it may be that everything will go with a swing.

On the other hand, if you sit down to a "groaning board" for a two o'clock feast, you may find, after the lull that follows excitement and dinner, that you're all ready for fun or entertainment.

With that feeling and a lively group of people, things often happen by "spontaneous combustion." Even so, it does no harm to have an idea or two in your head! You may want to tuck in the back of your mind these few suggestions for family amusement. The tastes and "temper" of your household will determine which fit.

Singing, for a singing crowd, always is enjoyed. Carols, of course, rank high.

If there are any guests who have a special "act" or "stunt," let them perform.

The most fun we've had at our impromptu grownup parties has been with charades. If you have a little time ahead, you might think out what old clothes, lengths of material and other "properties" will be available for the "actors." Charades may act out words, names, proverbs, poetry, or titles of books.

The last "good bet" is games. As you know, they may be old "parlor games," or those you buy, or newly invented ones, or the rather intellectual ones that make you rack your brains. Lots of games require writing or drawing, so you might gather a cluster of pencils and paper together in advance.

But whether you do much or little about the social end doesn't really matter, if you all have a Merry Christmas!

Dec. 25, 1940.

Universal day—MERRY CHRISTMAS! And make it one in the home for all the family as this is a six-day with emphasis definitely around the home fires. Shut out the conflicts of the world for a few hours.

January—If you happen to be approaching a six-year, then don't rush into the new year with the same spirit of fun and recklessness which may have featured your present year. Take January very easy. Rest as much as possible so you will feel ready for the added responsibilities which the six-year may bring. Get away for a little while by yourself if possible. If you can't do that, then read or study quietly. Don't seek gaiety or resent the fact that you seem suddenly to find a lack in yourself to meet new situations. You will find the need of making many adjustments during the coming year.

The Stage

"Pygmalion," with Ruth Chatterton, Barry Thomson, and Dennis Hoey, reopens tonight at the Harris theater, where it will remain until Jan. 11. The midweek matinée this week will be given tomorrow. During the final fortnight the matinées will revert to Wednesday.

Only two legitimate attractions offer holiday matinées today—"Life with Father," with Lillian Gish and Percy Waram, at the Blackstone theater, and "Here Today," with Ruth Gordon, at the Selwyn.

Two children's plays will be presented on Saturday afternoon. "Red Riding Hood," dramatized and directed by Charlotte B. Chorpenning, will be given at the Goodman theater at 2:30. At the same hour, in the Woman's Club theater, the Jack and Jill players, under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, will offer Dickens' "A Christmas Carol."

Mrs. Thomas E. Wells to Wed On New Year's

The most interesting romantic news of the holiday season is the announcement that Mrs. Ruth Greeley Wells of Lake Forest and Dr. Ellsworth Faris, professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Chicago, will be married on New Year's day.

The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock at the Hilton chapel on the university quadrangle, with Dr. A. Eustace Haydon officiating. Only the immediate families, including Mrs. Wells' three children and Dr. Faris' four, will be present.

Mrs. Wells is the widow of Thomas E. Wells Jr., who died a year ago. Dr. Faris' wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Homan Faris, died four years ago.

From Hagerstown, Md., comes news of interest in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer K. Eyerly of that city announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Olmsted McCloud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley G. McCloud of Kenilworth. Miss Eyerly is a graduate of Duke university and Mr. McCloud is in his senior year there.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Scarratt of Kenilworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Jane, to Robert Bruce Harkness, son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Harkness of Winnetka. Miss Scarratt attended Connecticut college and is now studying at Northwestern university. Mr. Harkness attended Washington and Jefferson college and is a graduate of Northwestern university. Mr. and Mrs. Scarratt will entertain for their daughter at a family dinner on Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Harkness of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. John T. Harkness of Edwardsville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Stettner [she is the former Jeanne Scarratt] of Elgin, will be among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells Martin of South Shore drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Emma, to Wilson Victor Knall. Miss Martin attended Sweetbriar college and the University of Michigan. Mr. Knall attended the University of Illinois and Armour institute.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas A. Stemmerman of Des Plaines announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Carolyn, to Arthur Thomas North, son of Mrs. Hugh North of New York and Mr. North of Evanston. Mr. North attended the University of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dudley Bills of Western Springs announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to John Scharf, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Scharf of Marshall, Mich. Miss Bills is a senior at Franklin college.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph David Mercer of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Eleanor, to William B. Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Lynch of Kenilworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian, to Elihu Schott of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Louis Schott of Brooklyn, N. Y. Miss Goldstein is studying at Northwestern university. Mr. Schott is a graduate of the law school of Columbia university. The marriage is planned for June.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Levi of Woodlawn avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Lee, to Sidney Chesler.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pettinato of West 24th street announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine, to Frank Bruno, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bruno of West 24th place.

Shoulderette Is Lightweight

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Receiving callers after a period of illness is sheer delight, especially when one is attired in one of the new lightweight shoulderettes. Crocheted in a fascinating cluster stitch, of finest zephyr or two ply saxony, these jackets are not only dressy but offer necessary protection to all invalids. Peach, soft yellow, pink, sea foam green, or blue, this jacket may be worn also when one is ensconced in bed for an evening's reading.

For instructions in crocheting the shoulderette, No. 238, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth-av., New York City.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 24.—A chubby little man who bounces around like a pingpong ball and chatters like a parakeet has found a new distinction. He is Jerry Wald, and he finds that he is at once the youngest and the oldest writer on the Warner lot. Having outlasted a host of scripters, he is now the senior tenant of the authors' asylum with a record of 10 unbroken years of service—and he is only 29. Jerry used to write a radio column for the late and infrequently lamented New York Graphic, and one day he wrote a movie short about radio. That was his undoing, for the Warners bought the thing and sent for him to do the script and have kept him on ever since.

Wald is teamed with a thin, cherubic, bespectacled young Willkie diehard named Richard Macaulay. Day after day and year after year the boys work feverishly and manage to ring the boxoffice bell almost every time. The last Wald-Macaulay hit you saw was "They Drive by Night." Since then they probably have finished three or four scripts.

Wald, they say, is an idea man and the salesman; Macaulay the expert who puts meat on the skeleton. When there was a vogue for screwball writing teams of the Gene Towne-Graham Baker order the boys once posed for a magazine layout showing them in the throws of composition. "Throws" is right, Mr. Printer. But their hearts weren't in it. Actually they manage to turn out their stuff without walking on the ceiling or doing anything else picturesque.

And they are not pals. They are friends and they respect each other and work well together—but rarely meet after hours. They run into each other outside the studio about four times a year.

Speaking of oldtimers like Jerry Wald, there's another one in town with the lovely name of Stella Stray. Hers and Jetsi Posthuma's are my two favorite Hollywood names. Jetsi is a model and Earl Carroll show girl. Stella Stray is, in point of service, the oldest woman employé at Paramount, having been in the movie business for 27 years.

Stella Stray joined C. B. De Mille when he came out here to film "The Squaw Man," as a secretary. De Mille came out, and his two partners, Jesse Lasky and Samuel Goldwyn, remained in New York. Stella owned the only typewriter Paramount had. She used to lend it to C. B. to write scripts on.

One day, Goldwyn, the business genius, came out to Hollywood to go over the books from an efficiency angle. He found that Stella Stray was being paid $5 a week more than secretaries got in New York and was going to fire her for it.

"But," argued Stella, "I own this typewriter."

"Just a minute," said Goldwyn. And the story is that he went into the next room, figured out the cost of a new typewriter against the secretary's salary, came back and said, "You can stay, Miss Stray."

Yule Shoppers Win Heart of Style Editor

BY REA SEEGER.

Christmas shoppers are our favorite people! You shop during the hours preceding the big day lots differently than you do the other 50 weeks. Where else but in this country do or did the people hustle about with music to mellow their spirits, where else do grown-ups successfully obliterate the best and all views of the toy and doll departments. The city fathers should proclaim a special day for the small fry next Christmas, so that the toys could really be inspected by those for whom they were designed.

Where else do tycoons and haughty dowagers melt with Christmas spirit, and when they do how well they do it. . . . elevator operators, the girls behind the counters, even the floormen have that unbelieving dazed look because of the better manners, the unaccustomed smiles, and the defrosted manners. And how we, as another laggard, like the concerted rush of last minute shoppers, the swarms of people who have decided that after all there is and will be a Santa Claus, that there's something in this annual buying binge after all, that it's much more fun to rush about getting bundles and wrapping the loot than it is to sit and sulk at home.

Gone are cynics, the Scrooges, and the blase after one trip to town. And when thousands of such appreciative people go down town you certainly can feel the difference. . . . the good will and beaming friendliness can be measured by the ton.

Personally we wouldn't trade one good American Christmas spending spree, wild, noisy, and hectic tho it may be, for all the other fancy celebrations known to man. It's been fun, and we mean our "merry Christmas" more than ever this 1940.

Three Debuts and Yale Concert Make Christmas a Busy Day

BY JUDITH CASS.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Once upon a time there were no large parties on Christmas, which was a day for family reunions. Gone are those days, however, and now parents feel pleased if they are able to persuade their gadabout sons and daughters to have breakfast at home. Two debut teas, a debut supper-dance and the Yale Glee club concert are on the schedule today, not to mention numerous "at homes" and the Christmas Fortnightly for the subdebs.

Today's debutantes are Miss Jane Mansfield Affleck, Miss Joan Littlefield, and Miss Eleanor Norris. Miss Affleck and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Affleck, will receive from 4 until 7 o'clock in their Winnetka home. Miss Littlefield and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Littlefield, will receive during the same hours in their home in the same north shore town. Miss Norris and her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Norris of Lake Forest, will greet their guests tonight at the Racquet club. Among the out-of-town guests will be the Yale men and Miss Anne Cunningham of South Bend, Ind., who is coming to Chicago for the party.

Many of Guests Will Attend Both Parties.

Assisting Miss Littlefield will be Miss Martha Stevens, Miss Priscilla Armstrong, Miss Jeanne Stenson, Miss Isabelle Johnson, Miss Mary Katherine Brennan, and the debutante's cousins, Miss Byrd Littlefield, and her sister, Miss Katharine.

Luckily the Affleck home is near to the Littlefields', for a number of the guests will be attending both parties. Miss Affleck will have a large corps of assistants, including Miss Patty Chancellor, Miss Helen Ruth Clayton, Miss Ruth Burrows, Miss Muriel MacChesney, Miss Martha Stevens, Miss Barbara Warner, Miss Lois Greeley, Miss Joan Revell, Miss Anne Strong, Miss Evelyn Gardner, Miss Mary Adams, Miss Lydia Elliott, Miss Sally Hyde, Miss Adrienne Cavanagh, Miss Barbara Parmalee, and Miss Joan Donnelly. Miss Affleck, a sophomore at Northwestern, will have the Glee club members among her guests.

Miss Affleck's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Spoehr, are taking her assistants and their escorts to dinner before the Yale club concert. Another dinner party before the concert is the Perry H. Kenlys', at the Racquet club, given for Miss Mary Ann Wyman and Miss Eleanor Norris.

The concert in Orchestra hall will be the highlight of the Glee club's two day stay in Chicago. Four of its members—John M. Butler Jr., John R. Winterbotham Jr., Ray Garrett, and E. Gardner Counselman—are fortunate enough to have their Christmases at home, since their parents are Chicagoans.

Among the 55 sons of Old Eli who will appear in the concert are the Whiffenpoofs, the nine young men who are a sort of "inner circle" of the Glee club. Before they blend their voices in the program of student, Christmas, and American folk songs, the Whiffenpoofs will dine as guests of the Theodore Counselmans of Evanston, parents of their only Chicago member.

Before the students return to their classes in New Haven, they are scheduled for appearances in St. Paul, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh, under the direction of Marshall Bartholomew, president of the International Student Musical council.

Teen Agers to Dance at Fortnightly Club.

The teen age girls and boys will dance tonight at the Fortnightly club. Among those who are giving dinner parties before the dance are the James E. Bennetts, who will entertain in the Pump room for their daughter Betty, who is at home from the Shipley school; the Charles McKennas, who have three children of

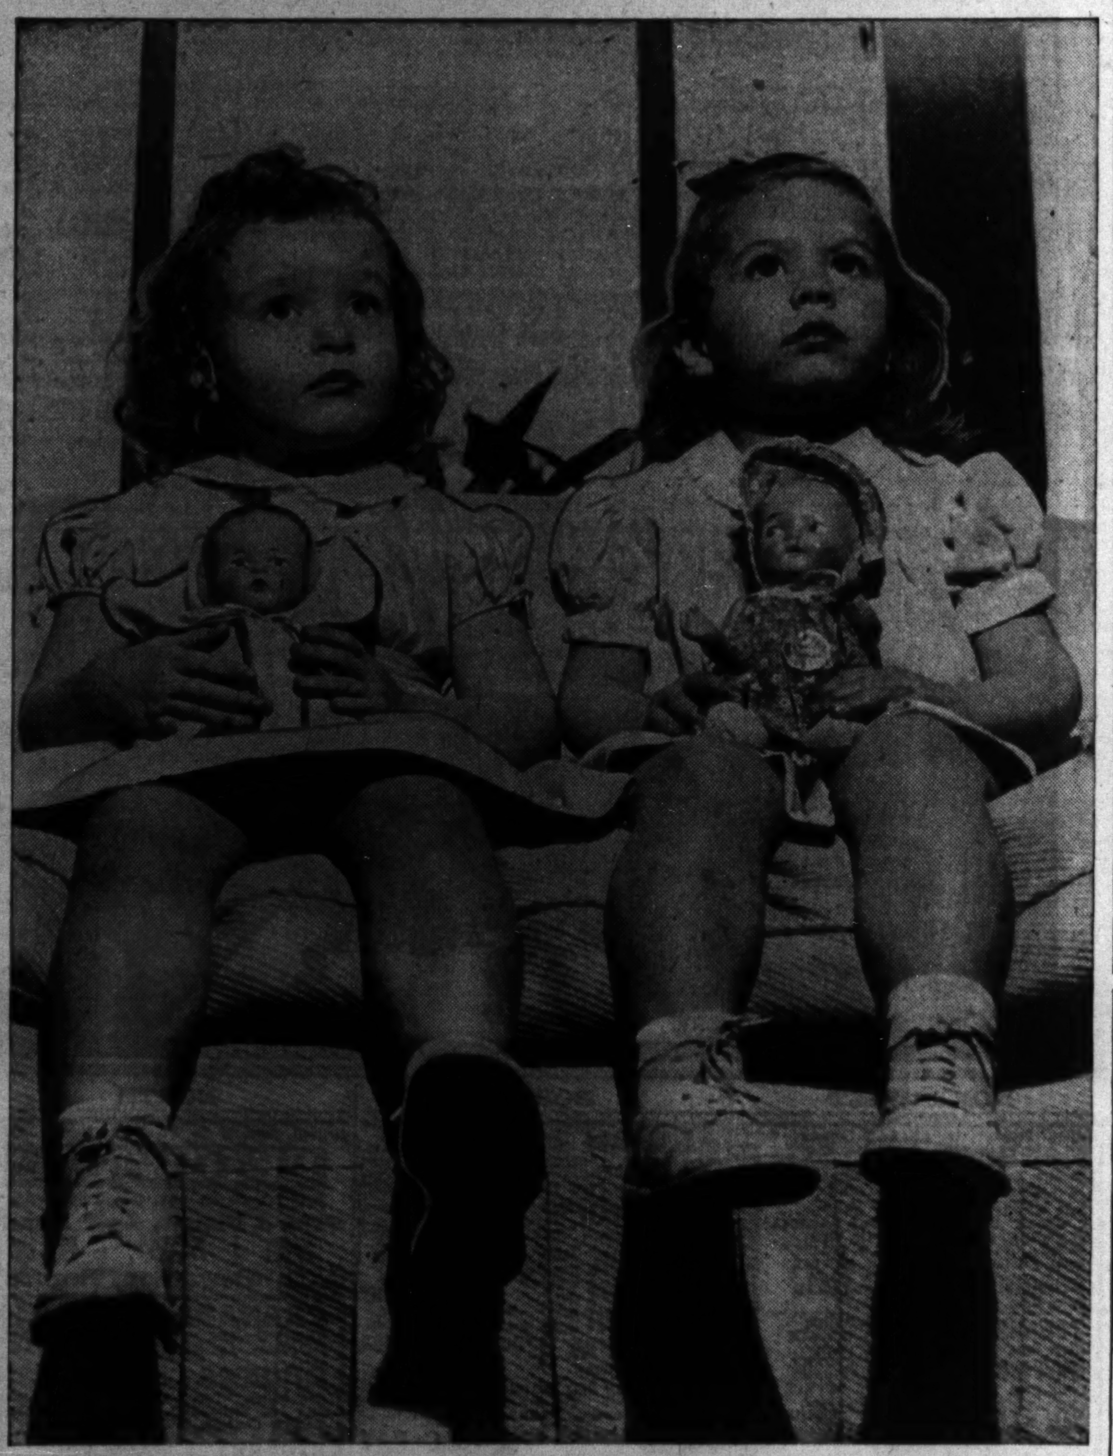
Only Santa Can Inspire Such Rapt Expressions



What except new dollies and a Christmas tree could produce such rapt expressions as these if one is as young as Jill Ann Pendexter (left) and Susan March Wood? Fortunately, they are too young to realize that all is not "peace on earth," so they and all the other children whom Santa Claus visited last night are supremely happy on this Christmas morn.

Merry Christmas!

Here's a lightsome, brightsome holiday screen gift for you!

The beloved stage "musical" of way back when, with Louise Groody in the title rôle, makes charming cinema entertainment.

It is a debonair and tuneful offering, very much streamlined for modern consumption. . . . Just where the "No, No, Nanette" comes in is as much your guess as mine. . . . [I saw the stage show but don't remember a thing about it except that I liked it].

Nanette, impersonated this time by the completely adorable English star, Anna Neagle, is the devoted niece of an uncle who wants to be happy but is so peculiarly constituted that he CAN'T be happy unless he's making somebody else happy too. . . . SO—he is easy pickin's for astute damsels with axes to grind. . . . It becomes the perpetual task of Nanette to rescue him from the toils of—Kitty from Kansas, Bessie from Bridgeport, and the like, and also to act as buffer betwixt him and his mighty nice BUT—mighty miserly wife.

In pursuit of her uncle saving duties Nanette meets romance in the persons of two fascinating young men—an artist and a stage producer. . . . The former [Mr. Carlson] proves to be THE man—but he certainly has competition.

You will be ecstatic about Miss Neagle—if not about her clothes. She seems full of the joy of life, she can sing, she's beautiful, and her pantomime is delightful.

Roland Young is no end of fun as her uncle. Richard Carlson will startle the pulse beat of many a maiden. . . . Victor Mature is pleasing. Helen Broderick's the berries, as she always is, and the gouging girls are able depicted by Tamara, Eve Arden, and Dorothea Kent. . . . Other players know their way about.

The piece was lucky in the matter of staging and direction. In fact—and to be a bit archaic—"No, No, Nanette" really has quite a lot of "It." [On the air tomorrow night over W-G-N. Don't forget!]

See you tomorrow.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Merry Christmas!

Breakfast Being Given by College Assembly

Gay invitations have bidden young guests to the Electric club on Sunday, where a round of eggnogs will precede the college Assembly breakfast in the English lounge. The board of governors of the College Assembly includes Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Detmer, the Henry A. Martins, Count and Countess Guilio Bolognesi, the Edward H. Begleys, the Thomas J. Condons, the Edward M. Kerwins, and the Walter Howells. On the reception committee for the party are Miss Helen Cummings, Miss Rosalie Casey, Miss Betty Lang, Miss Marianna Bolognesi, Edward McVoy, Edward Corboy, and Clement Martin.

Red Cross to Make 3,000,000 Surgical Dressings for Army

Immediately after the Christmas holidays units of the American Red Cross will begin making 3,000,000 surgical dressings for the United States army, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, announced yesterday. In addition, the volunteers will continue to make dressings for use in local hospitals and for war relief needs abroad.

Mr. Forgan announced that Red Cross service pins have been awarded to 558 additional women volunteers who have completed 144 hours of service in the production of garments and surgical dressings for the chapter. The unit's quota of 1,000 air raid shelter suits for British war relief is nearing completion. The suits are made of heavy tweed material furnished by the American National Red Cross, and are fashioned after children's snow suits.

Music Note

A change has been made in the program for this week's Thursday-Friday subscription concerts by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall. Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Christmas Eve" suite will replace the originally scheduled "Overture to Christelflein," by Pfitzner.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Cheli Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Grenete, and her step-daughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, a blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Grenete with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron lives in the apartment below Paul's and he confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it, but Maclain doubts his story. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her step-son, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. In Gilbert's workroom some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwill has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwill home with his two seeing eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella, the maid, was hiding behind the wardrobe and it was she who pushed it on Norma. Later Bella is found beheaded. Maclain came upon the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and finds it again about Bella. He concludes that violet perfume is a trademark in the Nazi spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was working for the intelligence but pretending to work for the Nazis. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and drives with him out to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, a foreman, speak and he realizes he is hearing the voice of the fake Paul Gerente who visited him the night of Paul's murder. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee, and Maclain pockets it, sure it is a message in code. The laboratory tests fail to bring out any hidden message on the paper. He finds that Bella posted a letter every Thursday to Col. Gray.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

CODE LETTER.

"Do you want me to write down the address, Captain?" asked Bill.

"I couldn't see it if you did," said Maclain, "and I know what it is anyhow. Thank you, gentlemen. You have a fine store here and an efficient one, too."

"There was a man with the girl, Bella Slater, once, if that'll do you any good," announced Bill.

"It might, if you can describe him."

"He wore a camel hair coat that was a honey." Bill thought for a minute. "Pleasant sort of a guy with hard gray eyes that sort of looked thru you."

"You have a remarkable memory," Maclain commended.

"It's not so hot," said Bill. "This was only two or three weeks ago. I can tell you more than that. The girl called him Arnold. I happen to know because customers stick in your mind when they do curious things. He bought her a bottle of violet perfume, and that's not a popular perfume these days."

"Some people like it," said Maclain.

Back in the car he told Al Rutgers, "You can take me to The Crags now, if you will."

He relaxed moodily thinking that he had uncovered another piece of information which amounted to exactly nothing. Box Q, Division Eight, New York City, had run him around in still another circle. It was the private mailing address of Col. Gray, officer in charge of G-2.

Not until he returned to The Crags did Maclain remember that Christmas was only two days away. It was brought home to him forcibly when, coming into the house, by way of a side porch after talking with Cappo in the garage, Schnucke signaled him to the right. He turned abruptly and reached out one hand to encounter the branches of a Christmas tree.

Ahead of him at the door, Pierce's smooth voice said, "We always have one, Capt. Maclain. I ordered that from Hartford hoping that Miss Barbara might return home."

"I'm hoping so, too." Maclain went on in and exchanged greetings with the policeman in the hall.

In the drawing room Stacy was playing Debussy. The captain stood still until the piece was finished, lending an appreciative ear. The music added a homey touch strangely at variance with the efficient state officer vigilantly alert to prevent the swift strike of some unknown catastrophe.

The captain went on upstairs. A low hum of voices sounded from behind the closed door of Norma's room. Maclain paused long enough to identify Norma's visitor as Thad. Farther down the hall an intermittent click of typewriter keys told him that Cheli Scott was working in her room. He went on into his own and closed and bolted the door against intrusion.

He took the record and stencil from the brief case and slipped the record on the portable dictaphone. Stretched out on the bed with headphones on his ears he began to follow the cut words with his perceptive fingers, at the same time listening to Bunny's incisive voice reading the text on the dictaphone.

THE HOUSE OF BONNEE
Tanner Building
New York City

Dear Madam:

The problem of well groomed woman is to obtain, in the city's turmoil and grime, a complexion superior to, and more vital than that of her country cousin.

Unfortunately most modern cosmetics have failed on many points. Nothing is more detrimental than force when cleansing and purifying the delicate skin. Once use caustics and the entire defensive membrane is injured. The sight of rough pitted skin more often than not, indicates some balm of injurious content. It's important to demand far more than economy when purchasing. Don't forget this pertinent fact—the integrity of the makers is an essential ingredient. In purchasing face cream look for these assuring words——

By THE HOUSE OF BONNEE.

Five times he played it over, checking it letter by letter, syllable by syllable, word by word, sentence by sentence, and line by line; hunting for hidden meanings, trying vainly to evolve some complex mathematical key. Thoroly dissatisfied, he got up, found several packages of paper matches, and lay down on the bed again.

He began to count the vowels, taking the letter word by word and tearing off a match each time a vowel appeared. The E's predominated as they should have with 63. Then came 47 I's, 47 O's, 39 A's, and 16 U's. He included the salutation "Dear Madam" in his count because he considered it an integral part of the letter, for the salutation might be easily changed if it had anything to do with a code. The sender could use "Dear Mrs. Tredwill," or "Dear Mrs. Thaddeus Tredwill," or any particular combination that might fit his purpose. For the same reason Maclain eliminated counting the vowels in the signature, "By the House of Bonee." He considered that the signature was unlikely to be changed even for the purpose of a code.

He played around with the idea of the vowels for two hours or more before he rejected it as not making sense. Disgustedly he left the bed, found his jigsaw puzzle, and dumped the pieces on the floor. He sat down beside them and carefully began to put them together while Schnucke watched uncomprehendingly. The afternoon light was fading fast when he rumpled the almost completed puzzle into fragments again and returned it to the drawer.

He took his small noiseless typewriter from its case, set it on the writing table, and inserted the stencil into the roller, carefully counting the lines as he began to wind it into the machine.

The salutation, "Dear Madam," came up into writing position at 39.

Maclain's lithe body was seized with a strange rigidity. There were 39 A's in the letter, a coincidence perhaps, but he doubted if that were so. It must have something to do with the setup—must be some indication where the letter began.

The room was dark when he went to the brief case and took out the envelope with the original letter inclosed. As he did so, his highly trained sense of smell was caught once again by the lingering violet perfume.

He propped himself up on the bed with two pillows, closed his sightless eyes, and held the letter out before him as tho his wonderful brain, shrouded in darkness, might give him what his eyes forever lacked—the power to see.

Violets.

How in the name of the ancient gods could a code be buried in violets—a code which was hidden even from the searing penetration of the ultraviolet ray. Some one intended to get that letter, to decipher its contents. The only way they could know that its contents were important was by its smell. Yet how could a smell be applied to a code? How could an odor become something that a reader with eyes could see?

In the back of his mind a picture began to form; a picture not of flowers but of letters wavering and burning with vivid intensity. One by one he shut them off and turned them on. They flickered and danced, then suddenly the first two of them stood out flashingly, like the only two letters left burning in a faulty Neon sign. You could apply those letters to a piece of paper.

He jumped from the bed, startling Schnucke into a muffled bark, and snatched the stencil from his typewriter. Coldly and without a quiver to betray his agitation, he ran a finger down over the perforated words and gave a chuckle which was cold as a falling icicle snapping against a pane.

He selected a fresh record from the stock in his Gladstone bag, slid it onto the machine, and began to dictate. The usual, pleasant cadence of his voice was gone, replaced by words sharp and metallic as the clip of a gardener's shears.

"Spud: The game has changed. Go immediately to the Tanner building, West 57th street. Be cautious, because it's dangerous as hell. Get everything you can on a perfume place called the House of Bonnee. Remember, they mustn't suspect you, because the fate of New York City and this nation may be in their files. The Tredwill bombing sight has become passe, and I've become the quarry now. If you find anything suspicious get in touch with Col. Gray. Tell him that I'm more important than anything for the moment, and to keep an eye on me. I've stumbled on a foreman named Madoc at International. I think he's the man who impersonated Paul Gerente and brought the Braille instructions to me."

Benjamin Atwood Smiths Announce Birth of Son

News of the birth of a son to the Benjamin Atwood Smiths II. of Annisquam, near Gloucester, Mass., is of interest here, for Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Barbara Mechem, daughter of the John C. Mechems of Washington, D. C., formerly of Lake Forest. The baby has been named Russell for his paternal grandfather. Mrs. Mechem has already gone to Gloucester to meet her new grandson, and in February his aunt, Miss Margaret Thompson of Lake Forest, will go east to see him.

The Esquire
"CHRISTMAS IN JULY"
Around the Esquire's Christmas tree you'll find that the gayest package holds "Christmas in July," a new and sparkling comedy, though, not as its title suggests, a picture concerning the Christmas period. While it is in the spirit of this season, human and warm, it will be relished more for its finished characterizations and unexpected flashes of humor. Preston Sturges, of "Great McGinty" fame, has created it, with Ellen Drew, Dick Powell, and Ernest Truex in the leads.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Merry Christmas for the Present

Army Commander Bans Motion Picture "Of Mice and Men"

Fort McClellan, Ala., Dec. 24 [Special].—While Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant soldier choristers practiced to sing at the Catholic midnight mass for troops in training here, Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell, New York National Guard, today banned the showing of the motion picture "Of Mice and Men," as inappropriate for Christmas eve.

The film, based on a book of the same name by John Steinbeck, was rated third among the best motion pictures of the year by the national board of review of motion pictures on Sunday.

In prohibiting the picture Gen. Haskell emphasized that the ban arose from the timing. "I don't think it's the thing to show just before the men go to midnight mass," he said.

Protests had been made by chaplains of all faiths attached to the division.

Because this is Merry Christmas, my column today is an imaginary Christmas stocking, out of which you, the reader, will pull good things to eat, and I hope you'll like them all.

In the top of the stocking are:

Pecan Crisps.

- 1 cup butter or other shortening
- ⅓ cup confectioner's sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1⅓ cups sifted flour
- 2 cups pecans, chopped fine

Cream shortening, sugar and vanilla together very thoroly, add flour and nuts, and shape the dough into little rolls, about 2½ inches long and half an inch thick. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 325 degrees for 15-20 minutes and remove to wire rack to cool.

Here's something that only an imaginary Christmas stocking could contain, unless the gift were bottled!

SPICED FRUIT PUNCH.

[Serves eight].

Boil together for 5 minutes 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups water, 2 sticks cinnamon and 12 whole cloves. Strain out the spices and add 1 quart pineapple juice, 1 cup orange juice, and ½ cup lemon juice. Serve with crushed ice.

Well, well, what have we here? A peculiar gift for a Christmas stocking, to be sure! It's HOLIDAY BRUSSELS SPROUTS.

Cook a quart of cleaned Brussels sprouts in boiling, salted water, uncovered, until tender, about 20 minutes. Don't overcook, or the sprouts will lose color. Melt ¼ cup butter and season with ½ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup chopped pimiento and a little black pepper. Pour the mixture over the drained sprouts and serve them hot.

This is probobly the first time you ever found a salad in your Christmas stocking, but it's a delicious, easy to make salad, and I'm sure you'll enjoy eating it.

PEAR SALAD.

Peel and halve fresh pears, and use a half for each salad. Have the pear half well chilled and place in a lettuce cup. Fill the center with Tokay or Ribier grapes, halved, seeded and put together with tiny cream cheese balls. Top the salad with a spoonful of French dressing sweetened with honey.

'Way down in the toe of the stocking is something that seems to be a more conventional Christmas gift—candy.

Christmas Divinity Fudge.

- 2 cups sugar
- ½ cup light corn sirup
- ½ cup hot water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup chopped toasted almonds
- ½ cup mixed green and red candied cherries

Combine sugar, corn sirup and hot water in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and cook without stirring to the firm ball stage, 248 degrees. Wipe crystals from the sides of the pan and pour the sirup in a fine stream over the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff with the salt. Beat constantly while adding sirup and continue beating until mixture thickens and begins to lose gloss. Add vanilla, nuts and candied cherries, and drop by spoonfuls on waxed paper, or pour into a greased pan and cut into squares when cool.

Fraternity Luncheon.

The Chicago alumni organization of Beta Theta Pi, college social fraternity, will hold its annual undergraduate luncheon and Christmas party at noon Friday in the Palmer House. More than 200 are expected to attend. The alumni group was organized in 1868.

Second Juliet Is Threatening This Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a boy for three years. We intended to be married as soon as he should make a reasonable salary. We are both young, so a few years didn't seem to matter.

"While on his vacation he met a girl who lives 250 miles away. It was an awful feeling when he told me he fell for her. He intends to visit her to see if he really cares.

"He comes to see me as before, but with this other girl on our minds we can't enjoy ourselves. I still love him, but he is not sure he still loves me. I think I can win him back, but I don't know whether I should try or not. He wrote to the girl and I think she answered. If he continues to write he probably will turn from me completely.—L. N."

There's one thing sure, and that is that as long as he thinks he loves this other girl, your happiness is jeopardized. It would be much better for him to come to some definite conclusion so that you can be happy knowing he loves you and not her, or so you will know you have lost him and can make up your mind to forget him and look for a new love.

Should he visit the other girl he may run into what many another man has run into when seeing a girl again after a vacation romance. He may find that she has lost some of the glamor she had for him under the moonlight. There's nothing like seeing a girl in the broad daylight of everyday living to test romance!

Because you've loved him longer, you have a strong advantage over her. You know his likes, his dislikes, and you are on the ground to cater to his various moods. So work to win him. Make him say to himself: "She's so understanding!"

William Woods Alumnae Giving Tea on Saturday

Miss Marguerite Brookshire, president of the William Woods College Alumnæ club, and Miss Dorothy Sherrick will be in charge of the tea which the club will give at 3 o'clock Saturday at Marshall Field's. The 23 Chicago students attending the college will be among the guests. Dr. Henry G. Harmon, president of the college; Miss Rowena Foster, college secretary, and Mrs. H. Lee Whitlow, alumnæ secretary, are in Chicago enjoying visits with former students.

Blouse and Skirt Ideas

SIZES 12 TO 40
APPLIQUÉ INCLUDED

BLOUSE AND SKIRT IDEAS.

The blouse and skirt combination is seen in all the best places and plays a varied rôle in every woman's fashion life. It goes to business and to college, to matinées, teas, and cocktail parties, and gets all dressed up for evening and formal occasions. The pattern today performs all these social functions for the blouse and skirt.

Style No. 2740 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurement. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for three-quarter sleeve jacket; 1⅞ yards for long-sleeved jacket; 1¾ yards of 54 inch material for street length skirt; 2¼ yards of 39 inch for evening skirt. Applique instructions included in pattern.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Three Debuts, Yale Concert On List Today

high school age, Jane, Ruth, and Charles; the C. Wallace Johnsons, who will entertain for their Joan, and the G. William Reynoldses, parents of Margo Reynolds. The McKennas, the Johnsons, and Reynoldses will entertain at the Fortnightly club.

As usual, the entire family of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal will be at home today after 5 o'clock in the big old house in Sheridan road, Winnetka, where Mrs. Boal has lived since she was Lesley Johnson. No invitations are issued for this annual party, but all the Boals' friends of every age know that the latchstring is off and that there will be eggnog with which to drink to "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." This may be the last Christmas upon which the Boals will receive in the old house as they are thinking of giving it up and subdividing the property. No definite plans have been made, however.

Friends of the Graham Aldises have been invited to call upon them this afternoon in their Lake Forest home.

H. Foster Straws' Party to Be House Warming, Too.

The H. Foster Straws' annual Christmas eggnogg party will be a sort of housewarming, too, for they've just finished enlarging their game room and adding a new wing to their Lake Forest house.

The Charles Daniel Freys are giving their usual Christmas party today from 11 to 2 in their State parkway home.

The John Merrells and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Loud, will be at home to their friends today, as usual, from 11 to 2 o'clock. They reside at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Ambrose Cramer is having a real family Christmas at her home in Lake Forest. Her daughter, Mrs. Donald Ryerson, is staying with her between trips to the south and another daughter, Mrs. James G. K. McClure, and her family of Fairfield, N. C., are here for the holidays. Miss Elspeth McClure arrived from Vassar on Saturday, her parents on Monday, and James Jr. came in with the Yale Glee club yesterday morning.

Tonight Mrs. Ryerson is giving a small dinner party for her niece at the Casino club and later taking her young guests on to the Yale club concert.

Deering McCormick Home for Week with Parents.

Deering McCormick, who arrived at home on Christmas eve, will have a week with his parents, the Chauncey McCormicks, before he returns to his position in a New York bank. Young Mr. McCormick has just completed a naval service cruise on the U. S. S. Vincennes, and he will be called later to complete his training.

Arthur Meeker Jr. is entertaining his family at dinner today in his new home in Wayne. Since he only moved in last Saturday the dinner party will be in the nature of a housewarming. His green trimmed white farmhouse is the newest in the Wayne countryside, at least the most freshly painted, for it is not a new house. It has been remade, however, by Mr. Meeker's clever brother-in-law, Ambrose C. Cramer, so it is doubtful if the former owners would recognize it.

Today is more than just Christmas to pretty Josephine Harriman Smith for it is her birthday, too. She is 18 today. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Smith, who gave a party for her last Saturday at the South Shore Country club. Josephine is at home from the Francis Shimer Junior college for the holidays.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is only one correct philosophy for the defenders of a hand to follow: That is to keep the number of tricks needed to set the contract in one's mind as a fixed idea, and to direct all plays toward that end. This may sound like a platitude, but the fact remains that most players lose sight of the main objective in their battle over individual tricks. Consider the vision required to defeat the contract in today's hand.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Double	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the club king, cashed the ace, and continued with the queen, which declarer ruffed. The ace and king of spades drew West's trumps, and then the nine of hearts was led toward dummy. West, instead of hastily ducking, gave thought to the situation. With two tricks home it was obvious that no more than one heart trick, if that many, could be won. Therefore, he would need a diamond trick to defeat the contract. What were the chances for such a trick?

Declarer's bidding had shown a good hand, because his partner's single raise directly over a take-out double had been a weak bid. Was it not very likely that declarer had both the ace and queen of diamonds? Declarer had already disclosed a six card spade suit and two clubs. If the other five cards were three hearts and the A-Q of diamonds, it would be fatal for West to be put on lead on the third round of hearts, since he then would have to lead a diamond up to the declarer's major tenace.

With this thought in mind, West hesitated no longer over his play to the first heart lead. He put up the jack. Dummy's queen won, and declarer, sensing what was going on, and to make things harder for West, returned to his hand with a trump and led another heart toward dummy. But West was alert to this maneuver. This time he put up the king, and now declarer was helpless. To let West hold this heart trick would simply incur a heart exit by West. Hoping that West had the ten of hearts as well, declarer played dummy's ace, and led a third heart. But now East entered the fray with his valuable ten spot, and returned a diamond thru declarer. The latter had to take the finesse and, of course, it lost to West's king, which he had protected so carefully by his unblocking plays in hearts.

INDIANS TRADE BEN CHAPMAN TO SENATORS

FIRST ROUND LIST COMPLETE FOR PREP MEET

Steinmetz, Foreman, Tuley, Lane Win.

Tourney Results

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Preliminary Round.
Lane Tech, 45; South Shore, 22.
Tuley, 37; Farragut, 20.
Foreman, 33; Schurz, 16.
Steinmetz, 27; Bowen, 16.

Easy victories by Lane Tech over South Shore, Tuley over Farragut, and Foreman over Schurz, and a closely contested battle between Bowen and Steinmetz, with Steinmetz advancing to eventual victory against a tight Bowen defense, brought an end yesterday afternoon to the two preliminary elimination rounds preceding the first round of the University of Chicago's 23d annual high school basketball tournament in the Midway fieldhouse.

Bill Miller, Tuley guard, scored 15 points to lead the day's scoring, but he trails by three points Monday's performance by Irving Ward, Morgan Park's tall colored center, who made 18.

Lane defeated the South Shore quintet, making its debut in the tournament, 45 to 22. Tuley encountered little difficulty beating Farragut, 37 to 20; Foreman whipped Schurz, 33 to 16, and Steinmetz defeated Bowen, 27 to 16.

First Round Tomorrow.

After a day of idleness following the Christmas celebration, the first round of the tournament will begin tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock, with Waller and Austin, winners in the first elimination round Monday, as opponents. The two preliminary rounds were added to the tournament schedule because this year's entries were increased to include all 40 of the city public high schools. Previously the meeting had been restricted to 32.

Lane beat South Shore easily, sparked by Russell Kelly and George La Bue. Kelly, scoring apparently at will, led the Lane contingent with 14 points, all on field goals. La Bue, who was second, had 12 points.

Lane Leads at Half, 22-11.

Maintaining a steady pace, Lane led at the half, 22 to 11, and the Tech players never were pushed in maintaining the margin.

A final basket by Urbancik was not enough to bring Farragut within reach of victory, as Tuley won with ease and also earned the chance to meet Lane in the first round continuation Friday night.

Capt. Bill Miller, who scored 15 points on a half dozen baskets and three free throws, led his Tuley teammates in defeating Farragut.

After a listless first half, in which Farragut was held scoreless for 14 minutes and made only seven points while Tuley was making 22, Farragut put on a spurt in the 4th quarter with the score 34 to 11 against it and scored nine points while holding Tuley's reserves in check. Tuley's early lead, however, was too large to overcome.

Halvorsen Sparks Steinmetz.

A fast and alert Foreman team walked away from Schurz to win. Dave Stone, who led the individual scoring with five baskets and a pair of free throws for 12 points, opened up for Foreman, and the result was never in doubt. The score at the half was Foreman, 20; Schurz, 8.

Byron Halvorsen of Steinmetz led in scoring with 14 points on six baskets and two free throws in his team's victory over Bowen. After a slow first quarter, Bowen climbed to trail by only two points at the half, 9 to 7.

Dave Brandes scored two field goals before the gun to clinch the contest for Steinmetz after he and Halvorsen had led Steinmetz in pulling into a convincing lead. Lineups:

MOON MULLINS—SAME TO YOU

Their Smiles Are Every One's

Christmas comes to the home of Billy Webb, former coach of the White Sox and now manager of the south side club's farm system, with all the depth of its true meaning. Billy Jr.'s eyes tell the story of the yuletide as he gazes at the Christmas tree while Mr. and Mrs. Webb look on in their home at 5752 Peoria street. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

At the home of Tom Walsh, president of the National Professional Golf association, Christmas, too, has deep significance for there are two youngsters in the home to enjoy the yuletide season. Left to right: Mary Esther Walsh, Tommy Jr., and Mrs. Walsh.

5 More White Sox Sign Up for '41 Season

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The postman called often at Comiskey park yesterday and it wasn't all because of Christmas cards. Among other things he deposited five signed White Sox contracts, making a total of 10 members of Jim Dykes' baseball ensemble who have fallen into line since the agreements were sent out a few weeks back.

They Join Roll.

The latest to join up for the February training jaunt to California are First String Catcher Mike Tresh, Taft Wright, the right field patrolman, David O. Short, an outfielder purchased from Oklahoma City, Pitcher Ed Weiland, recalled from St. Paul, and Pitcher Jack Hallett, brought up from the Shreveport club. Those previously enrolled are Luke Appling, Ted Lyons, Mike Kreevich, Bill Dietrich and Tom Turner.

The lad named Short might develop into one of Dykes' hand picked candidates during the training grind at Pasadena. The Sox boss searched high and low for an outfielder during the recent baseball sessions but found nothing available at his price. Not having snared the item he wanted to add to his collection of four other experienced fly chasers, and not having much chance of succeeding in the next few months, he probably will give undivided attention to the rookie who performed with class and skill in the Texas league.

Holdout Danger Still Present.

Having 10 fellows in a contented state this early doesn't mean that the danger of a holdout or two has passed. Thornton Lefty Lee hasn't been heard from since he emitted a slight squawk upon observing the club's offer for '41. John Rigney also has gone into retirement since his recent salary discussion with Vice President Harry Grabiner. Then there are fellows like Joe Kuhel, Larry Rosenthal, Eddie Smith, Jimmy Webb, Bob Kennedy, and Clint Brown unaccounted for.

Bob Westfall Goes Thru Ice, but Saves Boy

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 24 [Special].—Bob Westfall, star full back and captain elect of the 1941 Michigan football team, saved an 8 year old colored boy from drowning but received a soaking himself in the cold waters of the Huron river this afternoon.

Following a police car to the Municipal bathing beach, Westfall watched two officers crash thru the thin ice trying to reach the boy, Nelson George Turner, who had fallen thru and was clinging to the edge of the ice 100 feet from shore. Westfall tried to walk out to the boy, the ice giving way just before he reached him. However, Westfall managed to toss the boy onto firm ice and then swam around until two fishermen arrived in a boat to rescue him.

Georgia Tech Football Squad Gets the Day Off

Atlanta, Dec. 24 (AP).—Members of Georgia Tech's football squad scattered to their homes today for Christmas but they will be back early Thursday to resume practice for their game with California here Saturday.

BLAIK REPORTED READY TO TAKE WEST POINT JOB

Dartmouth Staff Will Go with Head Coach.

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 24 (AP).—Earl Blaik, head football coach at Dartmouth, is expected to be named to a similar position at the United States military academy within a few days and may move his entire staff of assistants with him, well authenticated sources said tonight.

Announcement of the appointment of Blaik, a former assistant coach at Army and a West Point graduate, likely will be made before or during the national meetings of coaches and athletic directors in New York next week.

Brig. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, recently appointed superintendent of the academy, could not be reached for comment and other army officers refused to discuss the report.

Blaik Admits Dicker.

Blaik himself, reached at Hanover, N. H., said, "there is nothing I can tell you. I haven't anything to say."

He admitted, however, that he had conferred with army officials since the close of the football season.

Capt. William Wood, who coached the Cadets thru three seasons, was transferred last month to active service with the cavalry at Fort Bliss, Tex.

William H. McCarter, director of athletics at Dartmouth, said Blaik had not resigned and that his contract carried over into next year, but would not express an opinion on whether Dartmouth would be willing to release him.

Former Army Assistant.

It was understood here that a scarcity of Army officers made the naming of a civilian coach at the academy almost a necessity. Blaik was serving as assistant to Lieut. Gar Davidson at West Point when he was chosen head coach by Dartmouth after the 1933 season. His teams at Hanover won 145 games, lost fifteen and tied four in seven seasons.

Army also is known to have made an attractive offer to Harry [Fats] Ellinger, Dartmouth line coach, and it is presumed he will accompany Blaik if his chief transfers. Other Dartmouth assistant coaches mentioned in the wholesale swap are Andy Gustafson, former back field star under Jock Sutherland at Pitt; Frank Moore, end coach, and Averill Daniell, a Pitt graduate who would have charge of the plebes.

FIRST STANFORD PLAYERS LEAVE FOR ROSE BOWL

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—After a long drill on a rain soaked field, the first contingent of Stanford's Rose Bowl football team started toward Pasadena tonight.

Thirteen players who live in southern California were granted leave to spend Christmas day with relatives. They will rejoin the rest of the squad which will leave here tomorrow night, Thursday in Pasadena, where the Indians meet Nebraska on New Year's day.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy put the squad thru its first defense scrimmage today, with reserves running Nebraska's favorite single and double wing reverses.

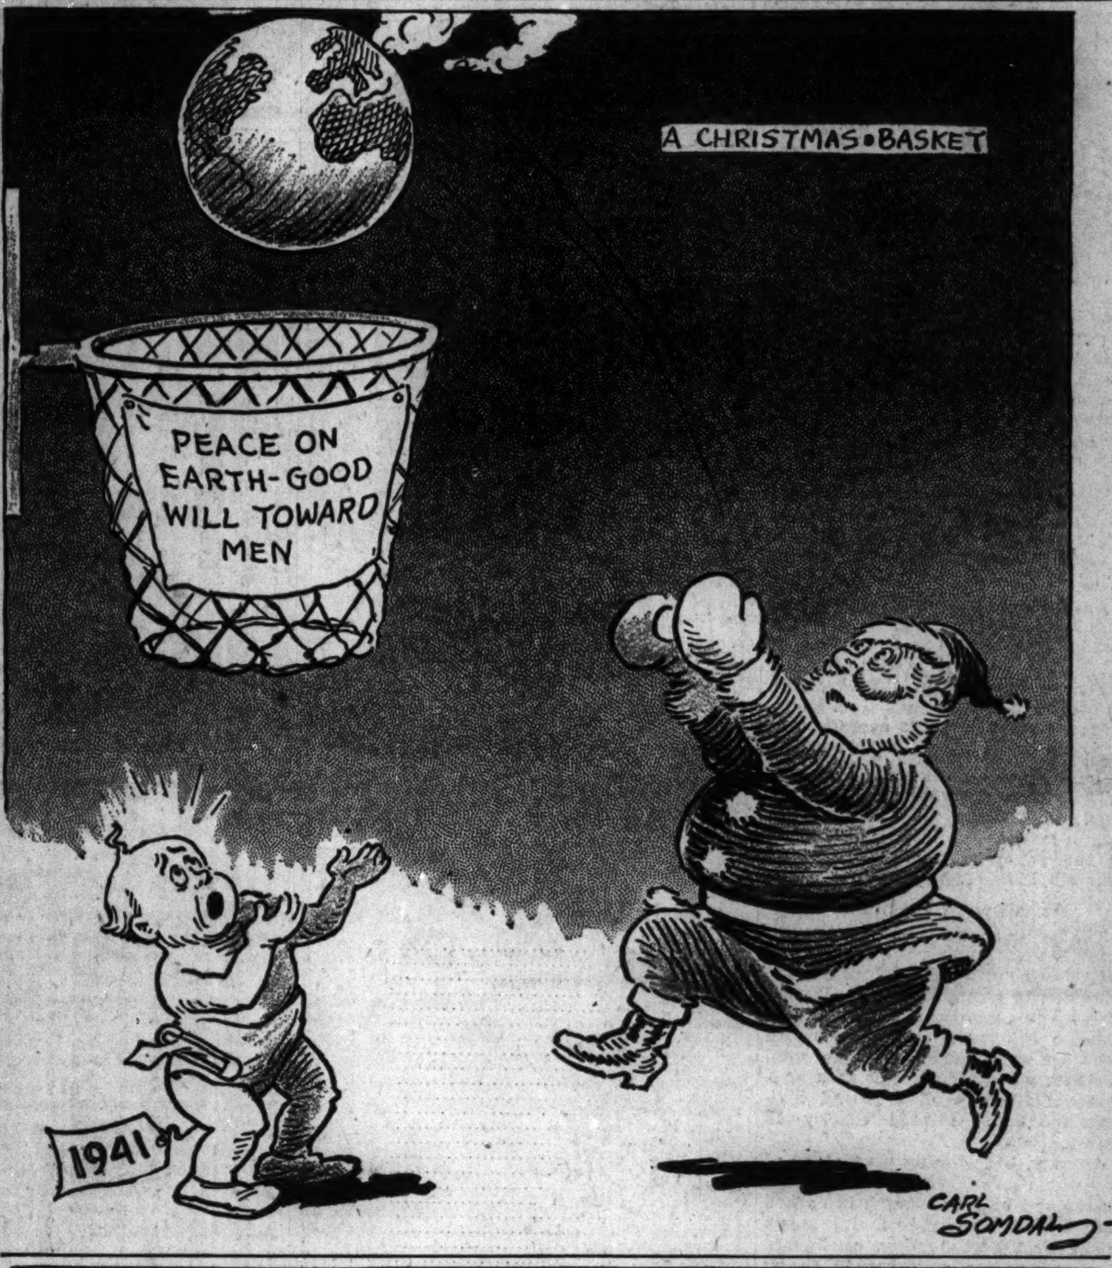
Michigan Forward is Stricken by Diptheria

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 24 (AP).—Bob Fitzgerald, lanky University of Michigan forward, was stricken with diphtheria today, and Coach Bennie Oosterbaan said other team members would be given a medical examination tomorrow. Fitzgerald, who has alternated with Bill Cartmill of Verona, N. J., in the starting lineup, became ill at his home in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Western Reserve Leaves Saturday for Sun Bowl

Cleveland, O., Dec. 24 (AP).—Western Reserve university's Sun bowl bound football team, idle since last week because of the Christmas holiday, will reassemble for practices Thursday and Friday, and leave Saturday for the New Year's day game with Arizona State at El Paso, Tex.

Greetings from the Sports Staff



In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

TODAY the Wake of the News is devoted entirely to the contributors who find poetic inspiration in the old but ever new story of that first Christmas.

Joseph and Mary.

I saw them passing by,
Her eyes were full of light,
No stars in the blue sky
Were half so bright.

I watched him press her hand
The while his grave eyes smiled,
And heard the things they planned
For the new Child.

And when they turned to go
From the inn's bolted door
Her eyes were still aglow;
His face still wore

A gleam of holy bliss
As if he seemed to say:
"Nothing can be amiss
This happy day!"

And who shall count the love
Of mother for her son
As Mary bent above
Her Little One!

Tho stable it might be,
Its walls were amethyst
In the deep ecstasy
When their lips kissed.

—T. E. B.

It's Christmas Again!

Don'tcha' think it's simply swell
That Christmas time is here?
Don'tcha' think it's wonderful
When those we love are near?
Don'tcha' like the feelin'
That Christmas always brings—
Sendin' friendly greetin's
An' givin' people things?
Don'tcha' like to join right in
An' help with all the fun
To try to make a Christmas
That's an extra-special one?
Don'tcha' like the turkey
An' the puddin' an' the pie,
The mistletoe an' holly
An' the fire ablazin' high?
Don'tcha' think it's just about
The best time all year thru?
I thought you liked it pretty well
'Cause, gee, I like it, too!

—Jinny of Joliet.

The Wake Upon Its Depends Friends.

Path to Bethlehem.

Angelic hosts came winging down
On golden clouds o'er Bethlehem town
Long, long ago. The night was still,
And shepherds sleeping on the hill
Were wakened by the songs they heard,
And harkening to the angels' word,
They hastened; a bright star guiding them
Along the path to Bethlehem.

And now o'er many a little town,
Silent Night will be wafted down
To a war torn world. May rulers hear
That song of peace, with its message clear.
May it soften their hearts and make them see
That constant strife is futility;
And teach that the greatest goal for them
Is the path that leads to Bethlehem.

—Katherine Isabelle Dignum.

Christmas Hope.

Deep in a manger filled with straw
The infant Jesus lay.
A tiny Babe in swaddling clothes
To be acclaimed this day.

The story's old; how in the night
A gleaming star was sent,
By Him to guide the wise men three
Unto the holy event.

For God alone had promised us
That He would send His Son
To save a world that He had made,
And now His will was done.

O, little town of Bethlehem
Ring out the angels' call;
Reminding us that Christ was born
For peace . . . on earth . . . to all.

—G. A. R.

No Santa Claus?

They tell us the sprightly, white-bearded old gentleman
Does not exist;
Well, I shall not insist.
But what, then, is the name of the spirit that reigns
This time of year, and heaven's goodwill ordains?

—Partipilo Malia Bowers.

A Christmastide Truth.

'Tis Christmastide and once again
Our hearts are full of praise
For truths we learned at mother's knee
That have so blessed our days.
And of these truths the greatest far
Is peace, the proven plan.
O, would that in those war-torn lands
This peace was shared by man!

We know without the faintest doubt
What peace is truly worth.
We reap its blessings that have made
This land—the best on earth.
O, may we thru the coming year
With true peace still abide.
'Twill strengthen us and Him repay,
Our Prince of Christmastide!

—G. Gordon Carter.

Christmas Cheer.

One Christmas day I walked along
Some lonely corridors
Between the white, forbidding walls
And endless, sterile doors.
I stopped at one to peer within
And saw a thrilling thing—
A sick man with the kind of smile
True cheer could only bring.

"Hello," said he, "come in and share
My happiness today."
So as I stood and talked with him
I really shared his day.
"This man," I thought, "has truly found
The joy of Christmas here!"
From folks like him we all can learn
The strength of Christmas cheer.

—Web.

Night of Wonder.

The stars are swimming in a sea of jet
This night, and all the earth is strangely still.
The very trees outlined atop the hill,
Their slender branches woven into net,
Seem molded in a pattern slyly set
To seize for earth and bend unto its will
The low abiding heaven. It grows chill.
The voiceless night is calm, and yet, and yet . . .

There's silent thunder in this night. The skies
Are pregnant with a million cries unheard.
And in a stable near the dark is stirred:
A new-born wails. The night wind swells and dies.
How strange it is that one should think of death
Along this peaceful road from Nazareth.

—Amar.

Ten Years Ago Today—Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants, won the National league batting championship with an average of .401. . . . It was the first time in 15 years that a New Yorker had won the crown. . . . The Chicago Shamrocks lost, 4 to 2.

GET SOUTHPAW, KRAKAUSKAS, IN STRAIGHT DEAL

Johnny Allen Sold to Browns.

Cleveland, Dec. 24 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians announced tonight the acquisition of Pitcher Joe Krakauskas from the Washington Senators in exchange for Outfielder Ben Chapman.

Frank Kohlbecker, Tribe business manager, said the trade was negotiated at the same time the Indians decided to sell Pitcher Johnny Allen to the St. Louis Browns.

Tribe's Second Recent Trade.

The deal was the Indians' second in 12 days. The club acquired Outfielder Gerald Walker, Pitcher Jim Bagby Jr., and Catcher Gene Desautels Dec. 12 in a three cornered deal which sent Catcher Frankie Pytlak, Infielder Odell Hale and Pitcher Joe Dobson to the Boston Red Sox. Previously, Walker was traded to the Red Sox by Washington for Outfielder Roger Cramer.

Chapman, 32 years old, a regular outfielder last season, was obtained from Boston two years ago in a trade for Denny Galehouse. He failed to hit .300 either season, having batted .286 last year. He started in the majors with the New York Yankees in 1929 and later played with the club to which he was traded today.

Krakauskas Has Slump.

Krakauskas, 24 year old left hander, was regarded two years ago as one of the most promising young pitchers in the game, but won only one game and lost six for Washington last season.

Purchase of Allen from the Indians gives the Browns the fourth veteran pitcher acquired by the team since the close of last season.

Allen, 35 year old right hander with a major league record of 117 victories and 53 defeats, was obtained in a straight cash transaction at a reported outlay of $20,000.

The temperamental pitcher came up with the New York Yankees in 1932 and celebrated his first year by winning 17 games and losing only 4 to lead all American league pitchers in percentage with a mark of .810.

Yankees Traded Him.

The Yanks traded him to Cleveland in 1936 and the following season Allen had his best year. He led all major league pitchers with a percentage of .938, winning 15 games, all in a row, and losing only one, a defeat suffered on the last day of the season. In 1938, he won 12 consecutive victories.

Hampered by injuries, Allen won nine games while losing eight last season.

The Browns recently purchased George Caster from the Philadelphia Athletics and Denny Galehouse and Fritz Ostermueller from the Boston Red Sox.

Fenger Meets Florida Prep Team Tonight

Miami, Fla., Dec. 24 [Special].—One of sport's oldest questions, whether a good big team is better than a good little one, will be argued again tomorrow night when Fenger High, champion of Chicago, meets Miami High, Florida title holder, in the annual Christmas football game in the Orange Bowl.

The Chicagoans, with their big, powerful line and bruising backs, figure to uphold the larger boys' part right well, while the colorful Stingarees, with a light, fast-charging line and brilliant set of pony backs, are just as sure they can give ample proof smaller fellows are superior.

Fenger in Short Drill.

Fenger went thru a short workout this afternoon. It was its only drill on Florida soil, and local football followers were amazed at their size. Coach Chuck Palmer passed up practice Monday, feeling the boys needed a good rest after their long train ride.

Miami High is outweighed more than 20 pounds to the man, but Coach Jesse Yarbough is confident his deceptive offense, patterned after Georgia Tech's, will offset Fenger's advantage in bulk. It is likely that little effort will be made to penetrate the line, but the Stingarees will run wide and pass frequently.

Comfort Leads Attack.

Leader of the Miami offense is diminutive Harvey Comfort, 153 pound captain, whose sensational play this season won him a place on the All-Southern team, highest honor a Dixie schoolboy can attain. He's the quarter back, passer, and a feared runner from the tail back position in the short punt offense Coach Yarbough uses. Altho Miami's back field may measure up to the standard of the Chicago champions, it is in the line where the latter holds the advantage. This and the amazing 37 game victory streak makes Fenger favorite.

HAWKS DEPART TO BATTLE WITH RANGERS TONIGHT

Have 3 Games on Road Before Returning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks left yesterday on a three game road trip and if they play like they played against the New York Rangers here Sunday night the jaunt will be just a breee even tho they will have to work on Christmas night. Their engagement tonight is against those world champion Rangers, the bunch they slapped down, 3 to 1, in overtime Sunday, and 4 to 1, the other time they played them this season.

15 in Hawk Party.

After tonight's game in New York the Hawks will move on to Montreal, to play the Canadiens tomorrow night. Sunday night they will play the Red Wings in Detroit, then proceed home for a match with the Red Wings on Chicago ice, New Year's night.

There are 15 players in the Hawk party, all in good physical shape except Mush March, who has been playing, and playing well, with an injured knee. Cully Dahlstrom, a 10 day inmate of the sick bay, did not make the trip. Neither did the old master, Johnny Gottselig, who is being used exclusively this season as a home crowd pleaser.

Tonight's appearance will be the Hawks' first of this season against the Rangers in Madison Square Garden.

Art Coulter Hurt.

With the exception of Capt. Art Coulter, who still is nursing a broken collar bone, suffered six weeks ago, the Rangers will be at a full strength. Murray Patrick was absent from the game in the Stadium Sunday night but will be in action tonight.

Other games tonight, the outcomes of which may affect the Hawks' third place rating in the National league standings, will see the Americans against the Bruins in Boston and the Toronto Maple Leafs against the Red Wings in Detroit.

Hoppe Seeks McElligott as Referee

Willie Hoppe, world's three cushion billiards champion, yesterday requested the National Billiard association and Promoter Norman E. Bensinger to name Charley McElligott the referee for his 480 point title challenge match against Jake Schaefer, which starts at Bensinger's 131 South Wabash avenue arena on Jan. 6 and continues thru Jan. 9.

McElligott, dean of cue officials, has been referee in chief for the last 10 world championship three cushion tournaments and is expected to be named for the forthcoming $20,000 meet which starts at Bensinger's on Jan. 13 with a field of the world's 8 greatest billiardists.

Schaefer, however, is known to favor two other arbiters for his title chance against Hoppe. A called point in one of the balkline king's 1940 tournament games is believed to have brought words between Schaefer and McElligott.

The N. B. A. likely will name both the Hoppe-Schaefer match and tournament referees within the next day or two.

TAYLOR CLOSES IN ON DEW WITH 3 MORE WINNERS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 24 (AP).—The duel for the 1940 American jockey championship reached fever heat today when Walter Lee Taylor scored a riding triple at Tropical Park and narrowed Earl Dew's leadership to three winners.

Taylor, favored by getting more and better mounts than Dew, won aboard Jake Freedman's Williamstown, a 3 to 5 favorite, in the featured Christmas Eve purse after booting home Kahyrite in the first and Silver Voice in the fourth.

Dew had scored with Conscript in the second, so at the end of the day the year's count was:

Dew, 282; Taylor, 279.

Promoters Seek Elimination Bout for Conn's Crown

Cleveland promoters are attempting to arrange a light heavyweight elimination bout between Anton Christoforidis of Greece and either Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y., or Gus Lesnevich of Union City, N. J., for January.

It would be one of a series of elimination matches being proposed by the National Boxing association to determine a successor to Billy Conn as light heavyweight champion. Conn, who is matched to meet Joe Louis in a heavyweight championship encounter next June, is expected to renounce his 175 pound title tomorrow.

Ralph [Ruffy] Silverstein, west side heavyweight wrestler, will meet two opponents in Rufus Jones and Al Williams in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. He must throw both men within an hour. Additional matches will bring together Oki Shikina and Pete Baltran, Jim McMillen and Pete Schu, Rudy Kay and Jack Moore, Dizzy Davis and Bill Canny, and Gene Bowman and Fred Grubmier.

Joe Triner, president of the National Boxing association, has warned Tony Zale that his six month period to defend his middleweight championship will expire Jan. 19. Zale is paired with Tony [Cianciola] Martin in Milwaukee Jan. 1 and Steve Mamakos in Chicago Stadium Jan. 10 in overweight matches.

THE GUMPS—TROUBLE, TROUBLE, BOIL AND BUBBLE

WALTERS AGAIN BEST PITCHER IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Bucky Walters.

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Dispelling any doubt about the identity of the leading pitcher in the National league, the official averages for 1940 were announced today and thrust the laurels right back on the slender shoulders of William Henry Walters Jr. of the Cincinnati Reds.

For the second successive year he had the lowest earned run average, 2.48, and the most victories, most complete games, most innings pitched, and most batters faced.

It was the retort proper to the rivals who taunted him during the season with the nickname "Lucky Bucky" because there was no luck in Bucky's achievement.

Started 36 Games.

He started 36 games for the world champions and finished 29 of them, winning 22 and losing 10. He pitched 305 innings and worked against 1,207 batters.

Walters' earned run average not only was the best in the senior league, it topped the 2.62 mark of Cleveland's Bobby Feller in the American league. In 1939 Walters, who came up to the majors as an infielder, turned in a 2.29 average that also was better than the best in the rival league.

There were other outstanding pitching performances in the National league last season, but nothing close to the sweeping success of the 30 year old Philadelphian.

Fitzsimmons Fools 'Em.

The leading percentage pitcher was Freddie Fitzsimmons, the 39 year old player-coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who won 16 games and lost only two. This was a remarkable record for the knuckle baller who the year before had lost more games than he won, but Fitz was used strictly as a spot worker, chiefly against second division foes, and started exactly 18 games.

Anyway, his winning percentage of .889 was a new high for the National league and he rated fourth in earned runs with 2.82 per nine inning game.

The next best hurling, considered from all angles, was turned in by Truett [Rip] Sewell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, a 21 year old Alabama kid. He rated third in earned runs with 2.79 and second in winning percentage with 16 victories and five defeats. He started 23 games and worked in relief on 10 other occasions.

Derringer Proves Class.

Big Paul Derringer, the lion-hearted dean of the Reds' mound staff, slipped from the supremacy he shared with Walters in 1939 and finished sixth in the league both in earned runs and victories with a record of 20 and 12. He proved in the world series, tho, that he still had his stuff in the clutch.

Rated on earned run averages, the 10 leading pitchers were Walters, 2.48; Claude Passeau, Chicago, 2.50; Sewell, 2.79; Fitzsimmons, 2.82; Jim Turner, Cincinnati, 2.89; Derringer, 3.06; Manny Salvo, Boston, 3.07; Lon Warneke, St. Louis, 3.14; Dick Errickson, Boston, 3.17, and Hal Schumacher, New York, 3.25.

Rated on winning percentages they were: Fitzsimmons, 16-2; Sewell, 16-5; Walters, 22-10; Turner, 14-7; Gene Thompson, Cincinnati, 16-9; Derringer, 20-12; Warneke, 16-10; Bill McGee, St. Louis, 16-10; Passeau, 20-13, and Clyde Shoun, St. Louis, 13-11.

Star Skaters Race Sunday in Annual C. Y. O. Derby

Leo Freisinger, national and North American champion, and Lorraine [Bunny] Lawler, winner of the national and North American titles in the intermediate class, are among the better skaters who will compete Sunday in the sixth annual Catholic Youth organization skating Derby in Garfield park.

Personal to Fritzie Zivic: Here Comes Mr. Armstrong

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Henry Armstrong, who is to meet Fritzie Zivic in Madison Square Garden Jan. 17 in an effort to regain the welterweight title he lost to Fritzie Oct. 4, is in New York for the Christmas holiday. He plans to leave in the next few days for Greenwood Lake to begin intensive training.

George Halas, Bears' Coach, Improves After Operation

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24 [Special]. — The condition of George Halas, coach and owner of the Chicago Bears, National league football champions, who underwent an appendectomy here Sunday, showed continued improvement today.

PRINTERS FORM OWN NATIONAL BOWLING GROUP

Organization of the Printcraft Bowling congress, open to all members of the Allied Printing Trades, has been completed and preliminary arrangements have been made for the group's first bowling event in Cleveland April 18 to 22 next year. Hundreds of members, chiefly from Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, and New York, are expected to participate.

The congress was formed while bowling printers, mailers, stereotypers, and pressmen were attending the American Bowling congress tournament in Detroit last spring, and a program launched looking toward complete organization and a tournament in which all might participate. CHICAGO TRIBUNE members of the Chicago Allied Printing Trades were the city's representatives and have been most active since in building the new organization. Harry McLaughlin and Alfred Swingler have been leaders in the move here and Swingler has been named Chicago commissioner for the congress.

Four man teams will compete in the 1941 tournament. As the event grows the rule may be changed to make the standard five man combination the team unit. The congress will hold its 1942 tournament in New York.

Gehringer Signs with Tigers for His 15th Season

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24 (AP). — The Detroit Tigers announced today that Charlie Gehringer, veteran second baseman, had signed with the club for 1941. It will be his 15th season in a Detroit baseball uniform.

Terms of the contract, negotiated between Gehringer and President Walter O. Briggs in Miami, Fla., were not disclosed. Members of the Tiger staff said Gehringer was again expected to be a regular.

FOUR PREP FIVES PLAY FRIDAY IN SOUTH BEND MEET

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 24 [Special].—The Christmas holidays have curtailed high school basketball activity thruout Indiana, but fans in the northern section will have an opportunity to see four fast teams play Friday afternoon and night in an invitational tournament sponsored by South Bend Central.

South Bend Central and Valparaiso will open the tournament at John Adams gym, Friday afternoon, with Fort Wayne's North Side five meeting Mishawaka in the second game. The winners will play for the title at night, following a preliminary between the losers.

Sonja Explains Figure Eight Fundamentals

[Sonja Henie, three times Olympic games figure skating champion, movie queen, and star of her Hollywood ice revue which opens in the Stadium tomorrow night, gives tips on figure skating in this third of a series of excerpts taken from her recent book.]

BY SONJA HENIE.
[From "Wings on My Feet."]

As in all figures, arms are waist high, palms facing ice, fingers extended, the skating hip does not jut out, and free foot and toe are well turned out.

Return to Center.

At center, turn bent right knee and skate 45 degrees from tracing, push onto left outer edge, starting near right foot to close the circle. Proceed according to instructions for right outer edge.

Starting backward outside edge finds you facing into lobe, weight over well bent left knee. Right foot is crossed in front with toe point in ice for balance. Bear down on left inner back, raise right toe point, swing right leg in short arc on radius of lobe. Push from forward left skate, and begin tracing with weight on forward part of right blade, right shoulder leading. Balance by almost crouching, lean inward.

Body rotates slowly nearing halfway, and positions of arms, shoulders, legs are reversed for ride back to center. You then look over left instead of right shoulder. During change skating knee straightens, then bends again.

It's a Good Trick.

Try to toe in and knee in so that right skate strikes ice on true back inner edge, not on flat.

As first quarter is completed your head rotates to look over left shoulder. Free leg must not move. Halfway, pass free foot close to right and draw it out back. Shoulders have gradually rotated.

Take your time into left inside back. The strike-off is done by bending right knee and snapping it straight, at same time giving body quick rotating movement to left.

Richards Leads Midget Auto Series by Half Point

National indoor midget title auto racing will go into its fifth series of events Sunday night in the International Amphitheater with a new leader in the person of Ray Richards, the Highland Park driving star. Richards wrested the lead away from Wally Zale of Chicago last Sunday night, but his margin is only a half point. Richards, moving up from third place, now has 148½ points to Zale's 148. Teddy Duncan of Chicago, formerly runnerup, is now third with 116 points.

BRUINS HAVE TO FACE HAMMOND AGAIN TONIGHT

Seek to Reverse Result of Earlier Battle.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Bruins, who started out in handsome fashion by winning their first two games in the National Basketball league and then were tripped up by the Hammond members of the circuit, tonight will attempt to give the Hoosiers a reverse Christmas gift by getting even in the second meeting between the two on the floor of the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

The Bruins tonight will have to watch out for a lad named Ralph Vaughn, the Hoosier who used to play for the University of Southern California and who is making his professional debut with the Hammond five this season.

Mr. Vaughn Proves Annoying.

Master Vaughn was more than annoying last Sunday afternoon, when he proved himself just the kind of ball player he was when he was a Trojan by the simple fact of shooting seven baskets and five free throws.

Another man to be watched this evening is Dar Hutchins, the leggy ex-star from Bradley Tech in Peoria, who joined Vaughn in the 41 to 33 conquest of the Bruins last Sunday by chipping in with five field goals and two charity tosses. Between the two of them, Ralph and Dar almost beat the Bruins by themselves.

Hapac Shows Promise.

Aside from Long Mike Novak, the Bruins' 6 foot 9 inch center, the Chicago attack bogged down, Michael's nine points leading the Bruin offensive. Most encouraging development of the Hammond game from a Chicago standpoint was the showing of Will Hapac, the former Illinois star who led the conference in scoring last season. Bill had a rough evening of it in the Bruins' opening a week ago tonight, but in the Hammond encounter he delivered seven points. The lineup:

HAMMOND.		BRUINS.
Vaughn	F.	Hapac
Tollstam	F.	Adams
Hutchins	C.	Novak
Neu	G.	Kautz
Goff	G.	Szukala

UNBEATEN YALE QUINTET MEETS LOYOLA FRIDAY

The undefeated Yale university basketball team, which meets Loyola as part of a Coliseum double header cage program Friday night, has averaged 53 points per game. Yale has beaten Trinity, Williams, and Washington U. of St. Louis. None of these three teams, however, are in the same class with the Loyola. On the same card, De Paul will face Butler, champion of the Indiana conference.

Yale has one of its strongest teams. Led by Capt. Johnny Cobb at forward, the Elis are continuing their record of last year when only champion Dartmouth held them under 50 points in the last seven games of the season. Charles [Chuck] Seelnach at guard is another standout, as is Bert Ingley, forward.

Coach Lenny Sachs of Loyola, disturbed by the slow development of Sophomore Mike Dougherty, is giving the 6 foot 6 inch center special drills all this week in an effort to polish his play under the backboards. Mickey Rottner and George Wenskus have been scoring at a terrific pace.

Butler's loss to Pittsburgh Monday night by a single point is not taken to mean that the De Paul Blue Demons will have a chance of relaxing in their battle with the Bulldogs, for Butler showed plenty of class in beating Northwestern and Ohio State.

SIXTEEN TEAMS WILL COMPETE IN DE KALB TOURNEY

De Kalb, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—Sixteen of the best high school quintets in northern Illinois will open play in the third annual De Kalb High school holiday tournament Thursday morning with Hebron, one of last year's state finalists, the favorite. Waterman, last year's winner, is one of three undefeated teams entered. The others are Sycamore and Oregon. Hebron meets Glenbard in the 10 o'clock game Thursday morning. All 16 teams will play the first day, as eight games are listed. The finals will be played Saturday night, with all games to be played in the gym at the De Kalb Teachers college.

W-G-N FEATURES MUSIC, DRAMA FOR CHRISTMAS

Pageant of Melody to Be Heard at 3 P. M.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A special Christmas day Pageant of Melody will be presented over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Wednesday evening Pageant of Melody, regularly aired from 8:30 to 9 o'clock, will be omitted.

This matinée Pageant of Melody is to be presented by Kathryn Witwer, soprano; Attilio Baggiore, operatic tenor, and the W-G-N concert orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber.

Selections by Orchestra.

The orchestra will open the program with selections from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," and it will also play Délibès' "Passepied."

The solos will be in keeping with the occasion. Miss Witwer will sing Schubert's "Ave Maria," and will join Mr. Baggiore in "The Bells of St. Mary's." Mr. Baggiore will sing Franck's "Panis Angelicus."

The augmented chorus is to sing several carols. All will join in the closing presentation of "Holy Night, Silent Night."

Dramatize "Silent Night."

The story of "Silent Night," harking back to the village of Arnsdorf, Austria, of more than a 100 years ago, will be dramatized on the Melody Street program from 7 to 7:30 tonight on W-G-N-Mutual. John Fogarty, the noted Irish tenor, will be the featured soloist. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N orchestra will play three medleys. The first will include "Toy Town Jamboree," "Toy Trumpet" and "The March of Toys." In the second medley of "Winter Waltz" and "Winter" Fogarty will sing. The final medley will be made up of "Wedding of the Painted Doll" and "Jack in the Box."

Miss Anna Neagle, the noted British character actress and singer, is to arrive today from the east to rehearse for the radio première of her new R-K-O movie, "No, No, Nanette" which will be presented on In Chicago Tonight from 7:30 to 8 o'clock tomorrow evening over W-G-N-Mutual.

NEW CHRISTMAS COMET VISIBLE WITH NAKED EYE

The Christmas comet, as the newly discovered Cunningham's comet is called, can be seen now with the naked eye, according to observers at Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university. It has not been seen, however, in this earth area because of cloudy weather. It may be observed on a clear night on the due west horizon, at a height of about 45 degrees. The time for looking is for about two hours after sunset.

The comet is moving closer to the sun and at its closest point, on Jan. 16, it will pass only 34 million miles from the sun, within the orbit of Mercury. Its nearest distance from the earth will be 55 million miles. By the first of the year, it is predicted, the comet should be conspicuous at a point low in the western sky at sunset. It should be the brightest comet seen since the appearance of Halley's comet in 1909.

On Jan. 13 the comet will pass almost between the earth and the sun, according to scientists at Harvard observatory, where it was discovered by Leland E. Cunningham, a graduate student.

3 Fatally Injured as Bus and Auto Collide Head-On

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 24 (AP).—A head-on collision between a Greyhound bus and an automobile fatally injured three Terre Haute young men in an automobile today on U. S. road 40 east of here. The dead were Charles Nicoson, 30 years old; William G. Evans, 19, and Walter Schwartz, 24. Stanley Waleski, 32, of Seelyville, Ind., passenger on the bus, was injured. Other passengers were unhurt. The bus was bound from St. Louis to Pittsburgh.

Dies in Cab of Truck as Fire Sweeps Garage

William Stepke, 46 years old, perished last night when trapped by fire in his garage at 1842 Elston avenue. He was found in the cab of a truck where, police believe, he sought shelter from the smoke and flames in the building proper. The fire started from waste rags near a stove. Damage to the building and several cars and trucks was estimated at $1,500 by Chief Edward Shanahan of the 4th battalion. Stepke lived at 2316 North Monticello avenue and was the father of five children.

Auto Kills Two Sisters Doing Christmas Errand

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24 (AP).—Virginia Woods, 16 years old, and her sister, Janet, 14, rushed to a neighborhood store tonight to buy a last minute Christmas card. Then they stopped to buy meat for tomorrow's Christmas dinner for their parents and eight brothers and sisters. On their way home a hit-run driver struck them, killing both.

SONG COMPOSER BILLY HILL DIES IN BOSTON HOTEL

Boston, Mass., Dec. 24 (AP).—William Joseph [Billy] Hill, 42, who wrote such song hits as "The Last Roundup," died today in a Boston hotel of a heart ailment, according to a medical examiner's report.

A native of Boston, Hill had spent most of his life in New York and Hollywood, where he collaborated on tunes and lyrics for a number of motion pictures, including "Rhythm on the Range."

Hill was credited with setting a new tempo in dance music and popular vocal solos almost overnight with "The Last Roundup." Other songs bearing his name include "They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree," "Wagon Wheels," and "In a Chapel in the Moonlight."

His widow, the former Dadette Lee of St. Louis, played in the stage productions of "Broadway" and "Blossom Time."

Dr. Joseph A. Gustafson, Orion Physician, Dies

Orion, Ill., Dec. 24 [Special].—Dr. Joseph A. Gustafson, 67, physician in Orion since 1901, died this morning in Moline Lutheran hospital, a heart attack causing his death after he had made a rapid recovery from an operation. His widow and two sons, Dr. Joseph A. Gustafson of Moline, and Robert G. Gustafson of Peoria, survive.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY AUTO DIES OF HIS INJURIES

John Andrew Carney, 59 years old, 1518 South Wabash avenue, an unemployed printer, died in St. Luke's hospital yesterday shortly after he was struck and injured at Roosevelt road and Clark street by an automobile driven by Leo Fischman, 55, of 61 East Oak street, a grocer.

Bernard Dean, 8, colored, of 5312 Wabash avenue, died in Provident hospital of injuries incurred earlier in the day when he fell near his home from the rear of a truck on which he had hitched a ride. The driver, apparently unaware of the boy's presence, did not stop.

John Berg, 62, of 930 Irving Park road, died in the American hospital of injuries suffered Monday when he was struck by an automobile in front of 4300 Sheridan road. The driver, Irving Schoenwald, 37, of 6338 North Wayne avenue, a prize fight promoter, told police Berg stepped in front of his car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 877 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 643 were killed in Chicago, where 23,463 were injured during the same period.

HIT-RUN THEORY STRENGTHENED IN MYSTERY DEATH

Police reported yesterday that investigation had tended to confirm the theory that Frank Petek, 33 years old, 724 Scott street, who was found dead Sunday in a hallway at 1216 North Halsted street, died of injuries suffered when he was struck by a hit and run motorist.

A coroner's jury on Monday was unable to determine the cause of death. Louis Friedman, owner of a liquor store at 4235 West 26th street, identified Petek as a robber whom he had slugged with a bottle during a holdup Friday night. It was suggested this might have caused the death.

The police said yesterday that an alibi had been furnished by relatives of Petek, who had a regular job as a machinist and was at work, apparently unharmed, on Saturday. They were inclined to doubt he was a robber. Their theory was that Petek was struck after he had several drinks Saturday night in a tavern at 1624 North Halsted street.

George F. Fongar.

Services for George F. Fongar, transportation manager of the Cudahy Packing company, were held yesterday in St. Margaret Mary church and at All Saints cemetery. Mr. Fongar died Saturday in his home at 2107 Jarvis avenue after several months' illness. Starting in Omaha, Neb., as a clerk, Mr. Fongar has been associated with his company for 33 years. He assisted the federal government several years ago when the food division of the AAA was organized. He leaves his widow; two sons, George Jr. and Jerry, and a daughter, Mary.

Mrs. Emma Georgen.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Georgen, who died Sunday in her home at 239 Franklin avenue, River Forest, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the home to St. Luke's church, River Forest. Burial will be in St. Boniface cemetery. Mrs. Georgen, who was 92 years old, lived in Chicago and River Forest for 75 years. Surviving are two sons, the Rev. Joseph and Leo; two daughters, Sister Mary Ursula and Marie; seven grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

George T. Power.

Word was received here yesterday of the death Sunday in Mount Vernon, N. Y., of George T. Power, a former resident of Chicago. Mr. Power was a salesman for the Scovill Manufacturing company here until 1906, when he was made district manager and opened the New York City office of the company. He was about 75 years old. He retired two years ago after 54 years with the company. Services were held yesterday in Mount Vernon.

Kenneth G. Bellairs.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 24 (AP).—Kenneth G. [Jock] Bellairs, 71 years old, veteran police reporter of the St. Louis Star-Times, died today of pneumonia. Born in India, the son of a British army officer, Bellairs was sent to Cuba by the old St. Louis Chronicle as its correspondent during the Spanish-American war. His main job thru nearly 50 years of newspaper work was covering police headquarters.

Edward Johnson.

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Edward Johnson, an early builder on Long Island, died tonight in Montclair, N. J. He was 77 years old. He was credited with the erection of hundreds of homes in Long Beach as well as the Castle by the Sea Theater, the Casino City hall and the Lido Country club. He also constructed the Jamaica race track and Dreamland at Coney Island.

Miss Edith Lynde Chaloner.

Miss Edith Lynde Chaloner, formerly director of women's work at the Fourth Presbyterian church and long prominent in church circles, died yesterday in the Norwegian American hospital after a long illness. Miss Chaloner was 57 years old and lived at 559 Surf street. Services will be held at 4 p. m. Friday in the church chapel.

Mrs. H. R. Palmer.

Hawkeye, Ia., Dec. 24 [Special].—Mrs. H. R. Palmer, 78, died yesterday following a year's illness. Surviving are three sons, C. R. Palmer of New York City, president of Cluett Peabody company, manufacturers of Arrow collars and shirts; King Palmer, chairman of the Iowa state board of social welfare, and R. R. Palmer of Portland, Ore.

John C. Luland.

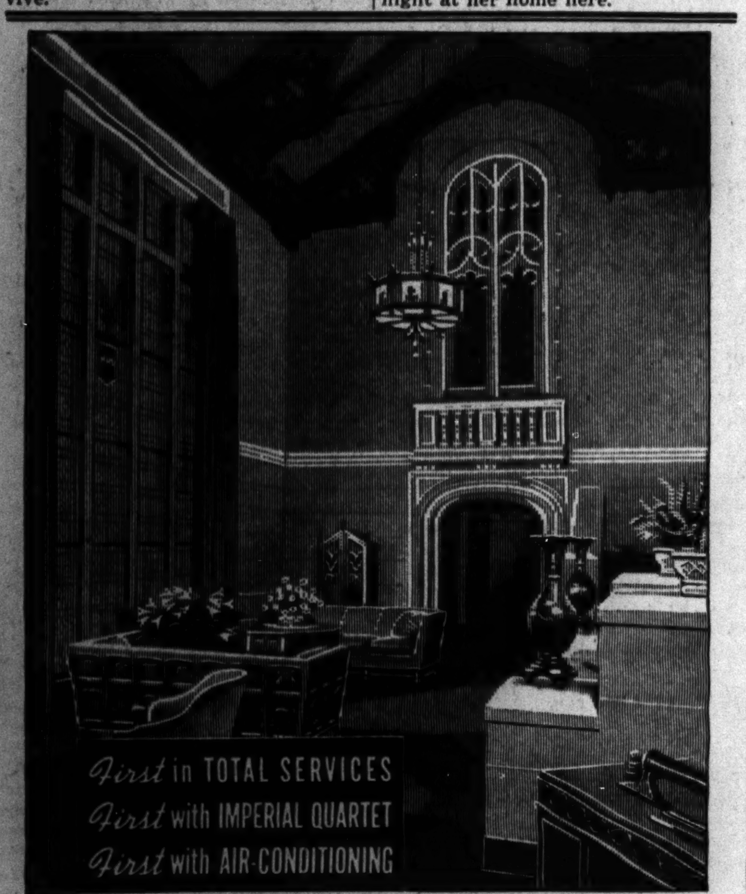
Newark, N. J., Dec. 24 [Special].—John C. Luland, expert in the heat treatment of steel and the first to develop a steel that would penetrate Krupp armor plate, died yesterday. He was 87 years old. His father, an officer in the British army, was killed during the Sepoy mutiny in India.

Mrs. Mary A. Strachan.

San Diego, Cal., Dec. 24 (AP).—Mrs. Mary A. Strachan, founder of the Mooseheart legion, women's auxiliary of the Moose lodge, died Sunday night at her home here.

Mrs. Lillian V. Kelley.

Mrs. Lillian V. Kelley, 62 years old, died yesterday in her home at 1359 East 63d street after an illness of several months. Mrs. Kelley was a native of Altoona, Pa. She leaves her husband, Martin C. Kelley; a daughter, Mrs. Irma C. Dancik, and two sons, David M. and Paul V. Kelley, both employés of the pressroom of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Friday from the chapel at 67th street and Dorchester avenue to St. Cyril's church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.



First in TOTAL SERVICES
First with IMPERIAL QUARTET
First with AIR-CONDITIONING

The PREFERENCE for Lain & Son funerals in Chicago is now GREATER than for any other concern.
More calls, more chapel and residential services in one month than the average concern in 12 months.
TWO Chapels .. TWO Quartets
Chicago's acceptance of the many features pioneered by Lain & Son—Imperial Quartet, Air-Conditioning—is proof that Lain & Son have established a service that cannot be duplicated elsewhere, either in quality or price.

BONUSES GIVEN TO WORKERS BY MORE COMPANIES

Lockheed Aircraft Pays Out $200,000.

Many more companies announced Christmas bonus payments yesterday. The Lockheed Aircraft corporation of Burbank, Cal., and its subsidiary, Vega Aircraft company, disbursed a $200,000 bonus to 20,128 employés, many of whom recently pooled voluntary pay roll deductions to purchase a $90,000 bomber as a Christmas gift to Great Britain.

James J. Mattern to deliver plane.

About 7,200 Lockheed and Vega employes—those hired prior to last May 1—received $25 government savings bonds, and the others were given cash bonuses ranging from $5 to $10 depending on length of employment.

Weather permitting, James J. Mattern, a Lockheed test pilot, is scheduled to deliver the British gift—a Lockheed Hudson bomber—to the R. A. F. in Montreal today.

Republic Aviation Gives Bonus.

The Republic Aviation corporation gave its employés a $185,000 Christmas bonus. The payments amounted to nearly two weeks' pay for each employé of a year's service, with a proportionately lower bonus to newer employés. According to the announcement, the company is completing "its first profitable year in its history."

The L. Fish Furniture company distributed bonuses totaling in excess of $20,000 to all salaried employés, with distribution being made according to length of service. Floyd D. Cerf company, investment banking firm, made bonus payments of one week's salary to employés, plus a distribution of common stock purchase warrants of Rand's, retail drug store chain.

The Midland Pipe and Supply company paid a bonus of one week's salary to all employés of a year or more service, with a $10 payment to newer employés. The Scholl Manufacturing company distributed an extra week's salary to employés of five years or more service, and a half week's salary to others.

Bank Pays 2 Per Cent.

The University State bank, 1354 East 55th street, paid bonuses amounting to 2 per cent of yearly salaries to those employed a year or more, and a proportionate amount to those with less service.

All of the 7,596 employés of the Commercial Investment Trust corporation and its subsidiaries received a Christmas bonus. Together with a bonus paid in June to employés of the Universal Credit corporation, a subsidiary, the payment brought the year's total bonus to $625,000.

SHARP ADVANCE CARRIES TOP HOG VALUES TO $7.10

Top grades of hogs yesterday rose to $7.10 in one of the sharpest advances since the war market of early September, 1939. The price was the highest in more than three months, and 75 cents above the close of last week. A year ago the best hogs sold at $6.00.

The substantial advances of the last two days were attributed chiefly to light receipts, which were below the volume required to keep slaughering gangs at work. Some packing plants sent men home after a couple hours' work.

Several smaller plants remained out of the market entirely rather than pay the advanced prices. This caused a setback late in the day and much of the early gain was lost. The practical top at the close was $6.85. However, the day's average showed a gain of 25 cents at $6.75.

Light supplies of cattle sent steers and yearlings up mostly 25 cents, with some spots 40 cents higher. The top was $15. Heifers were bought at fully 25 cents advance. Beef cows, canners and cutters gained 10 to 15 cents. alves rose 50 cents.

Steady to slightly higher prices prevailed for lambs.

COTTON

Buying of cotton futures yesterday, said to have been the removal of hedges against sales to Russia, combined with some support from mills resulted in a higher range of prices. Closing sales were at the top, with gains of .01 to .05 cent a pound. Cash firms and Bombay sold early.

Cash cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent higher, with New York 10.34 cents; New Orleans, 9.91 cents; Galveston, 9.79 cents, and Houston at 9.72 cents a pound. Futures prices follow:

CHRISTMAS, 1940.

Christmas this year presents a mixture of light and shadow for the investor. The year-end cornucopia from which flowed larger and more numerous dividend checks contrasts with the dark uncertainties cast by the war in Europe and the costly defense program at home.

More encouraging earnings reports, climbing indices of business activity, and the highest rate of industrial operations in a decade or more are counterbalanced by increased federal taxes and the imminent threat of even higher taxes next year.

With business improvement in evidence, the question "How long will it last?" reflects the uncertainty which is fairly common among investors. The stock market boom which was looked for optimistically a year ago has not materialized—again a reflection of the skepticism with which investors view the soundness of the current business upturn.

Securities analysts have been baffled by the picture of rising corporate profits on one hand, and weak or declining stock prices on the other. The feeble response of the market to the improvement in earnings has been blamed by some upon the dearth of public speculative interest in the securities markets.

The absence of the throng of small speculators from the markets has been advanced also as one explanation of the sleepy gait of securities trading. Those who were caught in the downward spiral which followed the "great bull market" of 1928-'29 have not ventured back to any large extent. Their savings now swell bank deposits and cause federal reserve officials and others to worry about the rising mountain of unemployed funds.

The dominant trend apparent in the securities markets is the tendency of investors to buy securities primarily for income—for long-term investment. The temptation to "play the market" seems to have lost its oldtime appeal. The trading activity of the average investor has thereby diminished.

The war, rising taxes, and federal money policies are among the disturbing influences which have sobered investors. The problem of putting savings to work has become more difficult. The lack of investment outlets and the decline of interest rates on high grade bonds to the lowest in history have darkened the investor's outlook.

The brighter side of the Christmas season will be turned, however, to those investors who avoided the lure of "easy money" ventures and who placed their funds into securities selected after a thoughtful appraisal of the basic performance and future earnings prospects of the issuing companies.

LARGE CHICAGO TRADE IN SIGHT BUILDING SHIPS

Firms Invited to Bid on Smaller Craft.

An untapped reservoir of business estimated as large as $4,500,000 yearly, providing annual wages ranging to $3,952,000, is available to the Chicago area in shipbuilding orders under the national defense plan. This was disclosed yesterday in statements by Commander J. K. Esler, in charge of the 9th naval district material office at Great Lakes Naval Training station, and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The navy plans to build a large number of mine sweepers, sub chasers, net tenders, mosquito boats armed with torpedo tubes and 30 to 50 foot launches. With coastal shipyards employed in large construction work, Commander Esler said, much of this work on smaller craft will move inland to the lowest bidders.

Commander Esler, working with Lieutenant Commander R. F. Hans, has completed a survey of the available shipyards in the 9th naval area. This survey, now in the hands of naval authorities, places the stamp of approval on five companies in the Chicago area.

Five Companies Approved.

These are the American Shipbuilding company, which has a plant at South Chicago; the Calumet Shipyards and Dry Dock company, 9736 Harbor avenue; H. C. Grebe & Company, Inc., 3250 North Washtenaw avenue, Larsens Marine service, 101 Harbor place, Waukegan, and the Thompson Boat and Engine Works, 3924 North Rockwell street.

The American and Calumet companies have facilities for construction of boats up to 250 feet long, the approximate limit placed on craft built inland by the locks of the St. Lawrence river. The other companies are equipped to turn out smaller wooden cruisers, small steel tugs, and mosquito boats.

A survey by the Association of Commerce showed that Chicagoland shipbuilding companies, operating at present capacity, would employ 1,000 men capable of turning out total yearly products valued at $1,500,000. Possible expansion would increase the number of employés to 3,000, the survey showed, and raise total production to $4,500,000. On a basis of wages of $1.20 to $1.90 an hour, according to the association's statement, wages would run at present possible capacity from $2,496,000 to $3,952,000 yearly.

Depends on Efficiency.

The speed with which the inland shipbuilding business expands, depends on the efficiency displayed by the government in catching up with the defense construction plans, it was said. The amount of business which finds its way into the Chicago area is dependent on the success of Chicagoland companies in underbidding competitors on the present

Heat Treating Furnace Firm to Build Plant

The Lindberg Engineering company, which has received substantial orders for heat treating furnaces for aluminum from airplane companies, yesterday announced plans for building a new plant at an estimated cost of $250,000.

The company, manufacturer of heat treating equipment for all types of metal production, purchased 47,500 square feet at the northeast corner of Campbell avenue and Hubbard street from the Consumers company as the new plant site. The indicated price of the property was $20,000. C. H. Stevenson, a vice president of the company, said that construction of the plant and a three story office building, which together will have a floor space of about 40,000 square feet, will begin within the next three or four weeks.

Serves Auto Makers.

Besides the airplane industry, the company has been busy filling orders for various automobile manufacturers that have received defense contracts, and has supplied equipment for naval stations in the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska, the Canal Zone, the Philippines, and Puerto Rico.

Stevenson said the company recently sent a shipment of heat treating equipment over the Burma road in China for a new airplane factory being constructed in that country. Shipments, he said, also have increased to Canada and to South Africa, where the equipment is used in the making of tools for the gold mines that the British are exploiting more actively because of the war.

Shipments Much Larger.

He reported that the company's shipments this year approximate $2,500,000, compared with $700,000 last year. The present backlog of orders totals about $750,000, against $150,000 in December last year, Stevenson said.

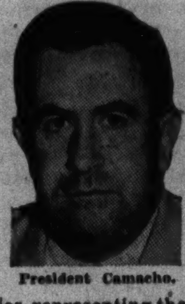
The company, formed five years ago, now employs 180 persons, compared with 75 at this time last year. Lately, the plant has been operating on two shifts a day, with a substantial amount of overtime work, Stevenson said.

The furnaces for treating aluminum and brass are operated at a low pressure compared with the heat treating of steel. The furnaces are operated either with gas or electricity.

Stevenson said that the company hopes to vacate its present quarters at 221 North Laflin street and move into its new plant by April 1. Other officers of the company are A. N. Lindberg, president, and Fred A. Hansen, a vice president.

MEXICAN DEPUTIES PASS BILL TO END RAIL CONTROL BY WORKERS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 24.—President Avila Camacho won his first important parliamentary victory today when the chamber of deputies unanimously approved a bill depriving the railroad workers' syndicate of the management of the national railroads.



President Camacho.

The victory was regarded the more remarkable in that the deputies representing the Confederation of Mexican Workers and the Allied Peasants' confederation, who between them amount to about half of the chamber, did not oppose the bill. It was argued that the debt laden roads require government control.

The measure produced some excitement in labor circles and it was predicted that it would encounter opposition in the senate.

Curtiss-Wright Ready to Build Propeller Unit

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 24 (AP).—Curtiss-Wright corporation's propeller division reported today everything was ready—except final selection of the site—for the construction of a $2,000,000 plant to produce hollow steel propeller blades for military aircraft.

Several sites in the Pittsburgh area have been surveyed and submitted to the war department for approval, James H. McKee, works manager of the propeller division's Neville Island plant, reported.

Machines Are Ordered.

Assistant works manager Hamilton Foley said that plans for the projected plant had been formulated in detail, that orders for machines had been placed with special priorities, and that auxiliary tools and dies had been ordered.

Foley said the Neville Island plant had been expanded four-fold during the last year, but its production and that of a plant at Caldwell, N. J., were insufficient to meet the demands of the army air corps alone.

Has British Contracts.

The British government also has placed orders with the company, Foley reported.

The new plant will require about 60 acres of land and employ approximately 4,000 men. The Neville Island plant, which started the year with a force of about 200, now has about 1,000 men at work. The Caldwell plant employs approximately 2,500.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Southern Kraft corporation made a successful bid today of $501,000 for the Glens Falls, N. Y., and Marinette, Wis., properties of the International Tissue corporation.

REPORT DECLINE IN STOCKYARDS FIRM EARNINGS

United's Volume Up; Taxes Higher.

United Stockyards corporation, biggest company in its field, yesterday issued its annual report, showing smaller earnings, rising taxes, and an increase in volume of live stock slaughtered. The report covered the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. United holds securities in, or provides management for, many stockyards in the United States and Canada.

Net income was $341,225, after preferred dividends and other charges, including exchange loss on assets of a Canadian subsidiary, and was equal to 10 cents a share on common stock. In the preceding year, profit was $350,827, or 13 cents a share.

"Unusual Items" Cut Net.

C. F. Topping, president, stated that results from operations of subsidiary companies had improved, and that the decline in consolidated profit was caused by certain "unusual items" of expense.

He mentioned the loss thru the drop in the Canadian dollar's value, and provision made for reduction of net ledger value of certain property in connection with a lease.

"Taxes, the upward trend of which continues unabated and over which the corporation has no control, increased $107,770 over the preceding year," Topping said. He reported taxes totaled $720,958, compared with $613,188 in the 1939 fiscal year and $547,318 in 1938.

Slaughtering Increases.

Total receipts of live stock at yards of subsidiary companies increased to 16,190,946 head from 14,464,395 the year before. Receipts of hogs rose 31 per cent and 5 per cent more sheep were received, but cattle receipts declined 1.69 per cent and 4.37 per cent fewer calves were received.

Topping predicted that the volume of business at subsidiaries' yards will be at least as large in 1941 as it was in the 1940 year.

Schenley Distillers corporation reported for the quarter ended Nov. 30 net income of $1,786,457, equal to $1.23 a common share. No comparison with earnings in the corresponding 1939 period was available because the company recently changed its fiscal year to end Aug. 31.

Storkline Furniture corporation, Chicago, reported profit of $103,281, equal to $1.03 a share, for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30. In the preceding year profit was $109,960, or $1.09 a share. Sales were $2,220,596, against $1,886,881 in the preceding year.

Lift Federal Trade Shackles to Aid Defense, Group Demands

With emphasis on modifications of labor policies, elimination of governmental competition with business, and revision of tax laws, the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday outlined a nine-point program which it said was "urgently needed" to restore small industry and business to a sound footing under the defense program.

The recommendations were made in answer to an inquiry from Senator James E. Murray [D., Mont.], chairman of a special senate committee appointed recently to study problems of smaller business enterprises. James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the association, listed these suggestions:

1. Elimination of the "hostile" government attitude toward business and industry, both large and small.

Revise Labor Policies.

2. Changes in the Wagner labor relations act, the wage-hour act, and the Walsh-Healey government contracts act.

3. Removal of "unwarranted obstacles which the securities act has placed in the path of business executives who require additional funds."

4. Abolishment of "tax-free, rent-free and cost-free" governmental competition with private business.

5. A change in administrative policies of various governmental agencies which "are constantly harassing employers thru unfair rules and regulations."

6. Revision of tax laws which are "unduly burdensome and which penalize companies already burdened with debt, making no allowance for previous losses when taxing profits."

7. A check on the "alarming growth of burocracy, which has become a real menace to business."

Seek Experienced Employés.

8. Creation of standards for replacing inexperienced governmental employés with others experienced in business and industrial affairs.

9. Less "undue" regulation of industry and business, which for the "last 8 years have been bound hand and foot by an endless maze of governmental regulations."

Donnelly asserted: "Industry cannot, as a continuing arrangement, furnish maximum employment at high wage standards unless industry and business are treated by the government as a partner instead of an enemy in serving society."

He said that these recommendations, altho designed for small business, apply with equal importance to large-scale industry.

MARKET HOLIDAY

Security, live stock, and commodity markets in United States, Canada, and Great Britain will be closed today. All except the Winnipeg grain exchange will reopen for business as usual tomorrow. The Winnipeg exchange will observe Boxing day, traditionally observed on Dec. 26 in all British markets, but skipped this year by all except Winnipeg because of the war.

ASK ARMS WORK FOR MIDWEST'S SMALL PLANTS

Drive Is Under Way at Kansas City.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 24.—Efforts to bring defense contracts to the little industrial plants of middle western states in this area are under way here. The movement had its inception last summer when business men became alarmed over the flight of workers and then of machines toward the big industrial areas where defense business already had created a demand.

J. C. Nichols of defense commission aids contract drive.

As a means of counteracting this movement, and, they believe, also as the only means of making the defense program effective, chamber of commerce and civic officials sought to bring defense business and the small producers together.

The states involved are primarily agricultural: Missouri, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Arkansas. The program calls for de-

The World's Meat Market

CHICAGO is the greatest meat market in the world. Live stock from twenty-seven states is received here and after passing through the great packing plants is shipped as beef, mutton, ham and other meat products to all quarters of the globe. More often than not the "Roast Beef of Old England" comes from Chicago. From Shanghai to Rio Janiero, the civilized world dines on Chicago meat.

An average of two and a half million dollars worth of live stock is sold each day within the five hundred acres on the south side covered by the stock yards. The output of the Chicago yards alone could supply the entire population of the twenty-five largest cities in the United States. If the employees of this industry were grouped in one community they would form a city equal in size to Minneapolis, yet we rarely appreciate the proportions of this enterprise or its importance to this city and the meat consumers of the world.

Every Chicagoan can look to the Union Stock Yards as an institution which has contributed liberally to the city's greatness.

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the Fourth, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

The 20 years since this advertisement was first published have witnessed an increase in the scope of Chicago's live stock and meat packing industry. It is not only the greatest live stock and meat market in the world but it now contributes to the nation's medicine cabinet as well. More than 100 health-giving pharmaceuticals have been developed from the by-products of the industry.

ADVANCE LIFTS STOCKS OUT OF EIGHT DAY RUT

Steel Issues Point Way for Modest Improvement

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—A little yuletide cheer seeped into the stock market today and bidding revived sufficiently to break an eight-session stalemate with a modest general advance.

Steels were among the best performers altho early advances running to a point or so were shaded at the close. A handful of isolated issues stepped up around 2. Many leaders, however, were unable to follow the trend and minor losses were well distributed.

Average Rises Slightly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .2 of a point at 43.2, the first plus sign posted by this composite since Dec. 13.

While the market had plenty of good business news to go on, including a 10-year peak for retail spending, a record steel production rate and a historical high for heavy building construction awards, principal credit for the day's right-about was given the improved technical position of the list after its lengthy stalemate.

Attendance was light in boardrooms, but the few customers who appeared seemed to feel that rallying chances were good, and began to reinstate commitments previously shelved.

An exchange membership sold for $33,000, duplicating the year's low.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices were mixed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but gains slightly outnumbered losses. Of the 96 active issues 37 advanced, 30 declined, and 29 were unchanged. Turnover totaled 28,000 shares during the trading session, which was shortened from 3 to 2 o'clock by the board of governors. Chicago corporation, the volume leader, closed at 1, up ⅛.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Gains of fractions to more than a point in a selected group of low priced rails contrasted with generally narrow changes in other sections of the bond market today.

Moderate demand for some of the carrier obligations followed publication of a compilation showing the first 12 roads reporting for November had a slightly larger operating income than in that month last year. The same roads showed a substantial drop in October when compared with the like 1939 month.

United States government loans ended 18-32 point higher to 9-32 lower in light trading.

Foreign dollar obligations were featured by a rise of 5½ points to 83 in Sydney 5½s and a gain of 1 in Australia 4½s at 48.. Japan 5½s and Denmark 4½s were among loans declining a point or more.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares declined 2 points and Continental Illinois advanced half a point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other leading issues were unchanged.

MILL PURCHASES BRING UPTURN IN WHEAT FUTURES

Buying of wheat futures attributed to mills against an improved demand for flour kept prices on the upgrade yesterday. Closing trades were at the top with gains of ⅞ to 1⅛ cents.

Corn gained ¾ to 1 cent with cash interests and shorts on the buying side. Oats closed ⅝ cent and rye ⅜ cent higher. There was no pressure on the soy bean market and closing trades were 2⅛ to 2⅝ cents higher. Limited receipts, only 6 cars at Chicago, had considerable influence on sentiment.

Lard was active and 7½ to 10 cents higher. The January delivery closed at $4.65, or 60 cents per 100 pounds above the low price on Dec. 18.

COMMODITY LIST UNEVEN; FAILS TO ESTABLISH TREND

Hides, Wool Tops Higher; Copper Holds Firm.

Commodity futures markets idled yesterday for the most part and failed to establish a trend. Hides, wool tops and cottonseed oil advanced and sugar, silk and cocoa were lower. Copper was unchanged and rubber and Santos coffee were irregular. Cash prices were generally firm.

Metal markets were at a virtual standstill as copper continued at 11 cents in May contracts and no sales were made in lead, zinc or tin futures. Cash metals remained steady.

On an advance of 0.10 to 0.12 cent a pound, cottonseed oil rose to new 1940 highs in May and July deliveries, at 6.18 and 6.24 cents, respectively.

Wool Tops Advance.

Supported by strength in the December contract, which expired at noon, woll tops added 0.5 to 0.6 cent a pound at $1.07 2-10 bid in May futures. The cash market, however, lost 1 cent at $1.18½ bid. Hides were ahead 0.08 to 0.10 cent a pound at 12.40 cents bid in June.

Rubber futures were 0.05 cent a pound higher to 0.10 cent lower and the cash price held at 20.75 cents. Prices follow:

PAY ADDITIONAL $1 ON HERSHEY SENIOR STOCK

Yellow Truck Clears All Arrears on Common.

Directors of Hershey Chocolate corporation, Hershey, Pa., yesterday voted an "additional" dividend of $1 together with the regular quarterly payment of $1 on the convertible preference stock. The usual 75 cent disbursement on the common also was authorized.

A special dividend of 25 cents was declared by the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company, Springfield, Mass., in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.12.

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company, Pontiac, Mich., ordered a dividend of $2.25 on the common stock, clearing accumulations and entitling the issue to receive payments in the future equal to those made on class B stock. General Motors corporation owns all the common stock outstanding.

Solar Aircraft Votes 25c.

The regular semi-annual dividend of 25 cents on the preferred A stock was declared by the Solar Aircraft company, San Diego, Cal., which manufactures exhaust manifolds and other small airplane parts. Edmund T. Price, president, said that a new high in shipments and orders on hand had been reached.

Directors of the Kendall company, Walpole, Mass., maker of bandages and drug store specialties, voted an interim dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. The company last paid 25 cents in July.

TOOL COMPANIES SPENT 50 MILLION FOR EXPANSIONS

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Machine tool companies since the war began abroad have spent more than $50,000,000 for new equipment and plant additions, and plans are under way to further wider facilities, American Machinist, trade publication, said today.

"Plant expansions of considerable size are getting under way," the publication said. "Three companies will provide new facilities, over and above those already built the past year, under terms of the contract with the government. Announcements of other factory enlargements are expected soon.

"The industry is unanimously of the opinion that it could do a much better job of planning production ahead if Washington could provide a blueprint of what the load will be. Thus far Washington has been unable to do this."

ILLINOIS BELL TO CARRY OUT REFUNDING PLAN

Directors of the Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday instructed officers to proceed with the details of its plan for issuing $50,000,000 of refunding bonds.

All terms of the issue have not yet been decided, officers said, but the new bonds will bear interest at the rate of 2¾ per cent and will mature in 30 to 40 years, probably 35.

Preparations for registering the new issue are under way and a statement is expected to be filed with the Securities and Exchange commission before Jan. 1.

Proceeds of the new issue will be used to retire $45,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage 3½ per cent bonds, series B, to pay the premium on the called bonds and to reimburse the company's treasury for additions and betterments to the property.

UNION PACIFIC'S 1941 EQUIPMENT ORDERS 15 MILLION

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 24 (AP).—The Union Pacific railroad has $15,712,500 in new equipment on order for delivery in 1941, President W. M. Jeffers said today.

Among the purchases are 15 4-8-8-4 locomotives, being built by the American Locomotive company. They are designed for fast freight service, can burn either coal or fuel oil, and will weigh 1,187,500 pounds. They will have a maximum operating speed of 70 miles an hour altho parts were designed for a maximum of 80 miles an hour.

Other orders include 1,000 fifty ton steel ballast cars, 300 fifty-ton steel flat cars, 50 seventy-two ton steel gondola cars, 2,000 fifty ton lightweight steel box cars, and 250 fifty ton steel auto cars.

Illinois Coal Production Is Slightly Above Year Ago

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 24 (AP).—November coal production was slightly larger than a year ago and markedly higher than in October of this year. The total was 4,230,360 tons, the mines and minerals department announced today. October production was 3,723,842 tons and November last year, 4,228,066 tons.

basis of letting contracts. In case of national emergency, Commander Esler said, competitive bidding likely would be suspended and all yards in the 9th district pressed into service.

Some work already has been placed with builders in the 9th naval district which is made up of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan.

The American Shipbuilding company has contracts for 12 net tenders to be completed in the spring. These ships, 200 feet long and all steel, will bring the company several millions of dollars. The work, however, is being done at the Cleveland and Lorain, O., plants and none has found its way into the South Chicago plant.

Submarine Chasers Built.

In Bay City, Mich., the De Foe Boat and Motor works, has constructed two 170 foot steel submarine chasers, and has a contract to build four 220 foot mine sweepers. After improving its plant for the work, the Manitowoc Shipbuilding company, Manitowoc, Wis., has landed a contract for construction of a navy submarine.

The Fisher Boat works, Detroit, Mich., has built two torpedo-carrying, 70 foot, high speed mosquito boats. The company also has a contract for two experimental sub chasers, each 110 feet in length. Naval authorities will study the two boats, built on different designs, to settle on standardized plans for future work.

A Washington, D. C., announcement said the navy has under consideration an offer of the Lake Superior Shipbuilding company, of Superior, Wis., to construct four 10,000 barrel self-propelled fuel oil barges for delivery at the Norfolk, Va., navy yard, for $4,368,895.

List Approved Companies.

Companies in the 9th naval district which have been approved in the naval survey, and whose officials have been invited to bid on government work up to 250 foot vessels, are:

American Shipbuilding company, with plants at South Chicago, Cleveland, and Lorain, O.; Great Lakes Engineering Works, River Rouge, Mich., and Ashtabula, O.; Toledo Shipbuilding company, Toledo, O.; Manitowoc Shipbuilding company, Manitowoc, Wis.; Sturgeon Bay Shipbuilding company, Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; De Foe Boat and Motor Works, Bay City, Mich.; Calumet Shipyards and Dry Dock company; Leathem Smith Coal and Shipbuilding company, Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; Dubuque Boat and Boiler Works, Dubuque, Ia.; Marine Iron and Shipbuilding company, Duluth, Minn.; Mound City Shipyards and Dock company, Mound City, Ill., and Burger Boat company, Manitowoc, Wis.

Companies invited to bid on smaller boat construction work include the three companies in the Chicago area and 35 others in the 9th naval district.

POWER OUTPUT IN CHICAGO AND NATION AT PEAKS

Output of electricity by the Commonwealth Edison company in the Chicago area and by the electric light and power industry of the United States climbed to new records last week as defense operations steadily expanded.

Commonwealth Edison company reported its output aggregated 157,437,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 153,000,000 a week earlier and 142,325,000 in the corresponding week in 1939. Production was 10.6 per cent above a year ago.

Output in the United States aggregated 2,910,914,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 2,862,402,000 in the preceding week and 2,641,458,000 in the corresponding week last year. The gain was 10.2 per cent above a year ago. The central industrial area showed the largest upturn.

FOREIGN BANKS LICENSED FOR SHORTER PERIODS

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—State banking authorities are granting license renewals to foreign banking agencies here for only three-month periods, compared with the one-year term that had been customary for many years, it was learned today.

The new policy is understood to be applied impartially to all foreign agencies, regardless of nationality. There are 31 foreign agencies affected by the ruling in this district, representing some $500,000,000 in assets.

Officials of the state banking board refused to comment on the changed policy, but it was understood that license renewal periods were shortened to permit tighter control over these foreign agencies during the present international crisis.

centralization of defense business on a scale never before achieved.

It calls for the establishment of assembly plants, especially for aircraft, in areas which do not have large industries which fit directly into the defense program now. The many parts that go to make up the assembled product—be it aircraft, tank, or whatever—would be farmed out to the small plants which have only a few lathes, drills, gear cutters, etc.

Airplane assembly plants already have been allocated to this area and are under construction. One has been awarded to Kansas City, Kas., just across the line from this city. It will be a manufacturing and assembly plant of 1,000,000 square feet of space and is expected to employ a maximum of 15,000 persons. North American Aviation, Inc., will operate the plant on a management contract basis, tho the plant will be fully government owned.

Making New Bomber.

A new and improved version of the B-25, twin engine medium bomber, being produced in the Inglewood, Cal., plant of North American, will be made in the new plant.

A similar plant will be operated by Glenn L. Martin company at Omaha, Neb., where two engined bombers will be made. At Tulsa, Okla., a four engine bomber plant will be run by Consolidated Aircraft corporation. Another plant to be operated by North American is under construction in Dallas, Tex.

The sponsors of decentralization in this area, however, hope that all this is only the beginning. And they believe that they have a strong "friend in court."

He is J. C. Nichols, Kansas City real estate man, who is a member of the national defense advisory commission. Nichols, who was appointed July 6, and has been in Washington, D. C., almost constantly since then, is director of the miscellaneous equipment division under the production department of the commission. Under Nichols' supervision are purchased nearly one-third of the items being bought in the defense program.

Wants Every Plant Busy

"I feel strongly that we must spread our production to every small community of the nation," said Nichols in an interview in his office here today. "I visualize every plant—even those with no more than 25 employes—making whatever parts it is equipped to make.

"I've been urging for several months that the government set up its own assembly plants. Then it should complete surveys of production facilities for parts needed in those plants."

Another method, Nichols said, would be to create local agencies in key cities. These would see that all plants in the area were surveyed completely to determine what they can produce, and then would sponsor the assembly plant. He conceded this latter plan is fraught with difficulty, investors asking what would happen to their investment when the defense construction ends.

Many Fear Red Tape.

Decentralization, Nichols said, means that the small industrialists will have to be told how to coöperate. Because of the complexity and red tape involved in letting government contracts, many small industrialists "are afraid of them." Observations in Kansas City, indicated, also, that many smaller industrialists shy away because of the tendency to consider a plant guilty until proved innocent once a labor charge has been filed against it.

"No one should be denied a right to take part in the defense production until he is proved guilty of violating the labor laws," Nichols said.

"We have offered in Kansas City to make a typical demonstration of what can be done toward bringing the little industries into the picture. Surveys were made and are on file in Washington."

Prepare Study of Facilities.

C. M. Woodard, commissioner of trade development in the chamber of commerce, went to Washington in May and made contact with W. H. McReynolds, then assistant to the President, who later was named to work with the national defense advisory commission. Woodard returned to Kansas City, and the chamber prepared a brochure outlining the facilities and characteristics of this area, which he then took back to the capital, distributing 200 "where they would do the most good."

"Later," Woodard said, "I began to meet brick walls. I called for help, and a committee of representative citizens, including Mr. Nichols, went down. We talked to everyone we could see on this thesis: the middle west has suffered for various reasons—drouth, lack of market due to unfair freight rates resulting from the Panama Canal traffic, the loss of our young men who are lured to airplane factories on the west coast, etc. Therefore, it seems logical that the middle west is entitled to some of this defense business."

Instructed in Bidding.

After Nichols was named to the defense commission, Woodard continued to keep in contact with developments in the capital. Later the chamber of commerce called meetings of various industrial groups, such as box, bag, or dress manufacturers, to instruct them in the routine of bidding on government contracts. Some industrialists, even so, continued reluctant to seek the business, some recalling experiences of the last war when they said they made no profit on contracts. Others were hesitant because of the labor provisions. They did not object to the wage hour law, but some shied away from the Walsh-Healy act, under which they pay the prevailing wage as determined by the department of labor if they have contracts exceeding $10,000 from the government. Some held back because of a bond requirement, and others were not sure of getting raw materials.

Meanwhile, two other steps had been taken. In July representatives of the nine states of the area met in Kansas City and for two days discussed what they could do to get contracts, and laid plans for future work.

Also, Mayor John B. Gage of Kansas City called a meeting of mayors of three surrounding cities, Kansas City, Kans.; North Kansas City, and Independence, Mo. The outgrowth was formation of the "mid central war resources board," of which Lou Holland is president. Under his direction, 15,000 questionnaires were sent to industries, large and small, in Kansas and western Missouri. All the data, including lists of equipment in each plant, has been cataloged.

ENGINEERING AWARDS THIS YEAR REACH NEW PEAK; NEAR 4 BILLIONS

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Engineering awards for the last week totaled $75,341,000, Engineering News-Record reported today. This brought the year's total to $3,987,243,000, the highest volume ever reported by that organization.

The 1940 aggregate was 1 per cent above the previous record of $3,950,315,000 in 1929 and was 33 per cent larger than last year. Defense awards boosted federal contracts for the year to a level more than four times that of 1939. Private awards were 31 per cent larger.

The Christmas week volume was 68 per cent higher than the same week a year ago. It was the seventeenth consecutive week in which contracts have exceeded year ago values. The week's awards compared as follows:

	This week [4 days]	Previous week. [5 days]	Year Ago. [4 days]
Private	$18,049,000	$39,329,000	$14,778,000
State and municipal	18,985,000	21,942,000	25,294,000
Federal	38,307,000	69,864,000	4,656,000
Total	75,341,000	131,135,000	44,728,000

N. Y. EXCHANGE MAY TEST SEC POWER IN COURT

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—Governors of the New York Stock exchange on Thursday are expected to decide what to do about the Securities and Exchange commission's request that the exchange rescind its ban on multiple trading. President William Martin will fly back for the meeting from his family Christmas in St. Louis, weather permitting.

Sentiment does not appear to have changed among the governors, who are expected to vote almost unanimously to test the commission's authority to issue such an order.

Under the securities exchange act of 1934, if the exchange does not accede by Dec. 28, the commission must set a date for hearings. If it orders the ban removed, the exchange is expected to ask a court ruling on the right of the commission to do so.

The exchange's rule forbids its members to make markets [act as specialists] on other exchanges in issues which also are listed on the New York board.

STEEL BOOKINGS FOR STRUCTURAL USE EXCEED 1939

November structural steel bookings totaled 129,257 tons, sharply under the 235,146 for October but well ahead of the 99,316 for November, 1939, the American Institute of Steel Construction announced yesterday.

The October-November tapering, the institute said, represented "a hesitation and not a halt in plans for defense." The October bookings were the largest for any month of the year.

For the first eleven months incoming structural business totaled 1,526,536 tons, compared with 1,220,666 in the 1939 period. The aggregate, however, was sharply below the 3,300,220 tons for the eleven months of 1929, a big building year.

Structural steel shipments in November were 136,827 tons, compared with 128,231 in the 1939 month, and for the first 11 months were 1,340,774, against 1,323,888.

BALDWIN SHOWS HUGE INCREASE IN ORDERS, BACKLOG

New York, Dec. 24 (AP).—Charles E. Brinley, president, Baldwin Locomotive works, announced today that the dollar value of orders taken in November by Baldwin and its subsidiary companies was $47,070,350, compared with $9,923,194 for November, 1939. The month's bookings brought the total for the group for the 11 months of 1940 to $157,022,063 as compared with $63,118,558 in the same period of 1939.

On Nov. 30, 1940, consolidated unfilled orders amounted to $153,474,856, compared with $44,215,799 on Jan. 1, 1940, and with $44,626,364 Nov. 30, 1939.

MONEY, GOLD AND SILVER

The Canadian dollar closed with a loss of ⅛ of a cent in the foreign exchange market yesterday. The Argentine free peso declined .06 of a cent and the Hongkong dollar also recorded a slight loss. Other currency rates were unchanged.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP).—Bar silver, 34¾c per ounce; unchanged.

PREDICT LONGER WORKING WEEK IN STEEL MILLS

Other Steps Forecast to Speed Arms Program.

The work week in the steel industry probably will be lengthened and the priority system may be extended as a result of government efforts to accelerate the defense program, Iron Age said yesterday.

"The national administration's efforts to speed rearmament and aid Great Britain soon will have important reactions in the steel industry and its metal working branches," the publication said in its weekly review.

"There were strong indications in Washington, D. C., of a tightening of government control over industry and labor. Extension of the system of priorities, spreading of defense work thru subcontracts to manufacturers not now engaged in such work, and extension of the work week are probable results.

Extend Priorities System.

"By order of the President, the scope of the priorities system has been extended to subcontractors, which include the steel and machine tool industries. The amended order gives the priorities board of the defense commission control over all orders for defense, whether direct or indirect.

"More rigid control over machine tools may be exercised immediately. Formal priorities on steel will come about more gradually, but in all probability will first be applied to British orders. Some companies which have not supplied much steel to Britain have been asked to provide larger quantities."

The steel scrap market was termed strong, with No. 1 heavy melting steel up 50 cents a ton at Cleveland and Youngstown, O., and 25 cents at Chicago. Iron Age's scrap composite reached the highest level of 1940 at $21.42.

Iron Ore Output Soars.

Another survey disclosed that iron ore production and shipments boomed in 1940 to keep up with soaring demand for steel. Employment increased proportionately with some districts reporting more men at work than at any time since 1937.

The Sault Sainte Marie canal, tapping iron-rich Minnesota and Michigan to supply the furnaces of the Chicago and Pittsburgh areas, carried more than 66,000,000 tons of ore by the end of November, an all-time record.

Iron ore shipments from Minnesota mines, which supplied 61 per cent of total United States production in 1939, totaled about 46,500,000 tons this season.

All 14 active iron mines near Marquette, Mich., are operating on a 40 hour five day week basis and officials said this schedule would continue into next summer if demand continued. Shipments from the port of Marquette in 1940 totaled about 5,500,000 tons, another record high.

HUDSON MOTOR PLANS FOR BIG DEFENSE WORK

New York, Dec. 24 [Special].—The Hudson Motor Car company soon will address letters to stockholders of record on Dec. 27 calling a special meeting for Jan. 11 to vote on a proposal to amend its charter to broaden the purposes for which it was formed, it was disclosed today. This step is believed essential by the management as a measure preliminary to its engaging actively in several branches of the preparedness program which will involve large expenditures for additions to plant and equipment.

As an initial step in this direction, the corporation will enter into a contract with the government to operate a new ordnance plant to be built for the United States navy in the Detroit area at a cost of $12,000,000, it was learned.

11 MONTHS' AUTO SALES 3,716,584; FAR ABOVE 1939

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 24 (AP).—Reporting the heaviest November retail sales of new passenger cars and trucks in the United States that the industry ever has experienced, the Automobile Manufacturers' association said today that total sales for the first 11 months of 1940 were 3,144,396 cars, 28 per cent above 1939, and 572,188 trucks, 19 per cent higher.

November sales totaled 334,520 cars and 57,348 commercial vehicles.
